NEWS OF THE AUTO WORLD

FRANKLIN MAKES HIGH CLIMB
 Higher into the altitude of the Sierra Nevada mountains than any automobile has ever gone before, Ralph Hamlin of Los Angeles recently pushed the nose of the famous Franklin racing car 10,600 feet up into the air.
 Mr. Hamlin, with a party of friends, went up in the Sierras on a camping trip. While there he inquired from the natives what was the highest point in the mountains a motor car had ever gone, and learned that one machine had got as far as a certain limit. This point had marked the extreme limit. Mr. Hamlin's car, that had scorching across the burning sands of the Imperial valley, 147 feet below the ocean's surface, was sent to beat this altitude record. He reached the mile without having encountered any difficulties, and determined to go on further.
 But there appeared no way to go. The thick underbrush and immense jagged boulders blocked his way. Obtaining the services of a guide, the boulders were rolled out of the way and a rough trail cut, along which the car went. When the Franklin had reached 10,600 feet above sea level, Mr. Hamlin was satisfied.
 This altitude stunt of Mr. Hamlin is claimed to be the highest point a motor car ever reached in California.
 Mr. Hamlin reported that the view alone at the high point he reached was worth the work of chopping out the trail. He looked down into the head waters of the King's river, Owens river and the streams that feed the Yosemite, and could see the Iron mountain and the sharp peaks of the Minarets.

EASY METHOD OF FINDING GAS LEAK
 Leaks in the gas line from carburetor to cylinders will sometimes cause trouble. To test for such leaks, apply oil to every joint while the motor is running. Watch the joints, and if the oil is sucked in the joint will need tightening or a new gasket, usually the latter, for excessive tightening of joints will sometimes twist the surfaces out of true so that the joint will leak more than ever.
 When fitting a gasket, be sure that it does not project on the inside of the manifold, not only in order to prevent it offering friction to the mixture, but to prevent it being frayed and disintegrated, and pieces being carried up to clog the valve.
 Pieces of asbestos gasket have been known to get in a cylinder head where, becoming incandescent, they have caused bad pre-ignition knocks.

FIRESTONE BOYS BACK
 Mr. E. L. Campion, branch manager, Mr. L. McElherron, motor tire department, Mr. Ezra Kendall, Mr. J. W. Fleming, and Mr. Bert Stevens, advertising manager, have all returned from Akron, O., home of the Firestone tires. The boys visited several cities in the East, such as Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburg, New York city and St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha and Denver, Colo. The boys answered a number of questions asked by the general public in the Eastern cities regarding our beautiful city, which all the boys put forth as one of the most beautiful and energetic cities of the West. As four of the boys belong to Seattle Elks' lodge, No. 92, they visited all the Eastern lodges, and received the hearty co-operation of all the boys for the convention in 1915. Mr. McElherron will probably be more contented in the future, as he just joined the Wed-look before his trip East. Mr. McElherron is a very handsome young man, and every body on the way there and here gave him a warm hand shake and wished him a long and prosperous life.

BUICK HAS NEW AGENT IN WENATCHEE
 Mr. W. T. Thornhill, of the Thornhill Auto Co., Wenatchee, accompanied by his wife, made a flying trip to Seattle last week, and while in the city completed arrangements with the Buick Auto Co. to represent them in Wenatchee and territory for the coming season.
 In speaking of business conditions in Wenatchee valley, Mr. Thornhill stated that the fruit crop was unusually good this year, and the indications are that prosperity is on the way home. He also expressed his complete satisfaction with the Buick line, and was delighted with the Delco system of starting and lighting, as installed upon the various Buick models. Mr. Thornhill took delivery of one of the Model 26, five-passenger Buicks, in gray.

All Marion Wiring Comes to One Place
 One of the most unique and convenient features of this season's cars is the electric light wiring system of the 1914 Marion models. Entirely new, the novel, single terminal box plan is attracting wide attention among automobile men generally. By the arrangement each set of lamps on the car has an individual circuit, and every terminal is brought to a single junction box, located on the dash, convenient to the driving seat.
 Every wire on the car is protected over its whole length by metallic flexible tubing, and clipped to frame to prevent rattling. By this means the entire wiring system is made water, weather and leak proof.
 To provide every feature possible for the convenience of the owner and driver has been one of the aims of the Marion engineers this season, and many exclusive points, of which this improved wiring system is typical, are doing much to make the new Marion popular.

Hupp Captures Third Victory in Europe
 Mme. Panofomawa, the only woman chauffeur in Russia, won the one-mile race at Moscow in 0:45 last Thursday, according to the third cable received during the present week from John L. Poole, European representative of the Hupp Motor Car Co., and all told of the signal victories for the Detroit made car, one in Germany, another in Italy, and another in Russia.

Germans Plan to Build Motor Speedway
 Anxious to regain the laurels snatched from her brow by Goux, Bollot, Dawson and others, Germany is contemplating the erection of a race course similar to that of the Indianapolis motor speedway; at least that is what a letter received from Adam Opel, a prominent automobile manufacturer of Rueselsheim, would seem to indicate. The German builder has asked for drawings showing the general plan of the speedway, as well as its construction in detail, stating that the erection of a like racing plant in his native town was being considered. The Indianapolis course has been selected as a model, it is thought, because of the international prominence it has received through its annual 500-mile contest, the greatest in the world.

MAKE SHORT TRIPS
 This is the season of the year when many motorists are planning fall tours, and especially to sunny California. Many make the common mistake of trying to go too far in one day. For a man who is accustomed to driving over country roads, and handles a car every day for a certain distance, 200 miles a day is not a hard drive, but for a business man who drives his car a few miles over busy streets, 200 miles a day is too far. There is no sense in spilling a tour by reaching a destination tired out. Have a good time, and don't travel faster than is enjoyable to every person in the party. One hundred miles a day is a good average. Many beginners make the mistake of driving too far the first few days when they get their new machine, and get tired out and nervous. The beginner should not try to see how many centuries he can run off the first day, but should take it slow until he gets accustomed to his car, and he will find that he will get along much better.

THIS WILL BE SOME TRIP
 LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—When it comes to real touring equipment, Dr. L. C. Harvey of Los Angeles, Cal., has about set a pace. Dr. Harvey is about to set out on a tour of the United States with his family, and has been making preparations for his equipment, as he desires to enjoy every comfort while on the road.
 He will cover the United States, Canada and Mexico, and is planning an itinerary which will require between 10 and 12 years to complete.

AUTOISTS DISCOVER NEW SPECIES OF HOBO
 Tourists who carry spare tires on the rear have discovered a new nuisance in the form of the "auto hobo." He is a sort of embryo wanderlust victim, however, for the veteran gentry of the side door Pullman would have difficulty in finding a seat in the circular space in which the youngster is so comfortably curled up.

IN THE MOVIES.

 The second week's offering of the Clemmer's choice of the General Film Co.'s exclusive service features: "The Fruits of Vengeance," a two-part serial, and three exceptional comedies.
 "The Fruits of Vengeance" is a sensational tragedy of the air. It shows the result of a man's jealousy and how he tried to get even for a supposed wrong.
 The comedies are built for laughing purposes. "In a Hoss Country" is taken in a section where the automobile is a stranger. There is something doing when the farmers invest in one. "Troubles of an Actor" shows experiences of a follower of the Shakespearean school of tragedians. "The Tramp Police" finds a good many things coming his way; some good, some otherwise.
 Mrs. Arthur H. Brush, one of Seattle's popular lyric soprano, returns to the Clemmer for a short engagement.
 "Cynthy," a two-reel Eclair, is a story of the girl, Cynthy, who, after being buffeted about the world, finds a home in the West. She falls in love with a bad man, who uses her as a shield for his deeds. Discovering her mistake, the girl's heart is broken and she retires to a convent.
 "The Tramp Dentists" is the tale of two tramps who take possession of a dentist's office while he and his assistant are away on a cruise, and drive the rightful owners away when they return. But the call of the road is too much for the real tramps.
 "The Clue" is a detective story in which a "V" scar on a thumb leads to the detection of a murderer. These are featured at the Class A Sunday.
 "Love and War" is the title of the two-part Pathe play that will be the feature of the new bill opening at the Colonial tomorrow. An army officer, after falling in love with a village maid, is called to the wars, but upon his return transfers his affections to a leader of society, who unknowingly has employed his former sweetheart as her maid. Then comes sorrow for one of the girls and joy for the other.
 Other numbers on the new program are "The President's Special," one of Kalem's famous railroad pictures; in which a duel with pistols plays an important part. "Peggy's Burglar" is a snappy comedy with sentiment.

THERE'S COMEDY NOW AT THE MOVIE THEATRES; MANAGERS HAVE LEARNED THAT IT PAYS
 Nancy H. Buskett
 Comedy rules at the movies. And the town feels better for it. I made a round of the picture houses last night, and went home feeling fine. I had spent the evening laughing. There's nothing like it for good digestion. I always claimed the public can have what it wants in the way of amusement if it wants it badly enough—and will let it be known to the right parties.
 So, about two weeks ago, when the straws, in the shape of people's remarks, showed which way the wind was blowing, I wrote a little squib about weary people waiting for fun. How they are hungry for a good laugh, and how the majority of people go to the movies for recreation and relief from every day troubles, the every-dayness of which becomes monotonous. That they wanted more comedy.
 It's the solid truth that about that time I saw a man in the movies six times in one week. That written was not intended for a knock, but just a tip to the movie managers. I was getting tired of the doleful remarks I heard, and hadn't time to interview each manager. So I took the short cut and sent a few simple lines in the paper.
 The managers took it handsomely. Every picture house in Seattle is running at least one comedy. Some are using more. It did my heart good last night to hear the curties and titers of laughter all over the house. And to see even the gray heads holding their sides with healthy laughter. It was worth while.
 The people slept better for last night's hearty laugh. Yesterday's burdens are lighter today.
 And the managers have not lost by the turn they have given the tide.
 Nancy H. Buskett

SMILES PROMINENT
 The managers of the numerous automobile shops along the Row seem to be wearing the smile that can't come off the past week, which is largely attributed to the fine weather.
 Many sales have been reported along the Row, and the Buick Co. claim that they are unable to get their cars fast enough, and the fact that they have none in their sales-room would indicate that there is some truth in their story.
