TRAINING FOR SUCCESS

Fathers and mothers handle their children in a very different manner. Mothers, it seems, soften their children with endearments and rescue them from discipline. Fathers are not so lenient, having rubbed against the world.

There are two schools of opinion, not well defined perhaps, but not the less in existence, about the proper method of training youth to sustain the shock of battle in life and escape the strong and victorious.

Some are for the hardening process. "Throw the boy into the stream," they say, "and let him swim for it; the way to teach one to bear hard knocks is by experience with hard blows, and if he is ever to amount to anything he must fight for his life."

The defenders of the hardening process can point to the fact that the over-solicitous parent who follows the child's footsteps endlessly and takes care that the breath of heaven does not too sharply blow on him, who stands between him and all responsibility, acts for him and does his thinking for him, finds that the most carefully nurtured and closely guarded young man is without the capacity to act alone because some one else has been acting for him, and falls lamentably to stand up under the weight of responsibility and care when finally he meets it.

On the other hand, there is the newboy who was thrown into the street, aged 4, to battle for fortune and later became a college president; there is the bootblack who is a railroad magnate and owes thanks only to his stout heart and quick wits; there is the homeless country boy left destitute and friendless in his tenderest years, who succeeds in winning fame and fortune.

These, if not familiar examples, are talked about enough to give one the impression that the proper way to become great is to forego all the advantages of home training. There is chance for serious deception.

The boy who achieves success under such discouraging circumstances is a remarkable young man—one in a million. His career is a glorious thing and is an inspiration and an encouragement to the nation. But he is the kind of boy who would have succeeded under any circumstances.

The other side of the picture where boys have lacked parental care and guidance is not open to the casual gaze of the world, but may be studied in every house of correction, reformatory and jail.

Young men and women, it is true, will never learn to be strong in character from hearing lectures on right living. They must have the practice and learn by doing. They will never learn to be strong if some one else does everything for them.

Some strong men have stood the terrible strain of being thrown upon the world as waifs and have come out triumphant, but it is still as true of character as of physical strength that it is in general of slow and gradual growth.

The sure way of winning an athletic contest is to train for it, and the best training possible for life is none too good.

CARNIVAL A SUCCESS

FIRLOCH CLUB'S FIRST EVENT WELL ATTENDED BY SOCIETY

The water carnival given by the Firloch club on Lake Washington Saturday afternoon was a great success. The different events were witnessed by a large number of the club members and their friends. Following is a summary of the different events:

Gentlemen's canoe race, one-eighth mile, won by Grosvenor Folsom, with George Folsom second and O. H. P. La Farge third.

The second event, which was also a canoe race, distance one-fourth mile and turn, two paddles, was won by Grosvenor Folsom and Jas. Gillison by four and a half lengths, M. M. O'Dell and George Folsom came in second and J. B. Lukes and M. P. Randolph third.

Richards and Lamont, in this event, fouled the buoy in turning and were disqualified.

The canoe race for gentlemen and ladies, one-eighth mile and turn, two paddles, was won by Mr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Folsom, with Miss Riley and M. M. O'Dell second.

Lad Kittinger won the boy's tub race; distance 20 yards.

The canoe tourney afforded much amusement for the spectators. The four teams entered for this event were: Randolph and Lukes; George Folsom and La Farge; O'Dell and Grosvenor Folsom; and Lamont and Shannon.

The teams were equipped with lane and buffet. The object was to spill the enemy into the water. The first teams matched were Lukes and Randolph against George Folsom and La Farge. On meeting both teams fell into the water and the match was declared a draw.

In the second match, between O'Dell and Grosvenor Folsom against Lamont and Shannon, the former team won. Shannon created a ripple of laughter when, after delivering a telling blow, he jumped into the water without waiting to see the result, thus losing the match.

The four-oared shell race for one-half mile was won by a crew composed of Balliet, captain; George Folsom, La Farge and Dehafield. The defeated crew was composed of O'Dell, Grosvenor Folsom, Alexander and Sheaf.

NEW ONES TO BOX

Thursday night's amateur boxing entertainment, to be given by the Phoenix Athletic club at Banker's hall, will bring out several new aspirants for championship honors in the different classes.

The bantam entries will have three new men in Frank Dooling, Harry Mason and Jack Taylor. Con Doyle is a new man who is on in the featherweight class against Tommy Kane.

Frank Street will appear for first time in the welterweight division against Carstens, the Green Lake star. Nick Pierson and Tom H. Catton will tour France, where matches will be played with a number of French experts.

ANOTHER GAME

Arrangements have been completed for the much talked of match between the Monarch bowling team, of Seattle, and the Pacific Coast Stars, of San Francisco. The games will be reported by telegraph, the first series of which will be played Saturday evening, September 10, on the Monarch alleys, and the second series on September 17. This contest will decide the championship of the coast.

JACK IS DEAD

"Jack," the famous old cocker spaniel, owned by E. E. Ellis, which was known to every habitue of Pioneer Square, died Saturday afternoon. The dog was 18 years old and was bred in Manitoba, Canada, from which place he was brought to Seattle seventeen years ago by his master. The valuable retriever was buried at West Seattle.

OLYMPIC GAMES ENDED

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5.—The Olympic games ended today. The final scores, according to the official scorer, are as follows: New York Athletic club, 63; Chicago—Athletic association, 59; Milwaukee Athletic club, 46; Greater New York Irish Athletic association, 31. The championship cup will not be presented to the club credited with the most points, owing to protests made by the Chicago Athletic association.

WILL LAY OFF

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Umpire Jack O'Connell will not officiate on the diamond again this year. O'Connell has not been feeling well of late and asked President Bert for a lay-off, which was granted.

WELSHMEN'S PICNIC

The Welshmen of the Northwest are holding a picnic at Woodland park today at which fully 1,000 Welsh people and their families are present. After a luncheon served at 12 o'clock, a program made up of Welsh songs and addresses was rendered. There was also a long list of athletic events, at which prizes were given.

BUY LAND

Take a Hand in Seattle's Phenomenal Prosperity

Your Monthly Savings Will Make You the Owner of Broad Acres

There are people in Seattle today, who have lived here thirty years and do not own their own homes. They are honest, hard working folks, but they have not been alive to their opportunities.

Whether you will go through life a poor man, live in rented houses and leave your family with no provision, rests solely with yourself.

Five to ten dollars a month will make you the absolute owner of five to ten acres of rich land in the Northside Garden Tracts, land that alone will keep yourself and family handsomely, and land that will double and treble in value within three years.

Prices are from $40 an acre up; $25 to $50 cash on a tract, and $5 to $10 a month.

Every purchaser is given an abstract of title and a legal opinion by A. E. Hanford, Esq., the eminent title lawyer.

Take the 8:20 a. m. Great Northern train to Richmond Beach and Postmaster Holloway will drive you down and show you the property and then drive in to the Green Lake car line. Take some money, so as to be able to secure what you want.

Prices soon to be advanced.
