KING AND QUEEN THE VICTIMS OF ARMED ASSASSINS

Alexandria I of Servia and His Consort, Draga, Shot Down in the Royal Palace by Military Revolutionists

Prince Kara Gyorgyevitz Is Proclaimed King and a New Government Is Established—Other Royal Personages Slain—Details of Crime

BELGRADE, Servia, June 11—Prince Peter Kara Gyorgyevitz was publicly proclaimed King this afternoon amidst great excitement.

LONDON, June 11.—Bulletin—A dispatch from Belgrade, Servia, states that a revolution broke out there at 2 o'clock this morning.

Another dispatch from Cologne to Reuter's News agency is as follows: "A private message from Belgrade states that the Servian troops have declared Kara Gyorgyevitz king. They forced an entrance to the palace and assassinated King Alexander and Queen Draga."

BELGRADE, June 11.—King Alexander and Queen Draga were assassinated during a military revolution which broke out at 2 o'clock this morning in the streets of Belgrade.

The palace was the first point of attack, and thither the military and mob rushed. Various reports are current as to the manner in which the king and queen died. One has it that both were shot, while another story says the king, seeing that the end was inevitable, first shot the queen and then turned the revolver on himself.

The new government was also installed by the military authorities, with Mavromovich, of the independent liberal party, as premier. He immediately convoked the national representatives who were elected under the constitution in 1901, to meet here to arrange a new government and a new constitution.

Belgrade, after the assassinations, quickly returned to a state of comparative quiet. "Although immense crowds gathered in the streets and discussed the news and argued the right or wrong of the revolutionists' acts, there were no signs of further disturbances. The general public appears to feel no particular sorrow, but rather assumes an attitude of relief. Despite the comparative quiet, however, an immense guard has been placed around the palace to preclude the possibility of any further attacks.

One notable coincidence in the affair is that on this date, 1868, Alexander's great uncle was assassinated.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—An official telegram concerning the assassination was received from Vice Consul Vologol at Belgrade by the department this morning. It confirms the fact that Prince Kara Gyorgyevitz has been proclaimed king.

VIENNA, June 11.—Some suspicion that there was a Russian plot in the assassination of the Servian monarchs is entertained in diplomatic circles here. Alexander's policy was recently anti-Russian, because of the czar's reported refusal to receive Queen Draga.

BERLIN, June 11.—The official information is given out that immediately after the assassination an attempt was made to take possession of the principal European governments. From this it is evident that serious steps, involving the whole of Europe, are contemplated. Germany herself has no direct interest in Servia, but the tragedy has international problems which are of universal importance.

GENEVA, June 11.—Prince Kara Gyorgyevitz, the new king of Servia, was seen at noon. He said he had received news of the assassination, but inasmuch as he had received no official notice that he had been made king, he had nothing to say as to his plans.

VIENNA, June 11.—The Tagblatt states that after assassinating King Alexander and Queen Draga, the mob also killed the queen brother, Nikola, who at one time was mentioned as a possible successor to the throne; the king's two sisters and 12 men of the guard.

VIENNA, June 11.—A message received here from Belgrade this afternoon states that the assassination has caused the greatest joy. Houses in many parts of the city are flying flags. Bands are marching through the streets playing lively airs.

LONDON, June 11.—The Central News' Rome correspondent quotes the Servian consul there as saying that 100 persons, including a number

LED A CAT AND DOG LIFE

It seems to have been the fate of King Alexander to lead a cat and dog life, and of the Servian court to be always in a turmoil. Every thing has been at sixes and sevens most of the time, and with war clouds and rumors of revolutions on every hand, the life at the court has been by no means a pleasant one.
