READ CHAMP CLARK

In a Speech in the House of Representatives, March 20, 1912, Speaking on Senate Bill No. 3367, Relative to American Homesteads, Mr. Clark, said, in part

"To me the most painful feature of the day in which we live is to see a constantly increasing stream of the very best American citizens of this country going to Manitoba and Alberta. On one day in my county, one of the richest and largest and most beautiful counties under the sun, 43 families loaded up an entire freight train, as much as one of these big engines could pull, chartered the train, everyone of them in a sleeping car, and pulled out for Alberta.

"There was not a man amongst them who was not fairly well to do. Another man in my district sold his farm for $26,000, and his stock and other valuable assets ran the sum up to about $40,000. He moved to Manitoba and entered or purchased 10,000 acres of that land up there. He gave to each one of his eight children 1,000 acres, keeping 2,000 acres for himself. That is the kind of American citizens who are leaving this country and going to the British Northwest. The immigration agent up there estimates that every American citizen who goes over there carries with him on an average, $1,000. I am in favor of fixing it so that no American citizen will want to depart from the United States to secure a home in a foreign land." (Applause.)

NEW CHINESE MINISTER WAS FAMED YALE COXSWIN

Chung Mun Yew Was Classmate of President Taft's Brother.

Chung Mun Yew, the old Yale coxswain, who has been appointed minister of the Chinese republic at Washington, is perhaps more widely known in the United States than any other Chinese who has lived here. From his student days at Yale, where he steered the college boat to victory against Harvard in 1883, up to the present time he has been extremely popular in this country and has kept in close touch with American affairs, which he studied with close attention in the years he spent at Washington as interpreter at the Chinese legation.

Leaving the Hartford public school, where he made his preliminary studies, Chung entered Yale in 1883. He was made coxswain of the Yale crew and made a notable record.

He devoted much time to a scientific study of the Thames currents and wind conditions, to such good effect that Yale won that year's contest with Harvard. He was elected to the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, the only one of his race to be so honored. Chung was called back to China before completing his studies at the university.

He returned to this country some years later and was interpreter at the embassy in Washington when Dr. Wu Ting Fang was minister for the first time and served in a similar capacity under Wu's successors. From Washington Chung went to the legation at Madrid and thence to Manila, where he was Chinese consul general in 1904. He was also a member of the opium commission.

Chung's next visit to the United States was in 1909, when he came here as a member of the suit of Tang Shao Yi, now the premier of the Chinese republic and one of his warm friends. At that time there were rumors that Wu Ting Fang, again minister at Washington, was to be recalled and that Chung had been chosen to succeed him.

On his return to China Chung engaged in railroad work and gave valuable aid to the government in its various dealings with foreign financiers regarding loans for the purpose of building railroad communications. Chung is a widower. He has one son, who has been educated in the United States.

Among Chung's classmates at Yale was Horace D. Taft, brother of President Taft.

FOUND COLD ENDURING PLANT

Discovered Cherries and Apricots Thriving at 30 Below Zero.

Having discovered during two and a half years' travel that a number of fruits, plants and grasses which will stand cold equal to that of the American northwest, Frank N. Meyer, explorer for the department of agriculture, has returned to Washington. Most of his time was spent in Russia, Siberia and central Asia.

Mr. Meyer found a Siberian bush cherry which will live in a temperature nearly 40 degrees below zero. He came across an apricot which a temperature of 30 degrees below zero will not kill. Seeds and cuttings of both fruit plants were sent to this country. They will prove of value, agricultural experts believe, to farmers in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana and other cold northern states. Alfalfa which will endure much cold and various kinds of grain also were found by the explorer.

During his wanderings in Siberia, Afghanistan and other central Asian countries Mr. Meyer was arrested as a spy several times. He never was held long.

CAB DRIVER FOR CONGRESS.

"Hungry" Hogan Landed Nomination in Illinois.

"Hungry" Hogan, a Chicago cab driver, got the nomination for congressman at large on the Democratic ticket. He was put on as a joke and beat William E. Williams of Pittsfield 15,000 in Chicago.

A humorous Democratic boss named Gilligan put Hogan on the primary ticket. Hogan obtained his popularity by his appetite. It is marvelous. He spent 90 cents for campaign expenses.
