San Francisco Strikers Stand Out for Original Demands of $3 for 8 Hour Day, With No Compromise--Governor Pardee Warns Street Railways Co. That Bringing of Armed Strike Breakers Is Bad Policy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1--The striking car men this morning voted to reject all overtures of the United Railways company made through Mayor Schmitz, offering arbitration, and will hold out for their original demands of $3 for a day of eight hours.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1--In response to an inquiry from the Daily News regarding the attitude of the state authorities toward imported strike breakers, Governor Pardee today replied:

"I regret that I have no power under the law to prevent the coming into the state of such bodies of armed men.

"Their coming is not constituting an invasion within the meaning of the constitution. I have notified the United Railways company that the reported importation of armed men, if not unlawful, is against public policy and tends to subvert good order, and, in reply, received a denial of the truth of the newspaper reports that they are importing bodies of armed men into the state."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1--If the men will promptly go back to their work, we are willing and now offer to submit their request for shorter hours and higher wages to a committee of arbitration to be selected as provided in their contract with us, namely, one by them, one by ourselves, and one by the two selected, and we will agree to be bound by the decision of said committee, and will also agree that any decision reached shall take effect as of the date the men resume work.

JAMES FARLEY, S. B.

James Farley, the famous strike breaker, whose likeness is pictured above, is reported dead, and the man who is in charge of the men speed in for San Francisco is supposed to be a man who assumed James Farley's identity. Whether the real Farley or not, the man who is bringing the strike breakers to Frisco is a subject of general interest to union men all over the country.

WANT TO SEE THE COUNTRY.

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 1--When the first train bearing Farley's strike breakers reached here, the men mingled freely with the depot crowd. The following statement was prepared and handed out to the people: "Dear Friends: We are most of us young men and would like to see the country of the Golden West. We are not all scabs and will not take honest men's places. The object of most of us is to get to Frisco free. You know we got our fare paid on this trip. Most of us are union tradesmen. We want to put our ourselves in the right light before the western people. There are on this train about 500, and at least 250 will desert when they get to Frisco."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1--If the men will promptly go back to their work, we are willing and now offer to submit their request for shorter hours and higher wages to a committee of arbitration to be selected as provided in their contract with us, namely, one by them, one by ourselves, and one by the two selected, and we will agree to be bound by the decision of said committee, and will also agree that any decision reached shall take effect as of the date the men resume work.

SEATTLE PEDAGOGUES ON NEW SPELLING

MAKE STATEMENTS THAT THE NEWSPAPERS MUST ADOPT ROOSEVELT'S STYLE--NO CHANGE WILL BE MADE IN SEATTLE PUBLIC SCHOOLS THIS YEAR.

"A natural and gradual reform in spelling is to be desired, rather than a reform produced by legislation, which will not be effective." This opinion, expressed by Professor E. S. Meany of the history department of the University of Washington, characterizes in general the views of city educators on President Roosevelt's spelling reform movement. They are willing to grant the need of reform, but do not favor legislation as a means of effecting it.

"In my opinion," said Professor Meany, "the English language is about the worst for spelling of any language I know. Foreigners have great difficulty in understanding why a word spelled one way, should mean another thing when altered a trifle. I believe in gradual reform, but not the arbitrary methods employed by the Royal Academies of Spain and France. Let the newspapers, publishers and educational authorities take up the reform. The difficulty of various phonetic spellings will be done away with when we come to recognize certain authorities on words, the same as we now do dictionaries."

Dr. Thomas F. Kane, president of the university, agrees with Prof. Meany's views, and even goes further in his approval of the reform. "I believe that the English language is destined to become the universal language," said Dr. Kane, "and the simpler the language so much more quickly will it become the one tongue. Spelling does not go by rules and the difficulties in our language experienced by foreigners has created a demand for simpler methods. Legislation will not be directly effective, although I think that the work of the committee appointed by President Roosevelt has been very conservative thus far, and not radical or rampant, as many hold. Of course there will be a prejudice towards spelling changes by those who will think it sacrilegious to alter the Bible and Shakespearean forms."

T. P. Story Makes Remarks. County Superintendent of Schools T. P. Story also believes in gradual reform, holding that it is bound to come sooner or later. "The better way of spelling," said Mr. Story today, "will come gradually. Law will not do much toward effecting the reform. What we ought to have is standard dictionaries with the new methods of spelling made permissible in them. In that case many people would take to the new ways, who will not do so now for fear of being called ignoramus, or being subject to criticism. They desire an authority to fall back upon."

Cooper Not Enthusiastic. F. B. Cooper, superintendent of schools, is not especially enthusiastic over reform in any way, although he grants the fact that there are objectionable evils in our language as it now is.

"It is not possible to cure spelling difficulties by legislation," said Mr. Cooper. "Language grows, develops and follows lines that legislation cannot reach. There is no doubt but what we have many anomalous methods of spelling which ought to be simplified; but the reform will require too many interests uniting to shove it along. The newspapers, printers and publishers would have to help, and even then I'm not sure it would be effective. People will not learn to spell over again. There will be nothing done in the way of introducing phonetic spelling in our city schools this year."

DOGAL WILL COME HERE

ITALIAN CRUISER NOW AT PORTLAND WILL BE IN HARBOR WEEK FROM TOMORROW--LOCAL ITALIANS PLANNING RECEPTION.

The protected cruiser Dogal, of the Italian navy, is expected to arrive in Seattle about a week from tomorrow, as the little fighter will leave Portland, Ore., Thursday for the port. Local Italian residents are completing arrangements to entertain the officers when she arrives here.

The Dogal has been cruising among North and South American cities for the past eight months. She is 18 years old, and in her younger days was a 21-knot boat. She is still able to do 18 1/2 knots.

Some extensive surveying was done by the Dogal on the Amazon river. The Dogal has had an eventful voyage. Her crew, killed off the South American coast, whittled an orca, a large sea serpent. The monster weighed five tons, and measured 22 feet.

DESERTER IS CAUGHT.

F. D. Tenny, a deserter from Fort Lawton, was captured last night by Patrolmen Lockwood and Crandell. This makes the second deserter captured this week by the former officers, and as there is a substantial reward attached to the recovery of deserters, Lockwood has no complaint coming over the week's work.
