STORY OF GREAT RING BATTLE

BY JOHN L. SULLIVAN

CHAPTER III.
In the next round I got to his body with a couple of hard rights and took a nasty cut under the eye as the round opened. Then, seeing a chance, I grabbed him around the body and nearly shook the way out of him, and it was I that got the cheers as we went to our corners. I nearly ended the fight in the third round, and it would have been better for him if it had happened this way. He appeared round for a little while, but was anxious for another chance to get my hands on him. He knew he had no show when it came to wrestling, and was careful not to close. He was making pretty good play with his left for my face. After he had landed a blow on my nose, he came back with his arm as hard as I could, and it landed full on my jaw. He went down like a ten-pin ball. He rolled over on his back and I carried him to his corner while the crowd was roaring "Sullivan, Sullivan."

Well, my memory is hardly good enough to tell the whole fight, round by round, but an old scrap book in which I had every round I could find of every battle I ever had, was lost in a fire several years ago, so I will have to go slow.

Kilrain is Beaten.
It was a hard fight. Sometimes he back-headed me or crossed-out-took me for a fall, but round after round ended in his going down from a blow or a throw. His face was badly cut and his body bruised by the time we reached the 15th round and my nose and left eye were swollen.

I was playing for his heart at the time and every time he fell out with his left I tried my hardest to land him in that same spot again, under the heart. Constant pounding on any one spot is the most weakening form of attack, and his face on that spot for a place six inches square was cut and bruised by the 15th round.

I had taken many a hard punch and some had laid during the battle, and long before the 10th round he began to land on my stomach. There was too much whisky. In the 10th round I was vomiting after I had come back to my corner. My hand wanted to call it a draw.

"I'll give you all the draw you want in a little while," he said, and he and I went on with the fight.

heart. Pretty soon the flesh and skin were sponged loose from the ribs, and that part that had been pounded was hanging like a gib from his ribs.

Sullivan is Gaining.
Of course the betting had been coming my way all the time in the latter part of the fight, and by this time he would bet a nickel on Kilrain. He was a plainly beaten man, and the crowd which had cheered for hours grew silent, as they saw that a gallant fighter was coming to his last round. Kilrain came out of his corner game as ever. His legs were unsteady, his face cracked and his body limp. He leaned against his will, over to protect his head. I rushed him, smothered him on the jaw, knocking him against the ropes and pushing him almost at my feet. Charlie Mitchell had tossed his towel in the ring and the battle was won.

The next thing I knew I was grabbed by Muldoon and Cleary and landed out of the ring, while they were fighting the crowd that had broken the ropes and was trying to shake hands with me. I never heard such cheering. They hustled me into a wagon and we made for the train.

After we had got aboard another train came in sight down the track, and somebody yelled that it was the "old timer." I do not know how I did it, but it is a fact that I went out of my ordinary coach window head first. I made for a swamp and stayed there until the alarm passed.

Skater Issues Challenge.
TACOMA, Feb. 20.—W. H. Robinson of this city has issued a challenge to J. A. Reynolds, who won the long distance roller skating race in Seattle yesterday, and will attempt to compete with the new champion at a near date. Robinson claims that Reynolds' victory, he was the champion of the west, having won his great race after four days and nights of continuous skating.

LONG DISTANCE ROLLER CHAMPION MADE RECORD WITHOUT TRAINING

MAKES BOWLING RECORD

"OLD TIMER" JENKINS AND P. D. DANA DO GREAT STUNTS.

"Old Timer" Jenkins and P. D. Dana established a new western bowling record for doubles last Wednesday night at Vancouver, B. C., while rolling a special match game.

The Seattle cracks were well on their way to hang up a world's bareness record and would have succeeded had not Dana grown careless. He started the final game with "turkey," but as the game was practically won, he did not realize that he and the "old timer" were within easy reach of a world's record.

EVANVILLE, Ind., Feb. 20.—Until someone eclipses his record of 26 hours and 51 minutes, Robert Vize, 21, of this city, will lay claim to being the world's champion long distance roller skater, in consequence of his performance here in a roller Marathon.

In competition with six others Vize started at 8 p. m. and skated until 10:51 the next night, when was forced to stop and meet an opponent in another event. Meantime his opponents had quit. In his long whirl around the rink Vize covered 215 miles, maintaining an eight-mile-an-hour gait from start to finish.

Another young skater went into the nerve-racking contest without training, refusing to prepare for the match. His success has led him to condition himself for another grid, and he has challenged all comers to an endurance contest for the world's championship.

While the skaters were on their long grid J. M. Waterbury, a long distance plane player, furnished the route. He maintained a continuous thumping until six minutes before Vize was forced to stop, when he fell to the floor exhausted.

SPORTING NOTES FROM EVERYWHERE

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the auxiliary yawl Aquila and the cruising yawl Gwendolyn II will start on the second annual Protection Island race, a distance of about 125 miles. The Aquila won last year.

The varsity basketball team won from theaget school by a score of 15 to 5. A handful of spectators witnessed the contest at the gymnasium. The team is on the best in the Pacific Northwest.

KID BROAD IN RANKS OF RING COME-BACKS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 20.—They do some back once in a while. That a first class fighter never returns to form after he has been beaten is an accepted theory among followers of the pugilistic game, but the recent showing of Kid Broad and Young Corbett, following upon the heels of Battling Nelson and Stanley Ketchell, goes to prove that the contrary is true.

Nelson was beaten by Gans, but came back and defeated the same Ketchell who was knocked out by Papke, whom he subsequently defeated in hurricane style. Corbett was beaten by Brit and Nelson, but is now showing that he can give a good account of himself. Broad never was a champion, but he was close to the top until he hit the ropes and did effective work.

FACTS ABOUT MARATHON RACE

Distance—26 miles, 385 yards. Time—1:36 1/2 hours. Monday afternoon. Place—Western Washington Fair grounds, Madison Park.

Every thing is in readiness for Seattle's first Marathon race, which will be run at the Western Washington Fair grounds next Monday afternoon.

When Mayor John F. Miller first started the idea of a long distance race, it was the Northwest champion of their long haul.

Included in the field are some of the distance men who made good showings in the California Marathon.

Following is a full list of entries: J. C. Wright of Los Angeles; C. G. Holder of Orem, Utah; Casey Walter of Spokane, Seattle; L. Wray Centralia; Harvey Donaldson Seattle; Paul George of Seattle; J. S. Searas, Seattle; Will R. Chandler, Vancouver; H. T. Johnson, Vancouver; William Zapp, Brien, Francisco; Jimmy Stewart, Oakland; Frank Brownell, San Francisco; M. Hartman, San Francisco; J. E. Porter, Portland; R. S. Lindquist, Chicago; Arthur E. Edrast, Tacoma; Arthur Wilson, Seattle; Charles J. Cool, State college.

The management says the race will be run at 10 a. m. The heavy advance sale of tickets signifies that a large crowd will witness the Marathon.

GREAT OLD CATCHER WILL BE MANAGER

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 19.—"Rowdy Jack O'Connor," they used to call him in the old days when the National league was the whole thing, but with years of discretion has come to Jack, and while he has retained his belligerence, he has passed up the rowdiness. O'Connor, last year second in command of the St. Louis Browns, has been released, and will manage the Little Rock team, having signed a contract with Mike Flinn after considering several offers.

Unprecedented Demand for Skill of This Great Genius, Dr. F. W. Dickey---Brings Results That Astonish Even Subjects of His Skill.

Seattle citizens, full of gratitude for what he has done in this city, are adding to the laurels his wizard-like skill has won him elsewhere.

The intense interest that was aroused by such a distinguished scientist as Dr. F. W. Dickey has been growing from day to day, as reports of the unprecedented success of his work have found their way into the public prints and have been spread broadcast by grateful people whose eyesight he has restored by his method and glasses to a condition of perfection for which they had long ceased to hope.

The handicap of imperfect vision is the greatest drawback in human life; inability to see perfectly not alone causes discomfort and prevents the victim from enjoying a thousand happinesses of life, but also counts in actual losses of income day by day.

Small wonder, then, that the man whose unerring skill and wonderful scientific discoveries have created such unusual interest in the United States and Europe should occupy such a niche in fame as has been accorded Dr. F. W. Dickey.

The activities of great scientific minds are varied; the results of these activities are sometimes of doubtful practical value, but who can doubt the practical, immediate and overwhelming benefit to the human race of the work of one who has devoted a lifetime successfully to bringing impaired eyesight and blindness back to its pristine perfection? How much better than the discovery of a new star, millions of miles away, is the discovery and skill that aids the human eye so that the printed page that was blurred and indistinct takes form of legibility once more!

A short time ago Seattle knew of Dr. F. W. Dickey only by the reputation he had gained in this great country and Europe; now the proof is brought home. Several hundred patients, some of the most hopeless and incurable cases, have been restored to perfect sight in the last six months by Dr. Dickey. All of them declare that they have had imperfect vision for years, and most of them have sought relief in vain in every quarter. Now they declare they have comfort once more, and perfect sight. The results of Dr. F. W. Dickey's great scientific discoveries, his advanced method and prescription glasses, have been a revelation to Seattle people. The fame that he has gained can only be explained by the vital importance of the work that he is doing for the human race, and by the eulogies of those to whom he has given back perfect eyesight and perfect health.

These in some instances are so remarkable as to almost test credulity, were it not that the grateful subjects of his methods are persons long known and esteemed.

Two pronounced incurable cases cured of a life-long suffering by Dr. Dickey last week: Mrs. C. L. Place, 915 6th ave. North, sufferer since birth. Constant headaches, extreme dizziness and nervousness, vomiting spells, sick to stomach, congestion base of brain. She is now well and a happy woman.

Mrs. W. H. Moore, Issaquah, Wash. Chronic nervous wreck; constant sufferer with headaches, dizzy and sick vomiting spells to stomach, chronic constipation; now a well woman, enjoying the best of health. She was cured of all suffering in two weeks.

BOOZE IS THE DEMON WITH STIFFEST PUNCH

JOHN L. SAYS OLD "RED EYE" ALWAYS WINS IN THE END.

What is the real knockout punch? John L. Sullivan, the once mighty gladiator of the prize ring, for ten years champion of the world, and the man who discovered the knockout punch with gloves, hand, declares that the real knockout punch isn't given with the fist.

Sullivan has been a prominent figure in American public life for years, or since he first became famous the world over. That was in 1882 when he whipped Paddy Ryan of Troy, N. Y., for the championship of America. Since 1882, he has won almost all his entire time travel. Naturally bright, he has been a student of human nature all his life, has read extensively and is in a position to see things with unbiased, thoughtful eyes. Here is his own story.

BY JOHN L. SULLIVAN. I know a lot about "knockout punches." I discovered one, delivered a few, and have been punched

DRISCOLL GETS BETTER OF ABE ATTELL

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Jens Driscoll the English featherweight champion, and Abe Attehl, were speedily rounds at the National Athletic club last night. No decision was rendered by Referee Charley White, as the New York state law permit no decisions in boxing bouts. Although the referee gave no decision, it was the consensus of ring-siders that Driscoll had a shade on the world's champion. Both seem were strong at the finish of the bout and could have gone twice the distance, if physical appearance be a criterion.

Attehl seemed to have more steam in his punch than the Britisher, and Driscoll had a left eye swollen. He could not avoid a jump over Abe's head, but the Englishman was the stronger and did effective work.

In the sixth round Attehl sent Jens to the ropes with a hard swing to the jaw, but the Englishman was willing to mix and he returned several "kidney" blows. At the eighth, ninth and tenth rounds, Driscoll evened up matters and scored two more knock-outs.

Wilbur Wright's record-breaking flight, and then you want to learn how to guard against them. When a fellow starts in to be a fighter, the first thing he learns is how to hold his hands; not to deliver a blow, but to guard against a blow. It's a great thing to have the punch. It's just as great and as necessary to know the knockout and recognize the knockout punch when you see it coming as it is to know you've got the punch in your own make-up.

It is Boose.

There's one knockout punch that you won't have any trouble recognizing, although it comes in a good many different ways and tries to sneak in over your guard. It's booze—drink; never drink of all kinds. It's no use to try to meet it. It's one of the real knockout punches of life. Don't let it land.

A great many persons have said that I show the authority on what is commonly called the curse of liquor. I am, I make the statement, but I am going to do so. But I am going to be straightforward, I hope, and in making this acknowledgment of a fatal part, I want to put myself on an equal footing with some of the men who may head my talk and certainly need something of the kind.

I fought the booze, but I wasn't the man with the punch. No man carries a swing or a hook or a cross or an uppercut that can make an impression on "Old Red Eye."
