THE man who carries the dinner pail is tickled if he gets a week's vacation. The superior court judges decide they'll take two months, as usual. And it's the man with the dinner pail who pays their fat salaries while they loaf.

GILSON GARDNER, The Star's Washington correspondent, declares the United States supreme court is actually becoming progressive. Further, confronted with a lot of work, the judges decide to clean it up before they start on vacation.

LAZY JUDGES DECIDE TO TAKE AN EIGHT WEEKS' VACATION DURING THE SUMMER MONTHS ON FULL PAY

Our nine superior court judges held a little meeting the other day, spilled some judicial language, and presto! They're each going to take an eight weeks' vacation!

The mayor couldn't get away with a stunt like that, or the chief of police, or the county auditor, or the city comptroller, or you, Mr. Bookkeeper, Mr. Clerk, Mr. Teamster, and the rest of the working folks. You'd be tickled to death if you could get two weeks vacation.

BUT THE JUDGES CAN. THEY'RE BOSS, YOU KNOW, EVEN IF THE FOURTH OF JULY ORATORS DO TELL US THEY'RE ONLY SERVANTS OF THE PEOPLE.

Two months off for nine judges is equivalent to 18 months for one judge. And that's not counting two weeks off for each of them at Christmas, nor the other holidays and semi-holidays and non-holidays that they take when the lazy bug stings them.

These are the hard-toiling judges, whose work is so constantly piled up on them that at every session of the legislature there is a demand for more judges, so that we now have nine of them. And we ought to have more, they'll tell you, for is not the King county docket filled with cases a month behind? IT IS.

BUT WHAT OF THAT? THE JUDGES MUST HAVE TWO MONTHS VACATION AT FULL PAY, $4,000 PER YEAR. THAT IS $1,000 MORE THAN THE CONSTITUTION FIXES, BUT OUR COUNTY COMMISSIONERS ARE LIBERAL WITH THE HARD-WORKING JUDGES. THEY ALLOW THEM $1,000 EXTRA A YEAR.

When September rolls round, the docket will be a good deal more than a month behind. But the judges must have eight weeks' vacation. They said so themselves. Didn't have to ask their boss. They decide when to take their vacation, where to go, how to go, and how long to stay. And they draw full pay for it from the peoples' treasury!

And if the work gets too crowded, why it's simple: Let the legislature create a few more of those $4,000 judgeships.

SUFFRAGET'S ACT TO COST HER LIFE

EPSOM, England, June 4.—Determination on the part of the militant suffragettes to prevent King George's colt Anmer from winning the great derby here today, resulted in fatal injury of Miss Elizabeth Davidson, 35, who laid down her life to stop the great race horse.

The woman dashed upon the course at Tottenham corner and grasped Anmer's bridle. The colt reared high in air, and then, with its jockey, Herbert Jones, fell flat upon the woman's body. She was terribly crushed.

The woman's daring feat was staged before thousands upon thousands of pleasure seekers, who had gathered to see the race. So quickly did the affair happen that no one realized what the woman intended to do, but women onlookers shrieked and some fainted when they saw the horse fall on her.

For several minutes the woman's body lay on the track, and great difficulty was experienced in driving back the crowd so that she could be carried to a nearby stable and cared for.

She was terribly mutilated by the horse's hoofs, which struck her repeatedly while the animal was trying to get on its feet, but she did not let go of the bridle until she lost consciousness.

Jones, the jockey, was hurried to a hospital. His condition is serious. The colt was not badly hurt.

15 Months Old, Can't Walk, but Goes Swimming

REDMOND, Cal., June 4.—Laughing and splashing in water up to his neck, little Boyd Crabtree, a 15-month-old wonder, is creating a sensation on the beach, where he goes in swimming every day. Although the remarkably developed "kiddie" can scarcely walk alone yet, he is an expert little swimmer. In a snug little bathing suit, Boyd draws a crowd of admiring mothers and fathers whenever he enters the plunge. Experts claim he is the most perfect baby that ever paddled in the water.

LANE NAMES LOBBYISTS IN SENATE QUIZ

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Subpoenas for 50 manufacturers and others alleged to have been active in fighting the Underwood tariff bill were issued today by the senate sub-committee of the judiciary committee, which is investigating President Wilson's "insidious lobby" charge. Among those reported to have been summoned are Henry Oxnard and Frank Lowrey, who are fighting free sugar; Buford Lynch, working in connection with patent medicines, and Frank Gorman and Allan Irvine, manufacturers' agents. Senator Overman of North Carolina, chairman of the committee, stated he expected to complete the testimony of senators before to-morrow.

Sen Lane of Oregon was the first witness today. Asked what lobbyists had called on him, Lane pointed to S. W. McClure, secretary of the Wool Growers' association, who was seated in the rear of the room, saying: "That's one of them. What is your name, anyhow?" McClure stammered his name, and Lane continued: "You were much alarmed at the idea of wool going on the free list."

Lane named Frank Cheney, a silk manufacturer, as one of his most persistent callers. Cheney probably will be subpoenaed.

Where Robert Carr Dove Six Stories Into Street

This photograph, taken by The Star's photographer a few minutes after Carr's fatal leap, shows the Pioneer building, the crowd collected about the victim's body in the street, and the course the body took in its fall.

MAN PLUNGES TO HIS DEATH

Robert Carr, 32, believed to have been seized with a fit of insanity, at 9:40 this morning jumped from the roof of the six-story Pioneer building, First av. and James st., and was instantly killed.

The body was left lying in the street for 50 minutes, although the patrol wagon had reached the scene a few moments after the tragedy was enacted.

The patrolmen announced they would wait for the coroner to view the remains. In the meantime, the body was left uncovered and bleeding, where hundreds of men, women and children crowded to see it.

Carr was recently employed as cook for Manca's cafe. He was married and has two children. The family residence is at 4418 30th av. S.

Carr was already on the roof when F. A. Poncin, superintendent of the building, saw him. Poncin was climbing up to the roof, shouting to Carr to get off, when the man suddenly stretched out his arms, and dove off the building. He struck the street a foot from the curb on James st.

Papers in his clothes gave his identity, and Mrs. Carr was notified.

The body was finally removed to the public morgue.

POLICEMEN BEAT UP UNCONSCIOUS MEN

Giving an exhibition of "utmost and unimaginable brutality," as it is described by the 15 women and an equal number of men employed in the general office of the Charles H. Lilly Co., Patrolmen S. P. Doyle and T. J. Rudd, at 9 o'clock this morning, kicked and cuffed and viciously attacked Charles Wilkinson and Joseph Brown, found almost unconsciously drunk at Railroad av. and Main st.

The brutal assault was made in the evident attempt to revive the men. They were lifted in the air, and dropped heavily on the sidewalk several times. The patrolmen shoved them around carelessly, punching them and kicking them with entire abandon. "If that is what they do outside," said one of the girl employes, "what must it be inside the jail."

Wilkinson and Brown were booked at the city jail as drunk and disorderly persons. Chief Bannick at noon today suspended Patrolman S. P. Doyle for 10 days. "I have investigated the complaint against Doyle and Rudd," said the chief, "and find that Patrolman Rudd is not to blame in any way. Doyle attempted to rouse the men from their stupor, but, it seems, used unnecessary force."

LOST SNAKE COMES BACK; RECOGNIZES A FORMER MASTER

From Our Special Correspondent. BOTHELL, June 4.—George Adolphus Ginn is the hero of Bothell today, following his recovery of a pet bull snake, which wandered away from his back yard last week. Lots of folks in Bothell didn't know Ginn was a snake charmer until he dashed through a crowd of boys who were throwing stones at his runaway pet. "Eat 'em alive," he shouted at the coiled reptile, and the snake, recognizing his master's voice, uncoiled, crawled into his arms and cuddled its head on his shoulder. Several girls and two members of the Ladies' Aid Society almost fainted when they saw Ginn and the snake swapping carcasses as he carried it home. He has promised to give an exhibition in the town hall soon.

GIRLS INSIST ON RIDING ASTRIDE

By United Press Leased Wire. WASHINGTON, June 4.—The edict issued by Gen. J. P. Hickman, forbidding women riding astride in the parade during the anniversary of the United Confederate of Chattanooga, Tenn., "makes them tired," Washington women announced angrily today.

Miss Mildred Greble, noted capital horsewoman, says she wanted to know "why women couldn't wear riding trousers, if they were more comfortable, if men could, and did, use face powder?" "My sister Anna and myself," she said, "ride astride and wear riding trousers because it is more comfortable. Why, the idea is foolish. I'll wear what I want."

SPOKANE, Wash., June 4.—Deciding to proceed with the recall movement against Mayor Hindley and Commissioner Fairley, the recall committee of the Central Labor Council is taking steps today to circulate petitions and file them with the city clerk prior to June 11, so that the election may be held under the more or less satisfactory state law, which goes into effect on that date.

The grand jury is also going to the bottom of the warrentite graft, and had before it Commissioner Knudsen Tuesday afternoon.

FAIRBANKS, Wash., June 4.—Answering a call from a close friend living at Circle Hot Springs, where there is no doctor, Miss Agnes A. Sullivan, a nurse, left here with the mail carrier on his last trip over the fast-melting snow trail, and, according to a wireless message received here, arrived safely today. She was forced to sleep out several nights on the 160-mile trip and was forced to ford several high streams.

PLOT TO MURDER GOV. HATFIELD?

By United Press Leased Wire. CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 4.—An alleged plot to assassinate Gov. Hatfield is uncovered here today in the arrest of Lee Carpenter, a miner. A warrant for Carpenter's arrest was sworn out by Mrs. Carpenter, who charges that her husband threatened to kill her if she revealed an alleged plot to kill the governor and others who are endeavoring to bring about an adjustment of the coal miners' strike troubles.

PARENTS ARE "MEAN OLD THINGS"; GIRLS GO AWAY

Their parents being "mean old things"—as most parents are—Dorothy White, 15, and Grace McMasters, 14, last Monday evening concluded: "We'll run away from home, and never, never come back. And THEN won't they be sorry!" Bound for the ends of the world—Tacoma—they walked from Queen Anne hill downtown, and boarded an Alki Point car. Getting off at the Stockade hotel, they made camp on the beach beyond the municipal bathing pavilion, sleeping on a picnic table. Arising at 3 yesterday morning, they climbed the hill and reached the end of the Fauntleroy line. From there they walked along the beach to Des Moines, 16 miles. They reached Des Moines at 3 in the afternoon, where the woman proprietor of a restaurant gave them their first meal. The steamer Deering left Des Moines for Tacoma at 5. They had two-bits between them, and a man gave them another. They took the steamer. At Tacoma the girls tried to pawn their watches, but failed. Late last night a man, whose name the girls say is Charles M. Davis, loaned them $1, taking Grace's watch as security. All this while the girls had lugged their bundles, containing their best dresses—Dorothy's pink and Grace's white—for, once away from parental despotism, there would yet be social triumphs. The grievance had been that Grace had to go to bed at an absurdly early hour, and Dorothy's mother required her to perform certain household chores that became irksome. But late last night Grace and Dorothy were in no mood for freedom or social triumphs. They wanted their mothers. And they caught an Interurban back to Seattle. At midnight they were home. Grace is the daughter of O. A. McMasters, 1924 Ninth av. W., and Dorothy's parents live at No. 1952, close by. Both attend Queen Anne school.

California Police Compel Nature Man, Seeking a Bride in the Nude, to Lengthen His "Trousersettes"

By United Press Leased Wire. SACRAMENTO, June 4.—Grudgingly acknowledging the conventions by wearing a sweater and a pair of trunks, to supplement the natural covering of his flowing auburn beard, Ernest Willing Darling, the herbivorous "nature man" who is on a world quest for a mate who believes in "wearing few or no clothes," was today looking for this kindred soul in the capital city. "Nature," as the former Stanford university man prefers to be known, lengthened the extent of his trouserettes today, following the censorship of the police, who delivered the pronouncement that "Sacramento does not let anyone flit about here in a primeval state." "Somewhere," says Darling, "I will find the advanced type of nature woman. When I do, I will have my mate. It makes no difference what color or race she is. One thing only I demand—she must wear few or no clothes." Then he began munching a banana.
