Credit— Why You Should Use It

Whether you need credit now or not, there will come a time when a well-paid, established credit account will be one of the best recommendations you can have. Your desire to dress well is often greater than your ability to pay cash, but not greater than your honesty.

Who of us in this present day of civilization would want to be seen on the street in the homespuns of our ancestors? Simple tastes and desires have gone up a few notches in the last two decades, so in order to keep abreast of the times you must have stylish, serviceable clothes, and the easiest way to get them is to buy on credit.

CRUEL WOLVES TURTLE BACK

GILLETTE, Wyo., March 27.—A thrilling and unusual race between two gray wolves and a deer, and the tragic end, was witnessed by Ed Thomas, a ranchman. The deer doubtless would have escaped from the hungry wolves but for the fact that it ran into a wire fence and became entangled.

CALDWELL, Tex., March 27.—While Will Nix and John Calvin were rounding up cattle, they found a terrapin of unusual size. On examining it they discovered the initials, "W. N." and "J. C." and the date, "Sept. 27, 1887," on its shell. It was the same tortoise they had caught in almost the same spot 26 years ago, and had marked with their initials.

FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL WICKERSHAM has advised a New York county bar association that the time is near when there will be no trusts in America; but Mr. Wickersham can always have the satisfaction of knowing that it will be due to no fault or virtue of his own official conduct.

WAR WITH MEXICO

Don't forget that in a war with Mexico, the plain, common people of the United States will shoot down the plain, common people of Mexico. Not much different to taking down your gun and shooting your poverty-stricken, uneducated neighbor around the corner.

Where's the glory? Don't forget that the fellows who are shrieking for war are not going to fight. The men who will have to fight fevers, smallpox, jungle horrors and the poor, down-trodden peons down in Mexico are our own boys of the mill and shop and field.

You'll find no plutocrats, politicians or war-like newspaper editors on the firing line!

ALL-STAR CAST IN TWO-PART STORY OF ULTRA MODERN HIGH LIFE AT THE ALHAMBRA

"Does the end ever justify the means?" is the question raised by this play. It centers around a very beautiful lady, who lacks only a heart to make her a perfect woman. Scientists, students, men of affairs nightly visit her salon, but there are no favorites. Each evening this fascinating spider entangles another fly in her web. One scientist happening on the only emotion to which the beautiful woman will respond, has first to answer the question, "Does the end ever justify the means?" This scene shows Philip Smalley, in the role of the scientist, brewing the drug by which his end is accomplished.

PHOTO PLAYS

Mary Fuller is probably the pioneer in the serial "photoplay" picture. Anyway, her remarkable success in "What Happened to Mary?" seems to have started the "comfy" chairs, books "and everything else so fine." Jimmie Clabby, the middleweight boxing champion, is now a motion picture actor. For a long time he withstood the lure of the screen, but when Bob Leonard, the Rex star, a friend of Clabby's, wrote a special scenario for the boxer, in which he could do some boxing, Clabby became a picture star. The name of the play is "The Kidnaped Pugilist," and is now showing at the Class A.

Alhambra Until Sunday Night—"The Mysterious Leopard Lady," two-part Gold Seal drama; "The Spider and Her Web," two-part Rex drama.

Class A Until Saturday Night—"The Relic," two-reel Broncho drama; "Across the Hall," Keystone comedy; "His First Love," Majestic drama.

Clemmer Until Saturday Night—"Tess of the D'Urbervilles," Famous Players drama.

Colonial Until Saturday Night—"The Garden of Brides," two-part Sellig drama; "An Hour of Terror," Biograph drama; "A Model Young Man," Vitagraph drama.

Melbourne Until Saturday Night—"Kathlyn, the Irish Rose," two-part Thanhauser drama; "Mutual Girl, No. 10," "Caught in the Web," Reliance drama, and a Keystone comedy.

Dream Until Saturday Night—"The Mexican's Gratitude," Edison drama; "The District Attorney's Friend," Biograph drama; "A Real Estate Deal," Lubin comedy; "Black Beauty," drama, with "Hiram's Hotel," comedy.

Grand Until Saturday Night—"The Gringo," two-part Kay-Bee drama; "Mutual Weekly," world's news; "Billy's Ruse," Princess comedy.

At the Home Until Sunday—"The Arrow-Maker's Daughter," two-reel drama; "Just a Song at Twilight," drama; "The Tangled Cat," comedy.

At the Pleasant Hour Tonight—"The Filly," two-part drama; "The God of Tomorrow," drama; "A Method in His Illness," comedy.

VICTORIAN STYLES NOW COMING ALONG

Other early Victorian styles beside the bustle are creeping in. Jet jewelry will be much worn and bracelets of jet beads, which were introduced by Empress Eugenie and worn by Queen Victoria, will be affected by the up-to-date girl, even if she must wear them over her long sleeves. This spring will see hats trimmed almost entirely with flowers and ribbons. The one shown is made of white silk duvetine, with fans of white silk standing out around the crown at regular intervals. Has Its Drawback "Omnibus-lengthen your life," declares Mrs. Hetty Green. Probably true, but they also shorten your acquaintances.

THE CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE WHEN DICK AND I SHALL PART

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Enterprise Association
CHAPTER XXIV
When Dick came upstairs after arranging everything for his Uncle John's funeral he found me in a paroxysm of tears. I had given Aunt Mary a quieting potion and watched her fall into a troubled sleep, and then I had left the room, overcome with the thought of what the last inevitable separation must mean to those who had lived long years together, as had Aunt Mary and Uncle John. I could see them starting out, as were Dick and I now; I could imagine all the great experiences that they had passed through. I could realize how the mad, glad passion of youth had at last calmed down into a beautiful companionship that made them seem one, indeed; I could understand that they had grown alien in thought, but not in deed, and now a part of this blessed whole was left here, forsaken and alone, in a desolate, aching void, while the other without volition had gone out into the great beyond—into mysterious eternal finality, which takes its toll one by one. I tried to think what this world would mean to me without Dick, and my heart stopped beating. Then I tried to make myself understand how it would be after Dick and I had been years together, and with this came the thought of that certain day when there must be separation. "Take me first," was my inarticulate prayer to Death, and then, as though to bid my selfish, cowardly mind to stop its pessimistic wanderings, strong, warm arms encircled me and pressed me so close that I could feel the beating of a steadfast heart. It seemed to be saying: "Don't fear, I'm here; don't fear, I'm here."
