

Ty and Veach Are Doubled on Single and Two-Base Hit

Ty Cobb and Veach were the victims of a double play on a double and a single during the Detroit series in New York. Ty took his time going to third, waiting to see if Veach's hit would be caught. Veach tried to stretch it and Cree's throw to Hartzell nipped him. Cobb overran third and Hartzell was on the job with a quick relay to Midkiff that telescoped the fleet Tyrus sliding back.

SPORTS

The prize mixup of the week occurred in one of the Phillies' games when the bags were full. The next man walked forced in a run, but the fourth ball was almost a wild pitch and the man going from second to third overran and was nailed before the runner from third, who took his time, had trotted across. There was a wrangle afield, but the run counted.

O, JOY! LOOK HERE

With two men on and two out in the ninth inning Tuesday, and only one run necessary to win the game, Martini, Seattle's new outfielder from Walla Walla, drove the ball over the left field fence, winning the game 3 to 2. SPORTING CHATTER

After getting all prepared for the job, we were almost inclined to become serene when the Champs failed to slide down to third place Tuesday.

According to B. C. McCormick, Joe Wally has been sent up in the pinch 40 times, striking out on 39 occasions and hitting into a double play on the 40th. Manager Tealey, with his .953 biffing mark, must envy Josephus.

In the Seattle tennis matches we have observed that the net results always counted for the most. What's that racket?

They say Bories has a boring service. We note that it did him no service in his doubles matches Tuesday.

Ed Hagen claims to be having a difficult time securing sparring partners. And then they sometimes say that boxing isn't an intellectual game.

When the tennis tournament is over we will have to settle down to a calm, adventureless existence again.

Observing that Knight's performance for the Yanks Tuesday consisted principally of smothering the ozone, we suggest Good for his first name.

Whaling picked two hits off Lavender's delivery Tuesday, which shows us that our old backstop is still whaling the pill.

Fitts might have thrown one if he and his partner had not copped their doubles match Tuesday.

They do say tennis is a harder game than football, but you will not notice many young ladies playing football.

Danny Shay has been released by Helena. Danny must be getting in that one-hoss "Shay" class.

Seeing the eager way the National league let Orvie Overall depart, we are inclined to be of the opinion Orvie was not getting "Overall" the stuff he used to.

Romeo Hagen says he has a notion to go to Australia. Romeo does not say if he is able to swim.

A mixed double is something that gets by in tennis, but it never does in baseball.

Detroit goes on its losing way, but what of it? Cobb's getting his two hits a day.

C. Webb Murphy and Horace Fogel may be the jokes of the pastime, but they sure have furnished the baseball writers considerable copy.

Every time McGraw looks thoughtful these days, the war correspondents scent another trade.

There is a guy named Bull who is quite some tennis player, but we have yet to lamp a ball player with the hardhood to tackle the big leaguers wearing the familiar title of the male bovine!

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL DAY'S SENSATION IN TENNIS TOURNNEY

Several surprises occurred in the second day's play of the Washington state tennis tournament on the Seattle Tennis club courts Tuesday morning and afternoon. Annis Green, a high school girl, proved the sensation of the day when she defeated the crack Mrs. Judge of Portland, in two straight sets. The high school girl won with ease, taking the first set by a love score and the second 6-2.

Jap Teams Win
The showing of the Japanese doubles teams, both pairs winning their matches, and the defeat of the veterans, Wildes and Gardiner, of Everett, at the hands of Adams, U. of W., and Teal Williams were the additional features. Adams and Williams took the match by a score of 7-5, 10-8.

Tuesday the first round of singles were completed and the men's doubles started. Today the mixed doubles are the principal events, with a possibility that the ladies' singles and doubles and men's doubles will be run off.

Meyers in Good Form
The Japanese teams made splendid showings. Miura, of the U. of W. team, and Sugawara defeated Allen and Miller easily, 6-2, 6-2. Tanaka and Wada won their match against Howard and Coffin by a 7-5, 7-5 score.

"Wild" Bill Meyers played a sensational game in his doubles match with E. C. Lee against the high school stars, Bories and Rucker, his masterful playing figuring largely in the defeat of their opponents, 6-2, 6-4. Claire Shannon played in true form and defeated Rucker 6-3, 6-0.

Miss Livingston Wins
Mrs. Hawkins, of Boston, and now a member of the local club, played a surprisingly strong game against Miss Sarah Livingston, but lost in straight sets by 6-4, 6-2 scores.

Russell and McBurney played one match of doubles and found their opponents, Bucherkrichen and Johnson, unable to withstand their slashing attack. The former won the set 6-2, 6-1. Russell and McBurney were credited with another victory when Ed Grabhorn and Bill Gaines defaulted.

Meet Tacoma Experts
In the morning Russell beat Bailey 6-1, 6-1. Today McBurney and Russell will line up against two of the strongest players in the tournament, Pringle and Wagner, the 18-year-old Tacoma experts.

Ross Williams, brother of Teal, continues to win, the youthful player taking his match against Coffin, 6-0, 6-2. Miss Campbell, former Oregon champion, defeated Miss Williams 6-1, 6-1.

"Wild" Bill Meyers played a sensational game in his doubles match with E. C. Lee against the high school stars, Bories and Rucker, his masterful playing figuring largely in the defeat of their opponents, 6-2, 6-4. Claire Shannon played in true form and defeated Rucker 6-3, 6-0.

PULLMAN HOPES
PULLMAN, Wash., Aug. 13.—"Washington state college will this year have the best center trio in the Northwest conference by long odds, which will mean much in our efforts toward retaliation against the University of Washington," declared Coach Johnny Bender of the state college, in discussing the coming conference football season.

"I figure that Pullman will have one of the strongest elevens in the conference," said the coach, "but we are not caring whether we win another game, so long as we beat Washington. That game is to be played in Tacoma, which will bring Washington away from familiar battle grounds. We figure this as an advantage to us."

TO MATCH SMITH
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—A 20-round bout between Sam Langford and Gunboat Smith, to be staged either here or at Daly City next month, is sought here by Promoter Coffroth. Langford stands ready to sign articles immediately, but Jim Buckley, Smith's manager, is awaiting developments from an offer received from London for Smith to fight Bombardier Wells there before answering Coffroth's message.
