row of ten houses on G pleted.

A neat residence on the east side for Mr. Wilson, of Wilson Bros' mill.

J. M. Weatherwax is building a row of neat tenement houses on Heron street.

City Attorney Bush, a neat residence on H street, between Market and First.

Frank Kellogg has erected a frame dwelling on the east side of the Wishkah.

A small dwelling house, corner of Market and I, built by Shelly Bros. for F. R. Wall.

Five buildings between L and H streets on Second have been erected by Jacob Weatherwax.

Ross Pinckney, a very attractive looking residence built for himself on First street, near G.

John W. Farquhar has had built a commodious dwelling on G street, between Wishkah and Market.

Among the buildings going up is a dwelling house for Mr. Burley in the Highland Home addition.

John Creech and Floyd Creech, residences for themselves on adjoining lots on Third street on the hill.

Two residences on the hill—one opposite the Catholic church and the other near Second and Broadway

The school house on the east side is now completed. It is one of the most attractive looking buildings in Aberdeen.

Quite an attractive residence on H street, built by I. W. Mason. The work done for Messrs. Farquhar and Angelo.

Wm. Lanning is building a neat cottage on First street, near E, as a residence for himself. He expects to complete it soon.

J. A. West and Eaton have added to the number of houses on the east side. They each built near the new school house.

Mr. Beardsley, sr., has his house on Highland Home, begun some time since, and it is a charming residence in a picturesque location.

J. H. Rowland has built a small house on First street, near H, in which he will batch it until a larger dwelling can be erected on the south end of his lot.

A number of neat dwellings are going up on Highland Home, among them one by Jno. C. Smith, the carpenter, which is ready for occupancy. It is a neat cottage and has a fine view of the Harbor.

Jas. Stewart's residence in Highland Home is one of the finest in the country. One particularly interesting feature of the house is that the fire-places, instead of being made of fire brick, are of native stone, quarried by Mr. Stewart from the quarry near his house and finished off by him.
