Cured Consumption.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Charwater, Kan., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago and since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by W. B. Paine & Co.

THE CITY MOURNS

THE DEATH OF HARRY A. HAYES, WHO PASSED AWAY TUESDAY.

No Event Since the Fire Has So Shocked the People of Aberdeen as the Death of Its Popular Young Banker. Flags Fly at Half Mast.

After five weeks battle with typhoid fever, complicated with other troubles, Harry A. Hayes departed this life, at the Aberdeen General hospital, at 10:45 o'clock Tuesday morning, March 28, 1904; aged 41 years, 11 months and 26 days. While quite a young man in years, perhaps the death of no other individual in Aberdeen would have caused the sum total of regret that has been occasioned by that of Mr. Hayes. So closely has he been identified with all the commercial interests of Aberdeen, and, it may be said, of Grays Harbor, for the past fifteen years that his loss is a serious one, not only to his bereaved family and distressed relatives, but to his numerous business associates. In fact, it has been well said, that it would be impossible to conceive of an individual on Grays Harbor whose taking off would cause more genuine mourning than Harry A. Hayes.

HARRY A. HAYES.

Mr. Hayes was stricken with typhoid fever about five weeks ago, and was taken to the hospital, where his complaint has been aggravated by appendix troubles of old standing, so that, although his many friends hoped for the best, yet his position was very critical from the start. Still the news of his death Tuesday morning was a shock to Aberdeen.

His father, Dr. R. F. Hayes, of Freeport, Illinois, came out last fall to visit his son, expecting to spend the winter in Honduras with another son, but the illness of Harry caused him to defer his southern trip, and called the brother, L. F. Hayes, from Honduras, and it is among the pleasant sad memories that the father and brother will have that they were permitted to be with Harry at the end.

The funeral has been arranged to take place next Sunday morning, services being at the Congregational church, under the auspices of the Knight Templars and other orders, of which the deceased was a respected member, in time for the body to be taken on the 10:10 train accompanied by the bereaved relatives, to Freeport, Illinois, for interment.

Harry A. Hayes was born at Buena Vista, Illinois, April 4, 1862, and was engaged in banking in Abeline, Kansas, before coming to Aberdeen, in 1889. In this city, commencing as cashier of the First National bank, which later was merged by him into the private banking firm of Hayes & Hayes, consisting of himself and an uncle, Thomas A. Hayes, of Bellefonte, Penna. In his capacity as a banker, Mr. Hayes developed the widest sense of the business possibilities of this country, and possessed an unerring judgment in those matters that were not only profitable by his banking house, but of immense service to the interest promoted by him, as well as to the projectors. That all flags in the city of Aberdeen were at half mast for H. A. Hayes was but expressing in a public way, what thousands of the people thought in private.

Gives Health, Vigor and Tone.

Herbine is a boon for sufferers from anaemia. By its use the blood is quickly regenerated and the color becomes normal. The drooping strength is revived. The languor is diminished. Health, vigor and tone predominate. New life and happy activity results. Mrs. Belle H. Shirel, Middlesborough, Ills., writes: "I have been troubled with liver complaint and poor blood, and have found nothing to benefit me like Herbine. I hope never to be without it. I have wished that I had known of it in my husband's time." 50c. Sold by W. B. Paine & Co.

DEMOCRATIC DUTY

AS SEEN BY W. J. BRYAN IN THE COMMONER.

Decision in Merger Case Really Points the Duty for Citizenship Rather Than Partisanship. The Court Holding Must be Sustained by Public Opinion.

The decision in the merger case imposes a duty on democrats as well as upon the administration. The anti-trust law is held to be sound and effective, but it must be enforced before it can bring relief to the public. The democrats must now insist upon the enforcement of the law. Justice Holmes in his dissenting opinion says that indictments "logically ought to follow the decision," and the democrats in congress ought to insist that the attorney general either prosecute or explain why rich and powerful violators of the law are given immunity while poor and obscure violators are promptly punished. Not only should the law be enforced against those who violated it in the merger case, but it should be enforced against those who are violating it in the most innumerable trusts. Are not the steel trust, the coal trust, the oil trust, the beef trust, the salt trust, the sugar trust, the cracker trust, the tobacco trust, the whisky trust, the harvester trust, etc.—are not all of these violating the Sherman anti-trust law? Why are they permitted to live and prey upon the country? The democrats should press this question. If the administration answers that the decision does not reach a single corporation, but only a combination of corporations, the democrats should insist upon new legislation covering all private monopolies, whether they operate as a single corporation or as a group of corporations. The Kansas City platform presents a remedy and the merger decision vindicates the principle involved in that remedy.

Congress has power over interstate commerce and that power alone can deal effectively with the trusts. As long as a corporation confines itself to the state from which it derives its charter the people of that state can be trusted to deal with it, but when it crosses the state line and invades interstate commerce it comes under the supervision of congress. Congress has made it a criminal offense for two or more persons to conspire to restrain trade. This ought to cover conspiracy by persons in one corporation as well as conspiracy by persons in control of separate corporations. If it does not do so, it is easy to prepare a bill that will. The Kansas City platform proposes a measure making it unlawful for a state corporation to engage in interstate commerce without first securing a federal license or permit, and it proposes that the license or permit shall be granted only after proof that the stock of corporation is not watered and that the corporation is not trying to monopolize any branch of business or the production or sale of any article of merchandise. Here is a simple remedy; a remedy easily applied. It does not interfere with any legitimate corporation but on the contrary, aids every legitimate corporation by destroying the greedy and conscienceless monopolies.

If the democrats expect to win the confidence of the people they must propose an effective remedy. It is not sufficient to rail at republicans or to ask them for a remedy. The people are looking for relief and they demand positive, aggressive action. The trust question can be made an important issue in the coming campaign if the democrats will do their duty. Let them call the attention of the country to the question by refusing to consider anything else until satisfactory action is taken. If the republicans are required to bring in a rule for every measure and are each time reminded that the trusts still live, they will be forced to decisive action or to abject apology. Cato, after visiting Carthage, resolved never to make a speech without declaring it as his opinion that Carthage should be destroyed. The democrats in the senate and house might as well paraphrase Cato's famous saying and each day demand a vote on a resolution declaring that "private monopolies must be destroyed." The Kansas City platform points the way—will the democrats live up to that platform or run from it?
