Economy Hints. A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

When mothers object to their daughters 'mussing up' the kitchen they never seem to think that they are interfering with a possible future livelihood," pouted the girl whose mother had just sent her out of the kitchen in disgust at the sight of the array of sticky dishes and saucepans that were everywhere in evidence. This was an entirely new viewpoint to the only semisymphathetic listener who had memories of former half hours of dishwashing on similar occasions and had felt very much on the mother's side of the argument. But she was forced to admit very much to herself that there was something in the daughter's way of looking at it, and when one stops to think of it, isn't there? Think of the Mary Elizabeths, the Virginias Lees and all the other girls whose names are identified with pure candy throughout the country! Isn't it more than probable that they began their work as fudge-making schoolgirls? Any one doubting that "sweetmeats," as the English call all candy made by girls, have a commercial value should look about at the neat church luncheon, bazaar or social attended and notice the popularity of the little bags of candy, contributed almost invariably by the younger members of the congregation. The candy booth is usually the first to report itself sold out. There is no appreciable reason why the same success should not be met with commercially. We are constantly being told by the "how to" doctor that American women are the greatest candy eaters in the world, so that it would seem there is always a good field for such a business enterprise, even though it sometimes appears this business is overcrowded. There is an especially good opportunity for any one who can work out original ideas or put even an old or standard commodity up in a newer and more attractive form than it has hitherto been got out in. It is an age when the public willingly and generously pays for the form and style of a package, especially when it contains a good product. The shops—those dealing in sweets especially—refuse to allow us to overlook a single holiday; consequently the production of a different kind of Easter egg or rabbit, a valentine heart or a St. Patrick's day shamrock or a variation of the time honored Fourth of July firecracker with instant recognition and, naturally, financial success. Go over our list of holidays, you girls who are interested in the making of fudge and fondant and want to earn money, and consider the opportunities here.

How to Quiet Noisy Boys. Have you never wished you could think of something to keep those noisy boys quiet Sunday mornings when nobody but boys thinks of rising as early as upon other days? A maiden aunt—always a blessing to any household—has devised this plan: Every Sunday morning, when the obstreperous ones awake, their eyes rest upon two mystic packages tied with many strings. After much undoing of knots they find within the big brown paper bags animal crackers, bits of candy, fruit and some pictures for their scrap books or any of the thousand simple things it takes to entertain a child. It takes many minutes to unearth the treasures, and by that time, the grownups are astray, having enjoyed their last morning's doze undisturbed.

How to Make Delicate Perfumes. Some of the richest and most expensive perfumes can be made in the following way: Select your blossoms, whatever essence you desire, pluck from the stems and drop into a jar half filled with almond or olive oil. Allow these flowers or leaves to lie for twenty-four hours in the oil; then squeeze through a cheesecloth bag into a perfectly clean glass dish. Repeat this operation until you have procured the desired essence. Pour this essence into a new jar and thoroughly mix with an equal quantity of pure rectified spirits. Let this mixture stand for three weeks, shaking and mixing it thoroughly every day. After this process it must be again strained, and then it is ready to be bottled for use.

How to Repair Derby Hats. If you are ever unfortunate enough to smash a new derby hat, so that it cracks and in spite of rubbing and brushing refuses to resume its pristine smoothness of surface, try the simple expedient of holding a lighted match inside the hat close to the broken spot. By the time the match has half burned out you will find the hat has become soft. If you will then brush it vigorously with a stiff brush for a moment it will regain its former smoothness and look as if nothing had ever marred its surface.

How to Improve Hard Sauce. When making hard sauce beat in a little sweet cream. It is a great improvement. The sauce will not be quite so true to its name of "hard sauce," however, as the cream softens it a little.

Rocks That Float in Water. A geologist who is well up in his business can name a dozen or twenty different specimens of rocks and minerals that have less specific gravity than water and which will, if tossed into that element, float on the surface. Hullette is one of the best known representatives of that class. The common pumice stone is another example. The rock with the very least specific gravity known is diamond, a substance found in an extinct volcano in Damara, and its atomic weight is 5, or exactly one-half that of hydrogen.

After Long Suffering Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills." We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years? Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plain and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills. Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN. Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. BROWN, 809 North Walnut Street, Iola, Kan.

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS: Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 14 years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sani-Lax. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 445 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.
