FOR GRIP & COLDS

All winter long, we have been harping on one string, trying to drive home the fact that the most important time to take care of a cold is, when it is coming on, watching out for the first feeling, the first signs, lassitude, a sneeze or a shiver.

Any remedy, especially "Seventy-seven," is much more efficacious when taken at the beginning of a cold.

If you wait till your bones begin to ache, it will take longer to break up.

It pays to keep "Seventy-seven" handy, it is a small vial of pleasant pellets, fits the vest pocket. At your Drugist, 25c., or mailed.

MAJOR GENERAL WOOD WRITES OF PLANS FOR GREAT RESERVE ARMY

By United Press Leased Wire. WASHINGTON, April 19.—If plans of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, Secretary of War Garrison and United States military experts go through as actively begun today, this country will be able, in case of war, to put into the field a vast army of scientifically trained soldiers at a moment's notice. The system which was today for the first time publicly advocated by the army's chief of staff, is the short enlistment term and longer reserve service. If the plan, as outlined in detail by Gen. Wood, carries, it will mean that every man who has served his short enlistment term and has become a member of the reserves, will be liable to call to colors in the event of war.

As soon as this instruction is completed, they should return to their economic occupations and be replaced by other men. The change, of course, will be gradual, as men are not enlisted in our army as in European armies, at fixed intervals, but come in irregularly.

When it is remembered that our army is limited by law to 100,000, and seldom has more than 90,000, and in case of war with a first-class power, it would be necessary to have immediately a much larger force, a portion only of which can be secured by filling up the regular army to statutory strength and bringing into the United States service the militia, also brought to statutory strength. It is evident to any one who gives the matter a moment's thought that we must have some system under which we can fill up these organizations with trained men, and not untrained ones, for, to fill them up with untrained men would be to destroy their efficiency; and, in order to fill them quickly—for modern wars come with little notice—we must have trained men in reserve; and in order to have them we must send them through the regular army under a system of short enlistment, and employ a similar procedure in the militia.

This means that we must adopt the shortest enlistment in both establishments—the regular army and the militia—consistent with reasonably good training, and as soon as the men are trained replace them by others. I believe in an enlistment period with the colors of three years, with the possibility of transferring to the reserve after two years, provided the man shows himself to be thoroughly well instructed. Speaking most conservatively, ten men can be maintained in the reserve for the cost of maintaining one man with the colors, even if they receive a small yearly stipend, say $30, and are allowed full pay while at camp of instruction. With a short enlistment and a reserve we shall get a better class of recruits, we shall get much greater returns for our money because we shall have not only an efficient active army, but we shall have behind it a body of trained men engaged in their normal civil pursuits, who are ready to come to the colors if needed. Once the reserve is established and filled up, men go into it and leave it in about equal numbers every year, so that it is maintained at a more or less even strength. What we want is a sufficient number of men so trained as to be able to discharge their duties as soldiers with reasonable efficiency, and we want to establish this condition with the minimum interference with the economic lives of the men affected. As the reserve must be considerably larger than the active establishment, it is necessary that the period of service in the reserve must be longer than with the colors.

Service in the reserve should be with the understanding that the men will not be disturbed in their occupations or residences except in case of war and for the instruction periods. The reservist has entire liberty of residence, occupation and movement during his period in the reserve, and is required only to keep the war department informed of his whereabouts. There are many young men who are anxious to receive military instruction who would be glad to serve for a short period in the army, but they can not afford to go into the army for a long enlistment. The question which we ask ourselves is, what is the minimum time necessary to instruct a man properly, provided we are able to concentrate our garrisons, and so arrange our military establishments that the bulk of the men's time will be devoted purely to military work? Personally, I believe this can be accomplished in two years, and will be wise to consider authorizing an enlistment of not less than one year for men who have certain educational qualifications.

ELOPEMENT TO SEND TWO MEN TO PEN?

By United Press Leased Wire. SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—When Maury Diggs, prominent architect of Sacramento, Cal., and F. Drew Caminetti, national guardman, son of a state senator, eloped with two high school girls of that city, they didn't know that they would be prosecuted for white slavery.

But Uncle Sam, through United States District Attorney McNab, of San Francisco, has taken a hand in the elopement and has had both men indicted by a grand jury and they will shortly be tried for violation of the Mann law.

Located at Reno. Caminetti and Diggs are both married men with children. One day, several weeks ago, they disappeared and at the same time Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris, high school girls and daughters of prominent Sacramento families, also dropped from sight. A state wide search was immediately instituted, and officers in every city were notified. Suspicion pointed to an elopement. The quartette was finally located in a cottage at Reno, Nevada.

They were brought back to their homes, the men being lodged in jail for their own safety, as it was feared that relatives of the girls might try to take the law into their own hands.

Girls Also Held. Then Uncle Sam took a hand in the game. The men were arrested on a charge of white slavery, under the Mann act, which makes it unlawful to take women from state to state for immoral purposes. The girls were held as witnesses. A side issue was the indictment of Chas. Harris, lawyer and politician of Sacramento, on charges of having attempted to coach Marsha Warrington to tell a story which would exonerate Diggs, the man with whom she eloped.

When the case goes to trial it will probably be one of the most sensational in the history of the state because of the prominence of the accused men and the girls, and also because this is the first time that the white slave law has been invoked in the case of an elopement between married and unmarried persons.

JUNIOR OFFICE BOY

By United Press Leased Wire. NEW YORK, Sunday—nothing like being on the safe side. I guess that's what an old lady thinks that goes to a little church over in Brooklyn this here church got a new preacher a while ago.

he was a yung feller, and he wanted to see whether his stuff seemed to be getting over with the brethren and sistren.

so he kept looking them over out of the corner of his lapps all the time he was tearing off the chin goods.

pretty soon he noticed that every time he mentioned the name of satan, this old dame would kick in with a bow.

here is a funny sketch, 'he thinks to himself, this dear sister must have her signals crossed, or sumthing.

so he speaks to her after church, and says he has piped her pulling the sabbath every time he speaks of satan.

and he thinks it must be a mistake on her part, and won't she please be more careful where she does them bows.

much to his surprise, the old lady says there sint no mistake, she sakes it a point to bow every time satan is mentioned.

my dear good woman, says the parson, what is your object, may I ask, in doing sutch a singlar thing.

well, says the old dame, it don't cost nothing to be polite, and you never can tell what may happen.

The Best Story of the Week in Washington

A few minutes before President Wilson was due at the capitol to read his tariff message to congress, Charley Lewis, the famous lobbyist of the liquor interests, stroiled into Oscar Underwood's office. As he stood talking to the democratic leader, Underwood lighted a cigaret and began to smoke.

"Better be careful, Oscar," said Lewis. "If teacher catches you smoking he's liable to make you stay after school."

White Man or Asiatic-- Which? It's the Question West Must Answer, Writes Labor Commissioner of California, Telling of Need of Law on Japs

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—"If the West is to be preserved for the white race, then we must legislate against the Japanese."

John P. McLaughlin isn't an alarmist. He isn't a jingo. He is a mighty intelligent man who has worked himself up from the working class to a position of honor and trust in California. He is state labor commissioner, and it is his duty to enforce the laws for the protection of the working class. His viewpoint is that of the 95 per cent who labor for a living and not hundred inhabitants, that there is only one white man in business; the rest are Japanese. He also raised the argument that the intermingling of the races is to be feared. There have been numerous cases of this throughout the state and generally they have ended disastrously, sometimes tragically, in the most appalling and brutal of murders.

It is impossible to estimate how much land the Japanese control in that of the other 5 per cent who live off what the 95 per cent produce. So if John P. McLaughlin declares that it is necessary to legislate against the Jap in order to preserve this great western empire—the great agricultural domain west of the Rocky mountains—he does so from a knowledge of facts, which bear out his statements.

The Japanese situation is growing evil easier to curb now than later. The farmers assert that if the legislature doesn't pass the anti-alien land act at this session, California because most of it is held by unrecorded leases. Some unauthoritative estimates place it at 400,000 acres, but this is only the wildest kind of a guess. However, it is known that Geo. I. "If the Japanese are able to control the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands, as it is reported they do, why can they not in time control the vast agricultural domain of the West, extending from the Rocky mountains to the Pacific ocean?"

When Mr. Jap first came to this coast he always willingly accepted the farmer's terms; now he has obtained such a monopoly of the state's agriculture that he dictates terms to the farmer—and Mr. Farmer has to accept them, too. "Wherever Mr. Jap gets control he drives out the white man entirely," Williams, who represented the farmers in their argument for the anti-alien bill before the legislature, said that in Elk Grove, a California town of several

POPE'S HEALTH MUCH BETTER

ROME, April 19.—Pope Pius was reported much better today, partaking of nourishment. Today was the third day marked by an absence of fever, and the doctors say that if he can pass two more such days he may safely be considered convalescent.

Hereafter the doctors will issue only one bulletin daily. Today's bulletin said: "The pope passed a tranquil night, his condition being much improved. His temperature is 97.1."

WHAT IS A SUFFICIENT INCOME UPON WHICH ONE SHOULD MARRY?

Wellesley says a man must have $5,000 a year. A study of the average incomes of the men married by 100 Smith girls out of the last four classes to graduate shows $4,600 a year to be the needed amount.

The average income of the husbands of 100 Vassar girls from the last four classes is, as nearly as can be ascertained, $3,000. The average income of the husbands of 100 Bryn Mawr girls is $1,800.

What income do the readers of The Star consider sufficient for undertaking the great adventure? The editor will be glad to publish letters from men or women who have thought of this subject.

What income did you marry on? And was it enough? Or what income will you marry on? And why do you think it will be enough?

WHOSE GUARANTEE IS GOOD? Would you consider the guarantee of a new young Dentist who has failed in Spokane and come to Seattle, and who is unknown, except for the recommendation he gives himself, or would you consider the guarantee of a Dentist who has been in Seattle 12 years and in that time has built up the largest Private Dental Practice in the United States?

Thousands Know Me—Ask Them. If a suspicious-looking character should get off the train from Spokane, and start uptown, and an officer should say to him, "Who are you?" and the suspicious one should say, "I am a Dentist, thousands know me—ask them," the officer would say, "Come on, Bum, tell your vapors to the judge. You are either a hushouse or you think me foolish and we will investigate you." Investigation will show that this class of Dentist never remain in one place very long. If they lie in their advertisements, they will lie to and rob you.

Who is a Judge? Are you a Judge of Dental work and would you sooner take the word of a young, inexperienced Dentist on what he can do, and do so, or would you prefer to have your Dental work done by a specialist and an expert of from twenty years' practice in the particular work desired, and inspected by a Dentist of years' experience, standing and reputation in Seattle? The fox never gives good advice to chickens.

FALSE TEETH-PLATE WORK. If I could sell a set of teeth for ten dollars that only cost me six teen cents, I would make money while I stayed in Seattle, but I would not stay long. The Fox would be gone and the people would be looking for a Dentist. Make a good set of teeth for $4.95 and $12.

Gold and Porcelain Crowns. My large practice affords special expert Dentist on this class of beautiful work. I personally inspect every case before it is started and after it is finished, and are you of am I, the better Judge of Dental work? I make crowns for $3.95 and $5. and you pay for what you get and no more. I guarantee your work, but don't sell you any bunk.

Fillings of Teeth. The Fox Dentist puts crowns on teeth and gets $5, when a Dentist of reputation would put in a filling for $1 and save the patient $4 and give them a better tooth.

I have been in Seattle too long to begin to rob the people now.

Extracting Teeth. For twelve years I have been doing "extracting in my offices and experience has made it possible for me to remove teeth without pain. This I do without charge.

My Offices. I occupy 22 office rooms in the Union Block, where my offices have been located for 21 years. A separate reception room for ladies, and a special hospital room is reserved for patients as a retiring room after extractions where a nurse is in constant attendance. I require seven operating rooms, a special sanitary extracting room for women and children and one for men.
