SPORT SPARKS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 6.—Baseball fans are jubilant today over the announcement of the purchase of Walter Nagle, formerly star pitcher of the Angels, by President Henry Berry from the Boston Americans for immediate delivery.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Sept. 6.—Lee W. ("Flame") Delhi, star pitcher of the Los Angeles baseball team, is about to become a benedict. His bride to be is Miss Rose V. Leont, 19, of Los Angeles. Delhi gave his age as 22.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—The post season series between the winners of the first and the second half season pennants in the Blue Grass league started here today.

MINOT, S. D.—Drawing of numbers of winners among those registered for government lands in the Fort Berthold Indian reservation commenced today. The usual lottery system is employed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A new minor league in the southwest is being agitated by St. Louis and Kansas City promoters. Wichita, Kans., which withdrew from the Western Oklahoma City, in the Texas League, and Little Rock, formerly in the Southern, would furnish the nucleus of the new circuit.

MILWAUKEE — Ad Wolgast champion lightweight, who is matched with Packer McFarland for a ten-round bout here Sept. 15, began active training today. Wolgast says he is already down to the required weight—123 pounds.

PORTLAND, Or.—Fourteen of the clearest pacers of the West will get away at the Country Club track this afternoon, contesting for the $5,000 purse hung up by the Portland Fair and Livestock association. Among them will be Hal McKinney 2:08 1/2, Nordwell 2:08 1/2.

LANGFORD FAILS TO SHOW HIS SLEEP-PRODUCER

SAM LANGFORD

(By United Press Leased Wire.) NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Those who have been grooming Sam Langford as a likely opponent for Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, are today slowly recovering from a severe jolt as the result of Joe Joannette's game fight at Madison Square Garden against the Boston Bone Crusher.

Langford got the popular decision after ten rounds of fast going, but apparently was unable to deliver the knockout which the fans had expected before the seventh round. Joe was there with both fists at all times, and several times handed out wallops that brought Langford up with a grunt.

THE BULLS FROM THE PIPE

Few fans know that Gus Hettling, whom Judge McCredie loaned to Joe Cohn last fall and created the fuss that ended in a decision by the national commission, was Walter McCredie's first choice for the management of the Portland club in the Northwestern league. The selection of the peaceful third baseman was made after the adoption of the waiver system and was kept a secret. In order to transfer Hettling, McCredie had to ask for waivers. He did not look for any trouble in this respect, but was mistaken. Harry Wolverton of Oakland, in need of talent, was not overlooking a bet like Hettling and naturally did not waive. When the news was wafted over the wire to McCredie he turned blue in the face. McCredie was outwitted and reluctantly he received the check of $600, the cash consideration for Hettling's services. McCredie liked Hettling and thought he was a good ball player. Gus is a man of very few words, but what he says carries considerable weight. He would have made a sterling manager. With the $600 he secured McCredie purchased Nic Williams.

Hackenschmidt was in such grand condition the other day that he burst into song—and the irrepressible Doc Rolier gave it to the press. After the match he sang another tune, and again it broke into print.

In six years' play, Joe Tyler, the Spokane tennis expert, has won over 100 cups. This year he won 16.

Umpire George Hildebrand has taken less money from the ball players than any umpire the Coast league has ever had. "What do I want to take their money for?" explained Hildy, when this unusual condition of affairs became known. "The ball players need what they earn, for they are only working seven months during the year, and what they make has to tide them over the other five months of the year. Oftentimes they cannot get good positions on account of the short space of time they have at their command, and are compelled to loaf through the off season. I did not relish a fine when I was playing, although I only paid one, to Bull Perrine, in my life, and I am not going to take the players' money if I can possibly get by without it."

Well, it's come and gone—the big match. It wasn't so big, after all. Frank took a gentle hold of George and eased him to the mat. Then he took a playful hold of Hack's toe, and Hack said: "Ouch! It hurts, Frank—cut the rough stuff." At the same time the Lion gently slipped over on his back until his shoulders touched the mat. Hack says his knee was in bad condition, and perhaps it was, but it wasn't the knee half as much as a strange little animal that came over on the steamer with Hack, that accomplished his downfall. The animal went into the arena, and Hack couldn't keep his eyes off it to save his life. It was his goat. The goat danced every time Gotch winked his eye. As a matter of fact, Hack has always doubted, in his own mind, his ability to defeat the American champion since their first memorable encounter, and all this little by-tail-coming from his training camp merely helped him keep up his own courage. After all, there is some difference between a bulge of a man with strength that could apparently crush an ox, and a lithe, active athlete, lightning fast, and the originator of three-fourths of the science that goes with the present-day catch-as-catch-can wrestling. Bring on your Zybsecos, your barefooted Turks and your turbaned Hindus.

"Big Bill" Steen was in the midst of a fanning bee the other day; "Say," said Bill, as though struck by a brilliant thought, "who do you think stands the best show East?"

"The New York Giants," said the player who was addressed by Steen.

"Who do you like?" some one ventured to ask Steen.

"Ringling Brothers," was Bill's curt reply. Quick! the fire-extinguisher!

Just hold your breath—the performance will continue shortly. Next act, ladies and gentlemen, will be A. Wolgast and P. McFarland, in a ten-round go, in Beertown, for the lightweight championship of the world, September 15. And, believe me, it will be some scrap.

Folks at the White Sox park yesterday wanted to see Gotch win, but they wanted him to have a run for his money.

Two twirling phenoms, who in the spring gave great promise—Paul Strand and Dave Skeels—both laid up with sore arms. If these two boys could have kept in the going, the Beavers wouldn't have that big lead they now enjoy.

"Little Bluch" Frary, daughter of the National league umpire, is a conspicuous daily attendant at the Spokane games. She knows a few of the players personally and has a lot of baseball in that little round old head.

Pittsburg fans got their first look at the much-heralded Harry O'Toole in the second game of the double-header with St. Louis recently. The first game was won by St. Louis. Throughout the first game the crowd called for O'Toole continuously, and when the "big fellow" went into the box at the call of the second game there was a demonstration that made the pitcher blush. When he struck out the first man that faced him he had won the crowd, apparently, but when he struck out eight others he could have owned Forbes field.

Let's see—what was that we heard our old friend, Doc Rolier, say? "Gotch is strong, Hack stronger; Gotch fast, Hack equally so," etc. Call again, Doc.

Tommy Ryan has been engaged as boxing instructor at the Multnomah Athletic club, Lonnie Austin, please note. George Douglas will again hold forth at Spokane.

Jakey Baumgarten has been heard from again. He breaks into print in the Frisco papers long enough to remark that Ralph Willis is the best pitcher in the Northwest league. Well, maybe.

BATTLE WIND AND WAVES FOR SIX HOURS AND LIKE IT

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Splash! The almost nude forms of three women struck the water of New York bay. A moment later they were swimming side by side, headed for Coney Island, 15 miles distant.

It was raining heavily; the air was cold; even in the bay white caps tossed the boats that followed the women.

Miss Elsie Golding soon took the lead. Behind her swam Miss Lillian Howard. Swimming third was Mrs. Clara Bouton. Behind the women swam 14 men, most of them coast life savers, who were having a race of their own, and who expected, incidentally, to outswim the women.

Before the 12 miles of bay had been covered the men surrendered and were taken into boats. Miss Golding was far ahead. She rounded

And just to show that the long swim hadn't tired them, they spent the evening at Coney Island.

"All over the United States this year," said Miss Golding, after the race, "women have been proving that swimming is one sport in which they excel. Women are especially fitted by nature to be good swimmers. I'm not afraid to race any man along the Atlantic coast in a 15-mile swim."

The picture on the left shows the swimmers making the start. Miss Golding, winner of the race, is shown on the right.

Tigers in Fifth Place

It happened yesterday. The Tigers have been going down at a pretty rapid rate, but no one thought they would get as low as fifth place.

They landed there, all right, with a "sickening thud." While they have won four more than the Pirates they have also lost four more.

And in the percentage table are one point behind. By winning yesterday while the Beavers and Indians were idle, the Giants gained half a lap.

The Indians are still six behind the Beavers and the Giants three behind the Indians—nine from the lead.

The Giants tamed the Tigers yesterday by requiring 11 innings to do it. Score 3 to 8. Wigge pitched the first five innings for the Giants and found the sliding tough. Moe pitched the next three and Sage finished. For the Tigers, Higgins pitched it and Baker finished it.

It was a pretty exciting affair at the time the winning run came over in the eleventh. Then it was that Fred Weed came through with a hot double, Raymond sacrificed him to third, and he scored on a passed ball.

Entries Are Coming Fast

Entries for the Seattle Dog Show are coming in fast this week. It being the last week for listing of entries with the club.

Secretary Palmer reports that Boston terriers are to be a much larger class than heretofore, this popular breed having become widely owned in the Northwest during the current year.

The first entry received for the fall show was the Boston terrier Thorndike Girlie, owned by Alfred Carino of Everett. Other winners from Tacoma and California will be shown, making the competition very keen for the local fanciers to contend against. Entries for the show close September 10.
