

SPRECKELS MAKES GREAT WITNESS FOR HENEY

EFFORTS MADE TO LEARN MOTIVES FOR UNEARTHING FRISCO'S GRAFT.

(By United Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—The bars are down and we are trying to put you behind them," angrily shouted Francis J. Henev at Attorney Earl Rogers, of the defense, in the Calhoun trial today. Henev's outburst was occasioned by Rogers' taunt that after the prosecution's announcement yesterday that the "bars were down," the defense was not allowed to introduce certain exhibits bearing upon the case today.

Rudolph Spreckels, who was on the witness stand, took part in the controversy and informed Rogers that the "bars are down as far as I am concerned."

The exhibit in question was a transcript of previous testimony of Spreckels. Henev objected to its introduction before being identified as an official document. This was done and he withdrew his objection.

Spreckels was on the stand but a short time today and the most interesting day of the trial is anticipated tomorrow.

ARGUMENTS MADE IN KISSING CASE

(By United Press.)
VALLERIO, Cal., May 19.—Final arguments were made today before the court of inquiry, which has been hearing the case of Naval Lieut. F. W. Osborn, accused of breaking up the home of Naval Constructor Holden A. Evans, by kissing Mrs. Evans last Christmas day. Evans summed up the case for the prosecution, having preferred the charges against Osborn. Attorney Whiting made the argument for the defense.

TIME FOR ANANIAS TO THROW A FIT; NEW CLUB MEMBER NO OTHER THAN T. R.

(By United Press.)
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 19.—Listen to the hot and bitter words of a defeated American presidential candidate directed at his late and successful adversary.

"The Roosevelt attack on socialism, his first contribution to Outlook, was silly and his statements were palpably false. His argument is the same old, threadbare objection that has been parroted by capitalist apologists and reformers for 20 years. The man who knows nothing of the subject. His charge that socialism approves 'free love' is wantonly malicious. He condemns a party because one member of it divorced his wife and married another woman. Mr. Roosevelt's principal political reception, an eminent republican, at the very time that Roosevelt sat at his feet, was carrying on a liaison which culminated in a public scandal. How is it, Mr. Roosevelt, that four virtuous indignation men, seven years and the national machine to put an end to 'brutal wrong-doing' and to mitigate 'dreadful suffering' and he did nothing."

T. R.'s statement that he is a "wage earner" on the Outlook is not outraged by this exhibition of moral hypocrisy, and personal and political household."

Eugene V. Debs, a resident of this city, has much more than this to say to T. R. in answer to the former president's blast against socialism. He answers Roosevelt categorically. Here are some of his points:

"The charge that advanced socialists oppose private property and are hostile to religion and morality is false. Socialists are not opposed to 'private property,' except in the means of life. Capitalism, which Roosevelt defends, makes 'private property' impossible to the masses by confiscating their products. It is capitalism that defiles religion and destroys morality."

"Roosevelt writes a vicious and damnable lie when he says that the leaders of our party uphold the position of instituting free love for married life. He gives no word of proof to support this wretched insult, and I throw the foul calumny back into his teeth."

"Socialism, Mr. Roosevelt, means industrial democracy, self-rule and all the forces of evolution are working to that end. We are going to fit ourselves by education to take control of industry."

"Roosevelt says our party would disband if we, the leaders, should attempt to force our followers to admit to equality all negroes and Chinamen. He has never read our platform or he would not make such a statement. We today admit to membership men and women of all races and nationalities."

"If the charges Roosevelt makes against me could be supported I should be in the penitentiary. He has not forgotten that I offered $5,000 reward for anyone who could disprove my statement that he was connected with the 'Alton steel,' in which Harriman, Roosevelt's whilom friend, swindled the stock and bondholders of the Chicago & Alton out of $63,000,000. I have not the distinction of having invented a spiked policeman's club, of having thrown a gray-haired mother out of my domicile, entertaining prizefighters, thugs and gun toters, shooting a fellow man in the back, charging up San when he is called as a witness again tomorrow.

The line of questions asked Spreckels this morning was calculated to draw out further information regarding the amount of money he has spent upon the graft prosecutions in San Francisco. It being the apparent desire of the defense to show that he had some motive in giving large sums.

When asked for a complete statement of these sums, Spreckels replied that he would be unable to furnish it today, although he had worked most of the night in an effort to have it ready.

He was then dismissed and notified that he would be expected to be ready to testify again at 9:30 tomorrow morning. It is expected that he will have the required statement ready by that time.

The request for the statement followed the testimony brought out late yesterday to the effect that Spreckels had paid Henev's office rent and that Henev's partner, C. W. Cobb, had received fees from him. In this connection it was stated that Cobb has $20,000 due him.

DEATH KNELL SOUNDED

SWEEPING DECISION MADE IN INDEPENDENT TELEPHONE CASES IN EAST.

(By United Press.)
CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 19.—The United States Telephone company today failed in its attempt to secure legal relief from the alleged inroads made upon its long distance agreements with local independent companies by the Bell concern.

The petition filed by the United States company asking a temporary injunction, restraining affiliates of the Bell company from alleged attempts to induce the independent companies to violate their existing 99-year contracts for long distance service, was refused by Judge Taylor of the United States court.

The Bell companies named in the petition were the American Telephone company and the Central Union Telephone company. The defendants were charged in the petition with operating a trust in the restraint of trade. That the decision given by Judge Taylor sounds the death knell of the independent companies is the opinion of a Central Union official.

MUST SHOW BOARD WHY

Next Friday will be a real "Show Me" day with the board of public works. Three contractors have been cited to appear before the board and show reason why they should not be held delinquent on local improvement contracts. If they are declared delinquent, the contractors cannot have anything to do with municipal work for a period of two years.

The contractors on the list cited include J. J. McLaugh and Timothy Ryan, both prominent in the local contracting world. McLaugh has nearly a dozen large contracts which are threatened if the board takes adverse action.

PLAINTIFF ACCUSES STREET CAR MAN

The case of John W. Kirk, a newspaper solicitor of this city, who is suing the Seattle Electric company for $17,864 damages, came up before Superior Judge Boyd J. Tallman this morning.

Kirk complains that he was unlawfully assaulted by a conductor and motorman on October 2, 1907. Kirk stated on the stand that he boarded a car for his home but the car went to the barn, and that all the passengers except himself were given transfers to continue their journey.

When asked for his transfer he says an altercation ensued, during which one of the carmen threw him down, choked and struck him, aided by the motorman.

COINCIDENCE IN SUICIDE OF SAMUEL E. HUGHES

(By United Press.)
While Mrs. Samuel E. Hughes of 126 Erie st. was telephoning The Star yesterday afternoon to give in a story of the finding of a bottle containing a suicide's message, her husband, Samuel E. Hughes, whose mind had become deranged by worry over business matters, was even then planning his own death.

Hughes took his life by firing a bullet through his brain. His body was found lying face downward in the main offices of the city lighting department, where he was employed as light inspector.

Hughes left his home yesterday with the avowed intention of making away with himself, and about 15 minutes before the body was found he had telephoned to his wife that he was about to kill himself.

His Mind Wanders.
Mrs. Hughes immediately notified the police, but it was then too late.

"Mr. Hughes' mind had been wandering for some time," said Mrs. Hughes' mother this morning. "We had all been watching him very closely. We tried to keep him at home yesterday when he announced that he was going to end it all. My husband, Mr. Wood, took the car after Mr. Hughes and followed to watch over him. But he—Wood—got to the office too late."

Hughes' body was found by the janitor of the city lighting department about 9 o'clock last night, and the police were immediately notified.

Mrs. Hughes has been ill for several months and her sickness and the attending bills are said to have been the cause of Hughes' worry.

The message which Mrs. Hughes found in a bottle last Friday was scrawled on the back of a card from the firm of McKinley & Watson, real estate dealers. The message was as follows: "Look for the body of John Black." The word Cape or Cope was under the message. Whether that was the signature or just part of the message is not known. The writing is merely a scrawl, but the figures which are grouped on one end of the card were made by some one accustomed to business forms.

The message may or may not be that of some unfortunate.

Hughes was 49 years old and had been employed in the lighting department for two years. He was a prominent Odd Fellow, being a captain in the uniform degree of the order.

Mr. J. J. McLaugh, the company's electrician, has been given authority to install the necessary equipment. He hopes to have the system in successful operation within two years.

A copper wire will be laid along the track, this wire carrying the sound waves which will be picked up by instruments in the cars and offices. Sound waves will be sent over the wire by high frequency machines, carried in the baggage cars of the trains. Power for these machines will be furnished by the locomotives.

JUMPS INTO BAY AND DIES

LEAPING FROM THE DECK OF THE STEAMSHIP CHIPPEWA INTO THE COLD WATERS OF THE SOUND WITH THE INTENTION OF ENDING HIS LIFE, BUT REGRETTING HIS ACT THE MINUTE HE STRUCK THE WATER, OJIE CORBIN LAST NIGHT CAUSED CONSIDERABLE EXCITEMENT AMONG THE PASSENGERS.

Just as a lifeboat manned by members of the crew reached the struggling man's side, he sank from sight. The Chippewa cruised about for half an hour, but no trace of the suicide was found.

Corbin was placed aboard the Chippewa last night at Port Townsend by the police. The man took a seat on the starboard side near the stern. Corbin sat in deep thought until a few minutes past 9 o'clock, when the Chippewa was opposite Edmonds. Suddenly, without an word, Corbin plunged over the rail.

The alarm was quickly sounded. As Corbin struck the water he commenced to cry for help. A lifeboat was lowered.

The ship's searchlight was played on the struggling man and the lifeboat crew pulled vigorously toward Corbin, urged on by the cries and cheers of the passengers. When the lifeboat was within a few feet of Corbin, he suddenly sank from sight.

Corbin is thought to have a brother in North Yakima and another in Montana.
