

Eczema

How it reddens the skin, itches, oozes, crabs and scales! Some people call it tetter, milk crust or salt rheum.

The suffering from it is sometimes intense; local applications are resorted to—they mitigate, but cannot cure.

Hood's Sarsaparilla positively removes them, has radically and permanently cured the worst cases, and is without an equal for all cutaneous eruptions.

HIS MODEST DESIRE.

"All we ask," said the long-suffering taxpayer, breathing a gentle sigh, "is to be moderately overtaxed."—Puck.

Second Bee—Hoot, mon! I learned how to swear when I learned how to sting.—Puck.

The Blood HEALTHY OR DISEASED

When there is a natural and healthy circulation of the blood, the entire quantity, estimated at one-eighth the weight of the body, passes through the heart every five minutes. This rapid flow of the blood through the system prevents the entrance of disease germs and impurities of every description.

The Blood is the Source of All Strength more, especially among old people, whose blood naturally grows thin and pale because of the lack of the red corpuscles that give color and strength to youthful blood.

Polluted Blood Breeds Disease more filled with new rich blood, the general health begins to improve, muscles grow stronger, and sores and eruptions of every kind disappear.

S. S. S. is the only guaranteed purely vegetable blood purifier, and the purest and most reliable in all blood diseases. It has been tested in thousands of cases during the past fifty years and is more popular today than ever.

The Typewriter Invention. A statistician has proved that the invention of the typewriter has given employment to 500,000 people, but he fails to state how many cases of weak stomachs and dyspepsia it has induced.

AFTER THE PROPOSAL. He—And you can't give me any hope? She—Oh! Yes! I can! I'm quite sure you'll get all over this.—Puck.

A NARROW ESCAPE

An Indiana Woman's Terrible Experience.

"It was a frightful experience and I never expected to come out alive," said Mrs. Ellen Bowman, of No. 82 Windsor block, Indianapolis, Ind., in the course of an interview recently published in the Sun of that city.

"I do not suppose it ever would have happened," she continued, "but, some years ago I began to worry and to do more work than I ought. This brought on a general physical weakness, my blood became thin and I grew nervous. I went to a doctor and he said I had consumption."

"Did he advise any course of treatment?" "Yes, he gave me some medicine which I took, but it did me no good. Other doctors failed to help me and I became despondent of ever getting well. My limbs ached, my head was dizzy and I was most miserable."

"No, and I don't feel as if I ever had," said she. "I owe my present health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. About four years ago a friend from Ohio recommended the pills to me, saying they had benefited his daughter whose symptoms were similar to mine, so I began to use them. It was only a very short time before I experienced relief. I have recommended the pills to many, for I am confident that benefit will follow their use."

There is hardly a person who does not worry at times, and fret about things that go wrong. And worry is responsible for as much sickness as any other cause. It interferes with the action of the stomach and racks the nerves. The result is that the blood becomes poor and the nervous system impaired.

For seven years Murkerjee studied English under an American missionary residing in Calcutta. After mastering the tongue he came to America to study medicine, believing the training that he would get here would be of more benefit to him than that of the Calcutta Medical College. When a boy he attended the high school of his native city and had the best tutors procurable.

"THE FIRE OF GENIUS." Isaac—Nobody can tell how dot last fire of Levy's originated. Abrams—Ach, no! Dot Levy was an original genius!—Puck.

LAD WAS DROWNED AND IS LIVING.

John Schaefer is 17 years old and has weak lungs. He went swimming in Brooklyn, and sank to the bottom of the river. He was there for forty minutes. Doctors pronounced him dead. Dr. G. D. Barney worked over the lad for an hour and started the machinery of life again. The boy is well. Dr. Barney said:

"I grabbed him by the heels and shook the water out of him. I pulled his tongue out and wrapped a handkerchief around it. 'Now, then,' I said to one of the bystanders, 'you hold that boy's tongue out, work it back and forth, and don't let it go for an instant.' I manipulated the abdomen and pounded the chest wall with all my strength. Toward the last I put pretty nearly my entire weight on the chest wall and diaphragm as I alternately pressed and released the body.

"When I had the arms brought up from the sides over the chest in an effort to induce artificial respiration. I rubbed the chest and sides with alcohol and kept up this friction constantly."

"I had been working about three-quarters of an hour when I saw a tiny bubble at the end of the boy's nose. I went at it again. Fifteen minutes afterward the boy gave one quick gasp. 'Presently there were two or three gasps. The boy had been dead and he was coming back to life!'"

"After this I will never give up in a case of asphyxiation until actual degeneration of tissues sets in. I believe that when the machinery of the body is intact there is always hope of starting it again. The recovery of the Schaefer boy is against all precedent and all medical teaching."

Prince's Son as Student. Entering the graduating class of 1902 at the Hahnemann Medical College is one of the brightest and most interesting foreign students who has ever taken the course, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. His name is Amar Nath Murkerjee, which means "Immortal" Murkerjee. He is 26 years old and is a native of Calcutta, India.

For seven years Murkerjee studied English under an American missionary residing in Calcutta. After mastering the tongue he came to America to study medicine, believing the training that he would get here would be of more benefit to him than that of the Calcutta Medical College. When a boy he attended the high school of his native city and had the best tutors procurable.

He comes of a royal family of India, his father being a prince and his sister owning and running a newspaper in Calcutta. One of his brothers controls many tea fields. Despite his royal birth Murkerjee is modest and reticent and is a good scholar. After his graduation he will go to Edinburgh to finish his medical studies.

A Queen's Arm 6,000 Years Old. Exploration has now revealed relics of Menes, the founder of Egyptian monarchy, fashioned more than 6,500 years ago. Till quite recently he was regarded as purely mythical.

There has also been discovered the forearm of the Queen of Zer, the successor to Menes, still in its wrappings, with four splendid bracelets intact. This brilliant and exquisitely finished group of jewelry is 2,000 years older than the jewelry of Dahshur, the oldest yet known, and had the great advantage of being carefully examined, as it was found and rewrapped in exact arrangement. The arm of the queen had been broken off by the first plunderers, and laid in a hole in the wall of the tomb, and there remained neglected by four parties in ancient and modern times, who successively cleared the tomb.

A Holy Brick. The Italian steamship Regina Margherita, lately arrived at Buenos Ayres from Italy, has brought one of the most extraordinary parcels that has ever appeared in the manifest of any vessel, i. e., a holy brick. We do not mean a jolly friar in holy orders. He would not be manifested. We mean a real brick, a squared mass of burned clay, declared to be holy because it was taken from the Holy Gate in the Vatican. The parcel is forwarded by the Pope to Argentina as a mark of special distinction.—Argentina Times.

What Average Man Eats. Every man, woman and child in the United States last year consumed 4 1/2 bushels of wheat and wheat flour and 6.5 pounds of coffee and a pound of tea. The per capita consumption of liquors was: Distilled spirits, 1.27 gallons; malt liquors, 16.01 gallons, and wines, .40 gallon.

Art is long—judging by the length of time the average woman lingers in front of her mirror.

The Absence of It. If there is any truth in the saying that happiness is the absence of all pain, mental and physical, the enjoyment of it can only be found in heaven. But so far as the physical is concerned, it is within easy reach; at least measurably so, as far as cure will go. The sum of human misery in this line is made up of greater or less degrees of physical suffering. The minor aches and pains which afflict mankind are easy to reach and as easily cured. There are none in the whole category, which, if taken in time, cannot be cured. They must in some form afflict the nerves, the bones, the muscles and joints of the human body. They are all more or less hurtful and wasteful to the system. St. Jacobs Oil is made to cure them, to search out hidden pain spots, and to cure promptly in a true remedial and lasting way. Very, very many have not known happiness for years till they used it, and very many are putting off cure and happiness because they don't use it.

REGRETS. "Doctor, you told me three months ago that if you didn't perform an operation on me, I would be a dead man in twenty-four hours."

A Very Wicked Man. An old Georgia negro arose in prayer meeting and said: "Bredderin and sisterin, I been a mighty mean nigger in my time. I had a heap er ups and downs—specially downs—since I jined de church. I stole chickens and water millins. I cussed. I got drunk. I shot craps. I slashed under coons wid my razors, an' I done er shter or udder things; but, thank the good Lawd, bredderin and sisterin, I never yet lost my religion."

CAUGHT NAPPING. Edith—As the clock struck twelve, she said, he proposed. Ethel—And I suppose she said, "This is so sudden."

An Incomplete House. We run wild over the furnishings of a house; its furniture, carpets, hangings, pictures and music, and always forget or neglect the most important requisite. Something there should be always on the shelf to provide against sudden casualties or attacks of pain. Such come like a thief in the night; a sprain, strain, sudden backache, toothache or neuralgic attack. There is nothing easier to get than a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, and nothing surer to cure quickly any form of pain. The house is incomplete without it. Complete it with a good supply.

FOR OBVIOUS REASONS. "You ain't got none of the boarders you had last year, have you Jabez?" "Well, no! We didn't expect any of 'em."—Puck.
