

AMERICA'S WAR-SPIRIT OF TO-DAY

We ask of Thee a greater strength, Oh God!
Staggering beneath the burdens that we bear
Courageously against a hellish squad—
Demons and fiends who set their treacherous lair

To net the world, that it would in time despair

In servile fear beneath the Prussian rod.
I know Thou wilt not fail us now, Oh God,
When darkness hovers o'er land and sea,
And Prussia fights to crush Democracy
Firmly beneath her black ungodly tread,
And count as naught the bravery of our dead.

Thou wilt not fail us now when hellish deeds
Seek in their lustful prey the harmless lives
Of women and children for whom mercy
pleads,

Vainly to Prussia's god who lordly thrives,
Beastly upon his prey in greed and lust.
We will fight on until we shall have thrust
Death's fatal sabre thro' his ruthless side;
Commanding fate his destiny shall guide
Him thro' the ominous realms of vale and
dell,

Where his Satanic sins shall rise pell-mell
In maddening fury, an insurgent tide,
To curse and hound him to the depths of hell.

Thou wilt not fail us now for to this cause
Of highest honor and most sacred trust,
We give not in accordance to fixed laws;
We offer all—naught would we feign to give,
For Thou dost know, Oh God, our cause is just.

We are being shaken in the world's great
sieve,
Of hist'ry's reckoning: nations have been tried—

Not all emerged as victors with the spoils
From despot's chains of black intriguing
coils;

Yet some survived as weaklings; others died.

Shall we march forth as victors brave and bold?

Or shall we come as weaklings from the strife?

Shall we write hist'ry that when read or told
Shall make America pulse with newer life?
We will fight on until the vict'ry's won,
And heavy clouds made black by war shall flee

Before the rising of a golden sun,
Bringing glad greetings to a world that's free.

We will fight on 'til in the strangling dust
Autoeracy—like a worm-eaten crust
Shall lie unheeded by Democracy,
The beacon light for ev'ry land and sea,
We cannot fail, Oh God, we trust in Thee.

—Thornton Haskell Kelley.

If it so happens that T. R.'s wish becomes effective and all persons unable to speak English be deported as un-American then a great many of the white folk of the South, whose ancestors have lived there for more than a century, will have to leave the country as none of them speak the English language sufficiently intelligent to be wholly understood.

DEMOCRACY

We wuz discussin', jis Bill 'n' me;
The pros 'n' cons of democracy;
Leastwise Bill didn't have much to say,
That wuz owin' to Bill's peculiar way.
Bill's one of them kind what knows a heap.
But he always 'lows that talk is cheap.
Talkin's all right, but list'n is grand,
The talkin' guy always tips his hand.
So Bill sets tight 'thout movin' er joint,
'N' only talks when he makes his point.
I never fell for the high brow stuff.
My edicashun is in th' rough.
All this talk erbout AUTOCRACY
Is shootin' a bit to high fer me.
There's sumthin' else that gives me th'
"bats,"

This makin' things safe fer th' Democrats.
So I says to Bill, now put me right,
'N' tell me jis why we're in this fight.
Bill looked et me like a wise ole owl,
Shifted his quid to the other jowl,
Then spat th' juice in a cuspidore,
'N' made a noise like a 3-inch bore;

I takes no stock in AUTOCRACY;
This lordship junk is all bosh t' me;
Don't care a darn 'bout your fam'ly tree,
It's th' man what counts, not ancestry.
Now, there's them folks what we calls the Hun,

They want t' roll th' whole world in one
'N' rule us all, 'n' their pettygree
Is crowns, 'n' titles, 'n' ancestry.
Now in this country, the man's the thing:
Here, a man's ez good ez any king
Or czar, or emp'ror, th' whole darn lot
Never worked a lick fer what they's got.
Folks over there want a chance, you see,
T' prove their worth jis the same ez we,
'N' that's th' reason we're off for France,
T' give them folks over there their chance.
It's ez plain t' me ez A. B. C,
'N' I puts it here where all can see;
'I'm ez good ez you, 'N' you're good ez
me."

Now that school is about to close for a three-month's vacation have you found gainful occupation for your girls and boys?
If not, why not?

Yesterday flowers were planted on the
graves of young as well as old soldiers:
Peace to their ashes.

If a colored soldier merits favorable mention you can always rest assured that Gen.
Pershing will not hesitate to give it to him.
Long may he live.

In the Morefield Storey drive for membership, Tacoma sent 107 new names to the National headquarters and yet Tacoma is without a branch. It occurs to us that somebody or something somewhere has jumped a cog.
