Hair Goods Out of the Raw Material

SPECIAL OFFER DURING THE BALANCE OF JULY
Double Switch—Six Separate Stems—Regular Value $25.00. All This Month. $12.50

I always have on hand the finest quality of cut hair ever brought to Seattle. It is uniform in color and quality, each tress cut from one woman's hair. It comes in all shades, and we can make any shade to match perfectly your own hair. Madame, we want to make you something out of this cut hair, but my aim not merely to give satisfaction, but make it worth your while to deal at the Factory Hair Store for good, solid, business reasons. We are out of the high-rent district and avoid extravagances, therefore save you money. Small establishments mean high rent and extra expense. Does this add to the merit of the goods? No. Who pays for it, then? The dealer? Well, just think this over. For this reason we are able to do better by you and can save you from 10 per cent to 35 per cent on all manufactured goods. We manufacture everything in hair goods, including Front Pieces, Transformations, Curis, Puffs, Toupees, Wigs, Old Lady Pieces and any special pattern or design. Bring in or mail us your cut hair and combings. Every order receives immediate attention. The work is turned out as quickly as careful workmanship will permit. We guarantee all our hair goods and work. The reputation of the Factory Hair Store is upheld in every transaction, no

I do not carry cheap, sweat-shop switches that are sold in other stores at from 50c to 95c. My cheapest switch sells for $3. Cheaper goods are unsatisfactory and insanitary.

Letters To Cynthia Grey

MODERN WOMAN ON TIGHT SKIRTS

Dear Miss Grey: A woman writer in your paper the other day asked for other women to say something on tight skirts. Here I am, with all my 1913 theories: Of course, I do not believe in the extremes of present fashions, nor in those of past periods, one of which is typified in the hoop skirt, which I think was no less vulgar than the tight skirt. The nicest kind of girls wore the hoop skirt, and not a word was said; but then—ah, me! to the critic and the poet the girl of the past is always the best. That is our only consolation—some day the poets will rave on the beauty and purity of outline of the human form, and the suggestion of grace as shown in the light skirt of the twentieth century. To come back to earth from my poetical flight, I think the trouble lies greatly in the minds of the men of the present and those of the past. The men of that day saw no vulgarity in the hoop skirt, neither should the man of today see harm in the tube, hobble or whatever skirt a woman chooses to wear, and the man who has trained his mind to see only beauty and grace in the feminine form is not shocked when he catches a glimpse of the same, but illy concealed by the clinging gown.

MODERN YOUNG WOMAN.

I repeat, I do not like extremes; but any sane-minded man knows that to discard the weight, the cumbersome of many skirts, flip-flopping in the wind and impeding the free use of the body, means relief to woman. I, for one, do not hold myself responsible for men's morals, as long as my own mind is right.

A MAN SPEAKS ON MARRIAGE

Dear Miss Grey: Your reply to "Young Wife" is good, as most of your answers are; but why not declare for a close study of the laws of sex? Legal marriage, without a more comprehensive understanding of the mutual obligations than obtained at present, is tragically partial. As a result, we see debilitated women and puny children. With children to care for, the mothering instinct paramount, the uncertainty of the family income, etc., the power to inspire is weakened in the mother; the weak, unthinking husband seeks the "bright lights," seldom, if ever, discovering the cause of the loss of charm in his wife, and that his dissatisfaction is his own doing—his mistakeness of the right of his companion to health and happiness. His wife is his property—the church and state in past and present history do declare it. She, too, believes it until ignorance of natural laws rouses her to a declaration of her rights as a human being, law or no law; then the divorce court.

A GIRL'S HOME LIFE

Dear Miss Grey: I am a young girl of 15, soon will be 16, and badly in need of advice. I have been going with a young man of 17, and have gone out several places with him, and he looked after me as he would his own sister. One Saturday night he brought me home, and my mother and father were angry, and sent for him next morning and hawled him out, and now he has gone away. He writes to me and I write to him, and, Miss Grey, no boy can look after a girl better than he can. Miss Grey, I am afraid to tell you, but I am getting so I can't take my mother's and father's advice because they treat me so mean, and if I talk with a boy or girl, they say it isn't nice to speak to them. What I want to know is, should I give up my girl and boy friends and say not a word because my parents don't want them to come to the house?

BROKEN HEARTED.

A—I am sorry for you, dear, in spite of (or maybe because) the silly signature you used. I am sure if you could select sensible companions and be a sensible girl yourself, and not go off with one boy alone, your parents would not object. If they are really cruel, you can resist the juvenile judge, who is a good friend to the young people.

ONE OF THEIR "BLUFFS"

Dear Miss Grey: I am a girl of 15, and was engaged to a man a year ago last month; but now I have my eyes open, and can see how foolish I was. I loved this man once, but now that love has turned to hate, because he runs around with every girl he can. He says if I break the engagement he will get me into a lot of trouble. Don't think me foolish, but can he get me into trouble, and how?

WORRIED.

A—He can be gotten into trouble for making such a threat. He is trying to frighten you for some object of his own. Ask protection of the county, or city. Go to the prosecuting attorney's office, and he will be bound over to keep the peace. It is high time some girl sees that this little game is stopped. It will not be made public.

JUSTICE TO CHILDREN

Dear Miss Grey: I am a girl of 12 years, and worked for a family for $2.50 a month. Now they won't pay me unless I come back to work for them. Is there a way to get my money? The boss says no for two months. Please answer. MARRIE.

POPULAR GIRLS AND POLICE FORCE

Dear Miss Grey: We are three girls and are very popular with the boys, and are also considered very pretty. Our ages are from 16 to 18, two of us are dark and the other a blond. We were all out the other evening.

REFER RENTON ROAD'S OFFER

The council yesterday referred to the utilities and the finance committees the proposition made by Scott Calhoun for the sale of the Seattle, Renton & Southern. Calhoun's offer is to sell for $1,200,000, $350,000 to be paid in cash, the balance in 25-year bonds at 5 per cent, to be paid out of 25 per cent of the gross earnings of the property. The bonds would, in this wise, be neither a lien on the city credit nor on the railway property.

All litigation between the company and the city is to be dropped if the offer is accepted. Members of the City Ownership league have objected to the proposition on the ground that the road is only worth about $350,000.

PEARL NECKLACE BRINGS $90,000

LONDON, July 15.—A magnificent five-row pearl necklace, composed of 471 pearls, brought $90,000 at a sale of imported jewels at Christie's, Maitland, the collector, was the successful bidder. A magnificent three-row pearl necklace, composed of 199 well matched and graduated pearls of the finest orient, sold for $80,000.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

Three sessions will be held by the Northwest Music Teachers' association today. At noon, Judson Waldo Mather, organist and choir-master at Plymouth Congregational church, gave an organ recital. Secretary Dill welcomed the delegates at the Washington hotel last night in behalf of Gov. Lister. Mayor Cotterill made the address of welcome in behalf of the city. Mme. Mary Louise Cary responded in behalf of the delegates.

The principal subject discussed was proposed registration law for music teachers.

TO INSPECT HILLS

By a vote of 5 to 3, the council Monday adopted Councilman Griffiths' resolution, which seeks to have the city dade and the park board examine all hillsides and other places difficult to improve, especially where there have been slides on account of regrades, with the view of acquiring the same by the city through purchase or condemnation. Councilmen Goddard, Wardell, and Haas voted against the measure, Goddard predicting that such a course would cost the city $9,000,000.

WILL HE COUNT IT

BELLINGHAM, July 15.—C. X. Larrabee, South Bellingham capitalist, has disposed of his real estate holdings in Portland, Or., to a Portland and English syndicate, for a consideration of $2,500,000. The deal is declared to be one of the biggest realty transactions ever closed on the Pacific coast. Larrabee plans to invest a large part of his capital here at once.
