

FORMER MEMBER OF STATE LEGISLATURE

WELL KNOWN MAN GIVES HIS OPINION OF PLANT JUICE, THE NEW VEGETABLE TONIC

The following testimonial from a well known man will be read with interest. Mr. J. O. Williamson, who resides at 121 east 57th street, in Seattle, came to Washington from Maine in 1859 and is one of the oldest and best known citizens of the state.

"I am going to take another bottle of Plant Juice for my wife. She underwent a severe and complicated surgical operation a short time ago and she has never fully recovered her health. She was badly run down and her nerves were very weak. We have found Plant Juice to be the best tonic she has ever tried. It gives her strength and acts nicely on her nervous system. We are both very well pleased with it."

BLISS A GREAT ARMY ORGANIZER

He is Often Compared to Prussian General Von Moltke.

LONG MILITARY EXPERIENCE

Saw Active Service in Porto Rican Campaign and Against Moros in the Philippines—Has Been President of Army War College.

Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, who commanded the troops on the Texas border when President Wilson made his first move against Mexico, is second on the list of army brigadiers, ranking after General Funston. He is a man of scholarly as well as of military attainments and is considered one of the best linguists in the army.

Bliss became a first lieutenant in 1880 and was an honor graduate of the artillery school of the class of 1884. From October, 1885, until July, 1886, Lieutenant Bliss was in Europe collecting information at the military schools of England, France and Germany.

When he came back from Cuba he was appointed a member of the Army jumping the grades of lieutenant colonel and colonel. In November of that year General Bliss went to Cuba again as special envoy to negotiate the reciprocity treaty. Shortly after the general staff was organized, in 1893, he became a member and was also made chief of the third division of the general staff and president of the Army War college.

"The selection of General Bliss for major general would give great satisfaction throughout the army, where he is a most popular officer, and also in the country," said a recent newspaper article. "He is recognized as one of the few general officers possessed of great organizing powers. He has a broad grasp of the fundamental principles of the military art, and his selection would be made with a distinct regard for the ultimate work that will in all probability fall upon his shoulders."

"It is the firm belief that sooner or later the men will appear who can reorganize the army on the lines of the work that Von Moltke achieved in the German army before the Franco-Prussian war."

AMERICANISM.

The American idea is a free church in a free state and a free and unsectarian public school in every ward and in every village, with its doors wide open to the children of all races and of every creed. Let every man honor and love the land of his birth and the race from which he springs and keep their memory green. It is a pious and honorable duty. * * * Mere vaunting and boasting become a nation as little as a man. But honest, outspoken pride and faith in our country are infinitely better and more to be respected than the cultivated reserve which sets it down as ill bred and in bad taste ever to refer to our country except by way of deprecation, criticism or general negation.

THE MARINES.

In time o' peace their only job is lookin' trim an' neat—The coppers of the battleship, the loafers of the fleet. An' every time a congressman can't find no better means Of makin' fame he up an' yells, "Abolish the marines!" But long before the first big gun rips out its bellows' roar Them same marines drops over side an' goes an' starts the war!

FUNSTON ALWAYS FOND OF A SCRAP

Has Military Ability as Well as Love of Fighting.

COMMANDER OF BRIGADE.

Expected to Add New Honors in Mexican Trouble to Those Won in Spanish and Philippine Wars—Holder of Present Rank in Army Since 1901.

Although he could not express his emotions officially on account of his high position in the army, probably no officer in the United States army was more delighted with the prospect of war in Mexico than Brigadier General Frederick Funston, commanding a brigade in Texas when the trouble began flustering in harness is something that this little fighter from Kansas has distinct dislike for, as might be known from the rusty color of his hair. It's not quite as red, perhaps, as it was in the old days, now historic, of the Spanish and Philippine wars, when Funston's name and his red hair and his fighting proclivities were on everybody's lips, but it's still red enough to show the scrappy character of the man. Years have changed Fred Funston from the fiery fighter he was back in 1898 to one of the most capable officers of the army. He had little to learn about fighting in the good old natural way with his fists or a club, but there was a lot about military tactics a strategy and the approved methods of running a military campaign which he did not know. Funston has held his rank of brigadier general since April 1, 1901, when President McKinley promoted him in recognition of his distinguished services in effecting the capture of Emilio Aguinaldo, the commander in chief of the insurrectionists in the Philippine Islands. The romance of Funston would make a novel worthy of Dumas or Balzac.

BRIGADIER GENERAL FREDERICK FUNSTON Funston was born in Ohio in 1866 and, after a brief schooling, decided to shift for himself. He began his career as a Santa Fe train collector, and half a dozen cowboys in New Mexico and Colorado and western Kansas who laughed at the little toy collector, as they called him, put their faces in court plaster and bought new guns.

After coming back from Death valley Funston went to Alaska, still working for the government, collecting botanical specimens and making a record breaking trip through the arctic wilds.

Returning to the states, he settled down for a while, but the taste for adventure would not permit him to rest, so he decided to try his fortunes in Cuba. He enlisted as a lieutenant colonel in the Cuban army, joined a filibustering expedition and landed at Camaguey in August of 1896. After many hardships he reached the army under the command of Gomez. He got command of the artillery, a position to which he was appointed by General Gomez, and served in a score of battles of minor importance, in all of which he took a conspicuous part.

When the war with Spain was declared Funston was commissioned colonel of the Twentieth Kansas volunteers. About two months before the declaration of war Colonel Funston, married a young lady in San Francisco. When his regiment was ordered to the Philippines imperative instructions were issued forbidding the wives of the officers to accompany their husbands on the transports. Mrs. Funston, however, donned a uniform and went aboard, with a rifle over her shoulder. When a couple of days at sea her sex was discovered, and at Honolulu she was left behind. Nothing daunted, however, she took the next transport and landed in the Philippines, where she remained by her husband's side even to the firing line.

Mistakes In Mexico Draw Us Toward War

By ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE, Former United States Senator From Indiana

NO MAN IN THIS COUNTRY WANTS WAR, NOW OR EVER, UNLESS THE PRICE OF PEACE BE NATIONAL HUMILIATION OR NATIONAL DISHONOR. THE MISTAKES IN MEXICAN AFFAIRS MADE DURING THE LAST SIXTEEN MONTHS HAVE STEADILY DRAWN US TOWARD WAR, AND THE PRESENT SITUATION, INSTEAD OF PREVENTING WAR, IS SOWING THE SEEDS OF SERIOUS TROUBLE IN THE FUTURE.

What we need is a policy which will settle things in that distracted country for all time to come. But instead of this we are attempting to COVER AN ACTIVE VOLCANO WITH TISSUE PAPER, and in doing so we are destroying the work of more than a century of American statesmanship.

WOMAN TO BUY IN HOME TOWN

Quick to See Mail Order Deception.

WILL BUILD UP LOCALITY.

Realized That She Was Doing Injustice to Family and Friends by Sending Husband's Earnings to Out of Town Competitors—Now Boosts Home Trade.

[Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.] A couple of years ago I noticed while passing through a manufacturing suburb of Milwaukee that hundreds of large, expensive catalogues were being distributed.

I was amazed at such an outlay, as it did not seem possible that they could get returns from a town which was situated at the side door of a large, prosperous city.

The big mail order houses have found it necessary in order to win the confidence of their patrons to offer bargain bills and therefore scatter here and there through their catalogues a list of certain goods, with which the public is familiar, with prices attached that will serve to convince the prospective purchaser that the bargains are real and not fictitious.

Without license to do so they seem to be able to prove to their prospective patron that they are advertising items in their catalogues that are offered at prices the local dealer, who sells the same goods, cannot duplicate, and the chances are the patron will be convinced that every article advertised in the book is sold at a bargain.

Catalogue Houses Alert. But the mail order house knows its business. It bet on the weakness of human nature and won, as a personal investigation of the town a few weeks later revealed.

I checked up the money sending facilities of the town and was surprised and amazed to learn that in the few days that had elapsed since the catalogues were distributed no less than 218 money orders had been issued in favor of the catalogue house, aggregating a total of several thousand dollars.

Why City Does Not Prosper. Can any one imagine anything so ridiculous—a manufacturing city where all residents are wage earners, who live modestly and without luxury, where cash sales with the home merchant are the exception, not the rule, sending 218 money orders to an outside concern for household and personal necessities which could be bought as cheaply and delivered more promptly right at home?

And those same people wonder why their city does not thrive and prosper. One woman with whom I had talked bought shoes for her children. She said that she had to pay only $1.45 a pair, while they would have cost her $1.60 at home.

Yes; she always bought on credit at home, but usually paid in two or three months. No; she had never asked the retail mail order house for credit.

She Was Not a Taxpayer. No; she was not a taxpayer, but she sent her children to school. They have good schools too. Yes; they have sewers, water and street lights, and the city is patrolled and protected by an ample police force.

Who pays for it all? Why, the business men and taxpayers, of course. No; the Chicago mail order houses do not pay anything toward the education of her children or the comfort of her family.

Sure, she was a church member, and the church often gave fairs and so-called and things. No; the Chicago mail order house never bought any tickets, but the home business men did and paid cash for them too. Yes; her husband was employed in the suburb, and his employer depended upon and must have been business in order to provide work and money for his help.

Admitted She Did Wrong. Yes, she now, for the first time, realized that she was doing herself, her children, her husband and above all, the home merchant a grave wrong by sending her husband's earnings to an out of town competitor, but she would never do it again.

The world is full of just such women as described above. They do not think or understand, but when they do no power on earth will swerve them from their sense of right and duty. Then let us change all this and get together. It is only right and honorable and just to ourselves and high time to reform—to adopt the buying at home system of everything we need.

Even if some of the neighbors have not yet learned that they owe a duty to their town it cannot be said that their case is hopeless, for we can set them a good example.

We can show by action that we will never be a party to putting the local merchant out of business through lack of patronage.

Do you know of one single mail order house that has ever spent a dollar in your community?

About 50,000 industries of one kind and another will be affected by the eight-hour measure, Initiative Bill No. 13, which it is proposed to ask the people of Washington to vote upon. An equal number of industries will be touched by the first aid law, Initiative Bill No. 9.

Any policy that puts the fire out in factory furnaces is doubly wrong, for it weighs equally heavy on employer and employe.

Hustler, Inefficient, Back Number In His Methods

By Secretary of Commerce WILLIAM C. REDFIELD

THE strenuous life is in most cases the least effective and efficient. It is an infantile view of industry which measures its results by either the duration or the extent of effort.

Both the HUSTLER AND THE APOSTLE OF STRENUOUSNESS have become back numbers in their methods. They are today in the same category with him who also ran.

WE DEPLORE LIVES LOST IN WAR AND HAVE ADVOCATES OF PEACE WHO ARE FLUENT IN SPEECH REGARDING THE TERRORS OF STRIFE, YET, WHILE ONE MUST SYMPATHIZE WITH THOSE WHO HAVE LOST DEAR ONES IN BATTLE, ARE WE AS ELOQUENT AND ACTIVE AS RESPECTS THE MANY THAT ARE SLAIN IN INDUSTRY? WE MOURN THE NINETEEN OF VERA CRUZ, BUT IN THE FIRST THREE MONTHS OF THIS YEAR THERE WERE SLAIN SEVERAL TIMES THAT NUMBER IN THE INDUSTRIES WITHOUT GREAT PUBLIC GRIEF, AND THE YEARLY DEATH LIST FROM AUTOMOBILES IN THE STREETS OF NEW YORK MAKES OUR OCCUPATION OF VERA CRUZ LOOK RELATIVELY LIKE A PLEASURE EXCURSION.

It is an old story, old as the race and new as our latest upheaval. It is the desire of man to control his fellows. In both Mexico and Colorado the problem is at the bottom essentially an industrial struggle.

HELPING THE BAG TRUST

That's What Farmers Say of The Convict Road Bill.

"This measure leaves the location and construction of all state roads in the hands of the State Highway Board the members of which are appointed by the governor, and the people who pay the taxes used in such road construction have nothing to say where or how it shall be built. But the most serious objection, on the part of this section of the state, is the fact that it takes all the convicts from the jute mill in the penitentiary and leaves idle an investment of more than $300,000 state money, while the farmers are given over to the tender mercies of the grain bag trust."—Report of Farmers' Union of Walla Walla, Columbia and Garfield counties, on Initiative Measure No. 10.

The people of Washington are now paying the government about all they can afford to pay. Home owners in some of the urban centers of the state are paying four per cent for the privilege of owning their homes.

Moneyed Words. "How are you getting along at home? The last time I called your wife was giving you the dickens." "Quite true. I had been a bad boy. But she relaxed. Last night she came very near calling me honey." "You don't mean it! How was that?" "She called me old beeswax."—New York Press.
