

BOUILLON WANTS HIRAM GILL LEFT ON THE OFFICIAL BALLOT

The following statement was issued today from the headquarters of A. V. Bouillon, candidate for the republican nomination for mayor: "It is desired that the voters of Seattle shall understand that the Bouillon campaign committee has nothing to do with the suits brought in an effort to have the name of Hiram C. Gill stricken from the official primary ballot. Because of the well-defined issue in the present campaign, it is believed by the Bouillon committee that it would be much better for the future of Seattle that the name of Mr. Gill be permitted to stay upon the ballot. Mr. Bouillon, personally, would prefer to have the voters given the opportunity of choosing between him and Mr. Gill. He believes that the people of Seattle should be allowed to say whether they prefer the sort of government that would come with Mr. Gill's election, or that which would be administered should he (Bouillon) be chosen. Mr. Bouillon's committee agrees with the candidate. In doing so it does not admit, however, the possibility of Mr. Bouillon's defeat. From polls taken on cars on almost every street car line in the city of Seattle, the indications are that Mr. Bouillon will win at the republican primaries by the largest plurality ever given a candidate for office in the city of Seattle."

MAN WHO LEFT HIS MATE TO DIE AS PAUPER SLAIN BY ANOTHER WOMAN

Miss Bunkleman Kills Charles O. Tucker and Then Shoots Herself.

Charles O. Tucker, the furniture dealer who came into prominence last October by refusing to pay the funeral expenses of the woman who had been with him as his wife for 12 years, was shot and killed Friday by a woman named Bunkleman, in a hotel room at 2225 First av. The woman then turned the revolver on herself. Their bodies were found on the floor.

of the electrical fuses had burned out, and the reports heard were accounted for by the blowing out of the fuse. No investigation was made. Today the room was entered for the purpose of cleaning it up and the two dead bodies were found on the floor. The disappearance of Tucker during the last few days caused no uneasiness either at his lodging house or at his place of business. It was believed that he had gone to Irondale, where he had property. The Bunkleman woman was not known at the lodging house in which her dead body was found. She had, however, been seen on one or two occasions going to Tucker's room. From the position of the dead bodies, it is probable that the woman killed Tucker and then committed suicide.

- Violations of the state law prohibiting screens in saloons will cost the saloon keepers indicted by the grand jury $1 and costs, if the recommendations made by Special Prosecutor White are carried out. This recommendation was made in Judge Ronald's department of the superior court this afternoon.
  - Louis Filus, saloon keeper of North Bend, pleaded guilty to an indictment of this character, and paid the fine and costs.

HOW CLEVELAND FAMILY SOLVES THE QUESTION OF LIVING WITHOUT MEAT—IT DOESN'T WORRY THEM

Vegetarian Menu Is Figured Out by Ohio Housewife Which Keeps Family Healthy and Happy.

(By United Press.) CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 24.—When thousands of workmen and their families start to go without meat for two months, as they are doing here in Cleveland, it makes a new situation in the kitchens of their homes. And thousands of wives and mothers have met the situation. They are searching the newspapers, the cook books and the almanacs for good things to cook—good, nourishing foods to take the place of the meat the men's appetites crave. Here is a picture that was taken the day after the famous "meat strike" was declared here. The family is that of a workman who makes fairly good wages in an iron manufactory.

The Meatless Dinner of One Cleveland Meat Striker's Family. This is the Meal Described in the Accompanying Story.

The Way They Do It. This family of four is about to whack the beef trust and the cold storage monopoly by eating one of the most tasty meals they have had for weeks. No meat, lard or meat gravy has any place on the family's bill-of-fare or market list. And the same is true in thousands of other homes.

- Bouillon Supporters to Meet.
- Bouillon supporters in the Seventh ward will hold a meeting at 7 o'clock tonight in Odd Fellows' hall on Pine st., near Broadway. Every voter in the Seventh ward opposed to the dominance of the Gill gang is urged to be present.

TWO INDICTED MEN FILE BOND TODAY

James Monagle and Frank G. Ludwig, saloon keepers of Kanak, recently indicted by the grand jury on charges of having slot machines in their possession, filed bonds in the sum of $200 each in Judge Ronald's branch of the superior court today. They will be arraigned this afternoon along with 30 others indicted on similar charges.

CAME FROM OUT OF TOWN.

A Star reader aving in a nearby town was in need of a house-keeper. He read a "Wanted" ad in Saturday's Star. Realizing that ads of this kind, when printed in The Star, bring many offers or work, he lost no time but came direct to Seattle. This serves to illustrate how carefully these little "Wanted" ads are read. Thousands of people in Seattle and vicinity have been benefited by reading and using Star "Wants." When you need help—have a vacant room or house—wish to find a buyer or recover some lost valuable—step to the nearest phone and dictate an ad to The Star. Main 1-59; Ind. 441. Costs only 1 cent per word. (10 words cost 10 cents.)

BOUND TO TRACK BY ROBBERS, HE IS SAVED AS TRAIN FLASHES INTO SIGHT
 (By United Press.) VICKSBURG, Miss., Jan. 24.—Heroically refusing to reveal the combination of a safe to station robbers, George Burdette, a car taker, was tied to the track and left to his fate early today. They carried him to the track and tied him to the rails with his own belt, necktie and shirt. Burdette, knowing that a train was due, cried for help and struggled to release himself. When he heard the rattle of an approaching train he became frantic. The darkness diminished in the glare of an engine's headlight. Just in time an old negro janitor arrived at the station. As the train flashed up he found Burdette and dragged him from the track.

SUDDENLY FINDS A WAY TO SAVE ON STREET REGRADES

After letting large regrade contracts for years, the board of public works, just before election, finds that it can save the taxpayers thousands of dollars by cutting the contemplated improvements in the Green Lake Station district into small contracts. Under the old system, the work would have been let to one contractor at an average of 36 cents per cubic yard. Under the new system the work can be done for 22 cents. The aggregate saving on this Green Lake work is $6,000.

Sues for $30,000. Three months after a heavy stick of wood fell on E. W. Warren, a cement worker, he discovered that he was permanently injured and today he filed suit for $30,000 damages against the Superior Portland Cement Co., of Skagit county.

FRANCE AND MEXICO MAKE LOVE TREATY

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24.—By a treaty between Mexico and France, which was recently negotiated, French citizens in Mexico can marry in Mexico without the usual thirty days notice which is required of all natives and other foreigners. In France Mexican citizens will receive all the privileges they would enjoy in this country. The marriage laws of Mexico will apply to Mexicans in France and the marriage laws of France will apply to the French in Mexico.

FEAR FAKE MEDICINES

Since The Star exposed the fake Fer-Don medical agency, in the Radium Hotel building, 321 Pike st., victims have been very scarce. By actual count but one "patient" per day has been tempted into trying out the treatments. Many communications reach The Star daily commending it for exposing the medical bunco game. Agents of the state medical board are at present engaged in investigating the reputations of the "medical experts." They have secured samples of the medicines given to patients, and will have them analyzed. Within a few days the state medical board will institute prosecutions against the fake curists.

TO GOVERNOR'S CHAIR BY AUTO

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 24.—In his race for the governorship of Nebraska, John C. Dahlmann, "cowboy mayor" of Omaha, will canvass the state from one end to the other in a red automobile. Already Dahlmann has filed for nomination, although the nominating primaries will not be held until away in the summer, and filing so early means that the mayor must incur the expense of a campaign that will continue fully six months prior to the primaries and four months longer in the event of his securing the democratic nomination. Mayor Dahlmann figures that in his big gasoline car he will be able to travel 100 miles per day, which will enable him to cover at least 15,000 miles during the five months. He figures on making three speeches daily.

THEY KEPT THE PIG IN THE BALL ROOM

(By United Press.) STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 24.—Somewhat of a sensation was caused here at an assembly dance given by Stamford's exclusive social set, when a little pig was led into the ballroom by two young men and turned loose. The pig ran squealing about, and some of the ladies climbed on chairs, presumably thinking of rats. When they discovered that it was just a harmless little pig they joined in the chase about the ballroom floor. The scared little porker was finally captured and taken out of doors. The prank was enjoyed by everyone.

Leader of the Fight for City Decency

A. V. BOUILLON.

"A Good Creed for the Incoming Mayor of Seattle," a sermon preached last night by the Reverend W. H. W. Rees, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

"We need a mayor who will be large enough not to insult the better moral elements by flings at the churches and the Savior they worship."

"It is high time that the cities were run in the interests of morality, honesty, economy and morality—and not be turned over to the oligarchy, the scheming politician, and the white slave traffickers."

"A restricted district should not befool the minds of the voters. Select a man who will enforce the law and there will be in Seattle no market for prostitutes or prostitution. When the righteous are in authority the people rejoice; when the wicked bear rule the people mourn."

"He should stand for the strict enforcement of all laws, and not that for the evasion of them. He is not elected to apologize for the law, but to enforce them. He should not take oath to enforce the laws and then, as soon as he takes his seat as mayor, proceed to violate his oath."

"He should have some keen appreciation of the value to a city of clean and unpurchasable manhood, realizing that a good man is of more value than many smokesacks. You cannot build a great city without men."

"He should be a man who, on state occasions, could represent the city in public addresses, so that decent citizens would not be compelled to hang their heads in shame. A man not only of fairly good presence, but of clean speech. A fine example to the growing youth about him."

"He should be able to give impartial recognition to the forces that have made our civilization. And what are they? In a word, they are the forces that have grown out of the presence of the churches, and not the forces that are the offspring of the saloon, the gambling room, the bawdy house, and the race track."

"The influence of one makes for good character, the enhancement of property values, and high social life. The other depreciates values, degrades character, prostitutes social and domestic life, and is a positive detriment to a great civilization."

WHY HE IS FOR BOUILLON

Seth C. Maker, Not a Republican, Will Vote for Bouillon Because He Believes Bouillon Will Fight for Him

Editor Star: I am not a republican, but I expect to vote for Bouillon. I am entirely selfish in this matter and as a means of self protection shall lend what little influence I have to the only man on the ticket who hasn't sold his political birthright for a mess of corporation potage.

An honest man in public office is such a curio that he arouses the wrath and the enmity of the public service corporation and the venom and vituperation of the pap-sucking politician.

They Seek Cover. In this fight there has been too much slot machine, petty drunk, curfew bell talk, and not enough Seattle Electric, city council, Seattle Lighting, paving, grading and big thief agitation.

The corporation mountebanks are keeping away from the grand jury by hiding behind slot machines, and the other grafters are covering up with sermons on the evils of Pike street prostitution.

Bouillon is the only man on the ticket who has refused to be blinded by this show of political hypocrisy. He has put more crimps in the hide of the corporation Gorgon than have all of his political superiors in twenty years. He has poked the mailed fist into the sacred phiz of the grafting Hercules and drawn blood. He has fought a gang of sycophantic, leather-lunged peace lovers of the Gill ilk, and came out of the fray with a clean smell and an honest reputation.

The Seattle Electric company is against Mr. Bouillon, and every time I go home in the evening it stows me away like a human sardine and makes me like it whether I want to or not. It gets its franchise on its own terms, beats the county out of its just taxes, and holds the governmental reins of the municipality.

The Voter Loses. The Seattle Lighting company is against Mr. Bouillon and charges me two prices for gas. It makes the consumer pay a deposit of $5 on meters and exacts an illegal penalty if its bills are not paid on time.

The railroads are against Mr. Bouillon, and every time I do business with them I help to pay dividends on watered stock and stand for official incivility and rotten service. They evade taxes, buy legislation and get valuable franchises for the asking.

The paving and grading contractors are against Mr. Bouillon, and every time I have paid a bill of this kind I have been legally robbed.

The telephone companies are against Mr. Bouillon, and I pay too much for my telephone, stand for inferior service, and am penalized when my bill is not paid in advance.

All of this gang of political charlatans and industrial despots are against Bouillon. I could stand that well enough if they were not all against me, and somehow I get the idea that in Bouillon I have found the man who will take up my side of the fight. It isn't so much my love of Bouillon as it is a desire on my part to keep from being pilfered and plucked and robbed.

Gill and his gang have done nothing except to ease the gaff into me a little deeper every time the chance offered. The corporations, grafters, paving contractors, gamblers and pimps have pooled interests for Gill, but I can't see where I have anything in common with the mob he is to serve. If he makes a single concession to any one of them he has done me an injury. The first law of nature compels me to fight against any enemy of my physical or economic welfare. If Gill runs on his record he is surely entitled

I have listened to abuse and vituperation of Bouillon by those who have axes to grind, but his record goes farther with me than political palaver with dollar marks on it.

I have listened to the praises of Gill by men who have fattened and flourished at my expense and I am distressed and weary and sick at heart, and if I am not in jail or shanghaied, or haven't been "carried off by the pestilence," I am going to vote and work for the other man.

Yours very truly,
 SETH C. MAKER
