BOB HODGE, NOW A LAWYER, GOING TO RUN FOR SHERIFF

Bob Hodge has passed the state bar examination. It was his fourth attempt. He began taking those exams just a year ago, and he flunked three times. But Bob stuck to it. And now he's a full fledged lawyer.

"I would have kept at it until I passed, if it had required the rest of my life," says Bob.

Hodge is the man who, as a sailor, deserted a ship in Tacoma in 1890, at the age of 15, who went to work in the Black Diamond mines, became a deputy sheriff, then deputy prosecuting attorney, and finally sheriff.

It cost Bob $50 to be elected sheriff, but the opposition spent $100,000 in trying to defeat him. It was a grand old fight, but a bitter one.

He swept aside old precedents and cleaned things up. The prisoner's meals were costing 40 cents; Hodge cut them down to 13 cents. During his regime he saved the taxpayers thousands of dollars. Also he mystified the poor, deluded old underworld that had fought him tooth and nail in the election. The underworld expected the worst of it from Bob Hodge, but he gave it something it had never before gotten—A SQUARE DEAL!

Bob, a year ago last fall, declared himself a candidate for governor. Then the state found out—from the elements he had fought—that Hodge was a terrible demon, an uncouth coal worker and a heartless villain who let his wife support him by taking in washing. Also, he found himself an ex-prize fighter with an unsavory reputation.

He was offered all sorts of plums to withdraw. Officialdom at Washington was even moved to hold out big-salaried positions to him. But Bob had an idea he wanted the governor's chair.

Now, Bob is a great big, clear-eyed, stubborn Scotchman, and the idea stuck. So he brushed the plums aside and went on fighting. The harder the gang hit him, the harder he fought back. Only Bob gave the gang a square deal all through, while the gang almost always attacked when the Scotchman's back was turned. But the harder he fought the blacker he was painted. The end was inevitable. Bob Hodge was defeated.

Now he turned to law, and another fight was on.

Bob studied law 15 years ago, but he had never taken an examination. The campaign, and the stormy years that preceded it, wiped out much of his legal knowledge.

He met his first stumbling block in the academic exam, preliminary to the legal.

Bob knew it was as impossible for him to pass that exam as to fly to heaven, but he did his best. He flunked, of course, but when he did he took a vow he'd keep at it until he passed it, were it the last act of his life.

He came back to Seattle and went to work. He was broke, flat, and he had to provide for himself and children as he studied. He took a job in a department store.

He got home at 7 every night and was coached by a professor. They worked together until 9:30, then the professor went home. Bob plugged away at his books until 1 a. m. He was back at the store bright and early.

He took his first exam in May, 1912. He tried again in October. But he was nervous down there at Olympia, and no wonder, with every eye on him, so he imagined. And the defeated candidate for governor failed again.

Hodge has no fault to find with the bar exams. He says they are absolutely fair. The trouble was he wasn't prepared.

Again he returned to Seattle. He spent four months in a preparatory school, and then in January this year, back he went to Olympia.

You start writing at 9 a. m. and work until 11 p. m. when you take the bar exam. Bob passed the academic requirements the second day; then he jumped right into the legal exam.

By mid-afternoon of the third day, Bob says if you had offered him a million dollars to tell you his telephone number at home, he couldn't have done it. He gave it up and came back to Seattle to try again, this time with only the legal exam facing him.

He entered the night classes at the University of Washington law school. Also he attended three day classes a week.

And when Bob Hodge went to Olympia this month, just a year after his first attempt, he was sure of himself. And now he has a chance to become a lawyer. He says, you see, that he isn't a lawyer—that he just has a chance now to learn.

Will he practice law? Maybe, sometime.

Right now, though, Bob has his heart set on becoming sheriff again. He believes he can help the down-and-outers best as sheriff. He believes it offers a fine opportunity to practice his golden rule: "Do unto others as ye would be done by."

He intends to run on the progressive ticket.

"If I ever do practice law," says Bob, "I'll take criminal cases, and if the poor unfortunates can't pay, I'll defend them just the same."

A House Full of Used Pianos and Player Pianos To Be Sold Out at Once

Many Prominent Makes Included at Prices That Are Lower Than Ever Offered Heretofore on Similar Occasions. Fully Warranted and First-Class Instruments, Affording the Greatest Opportunity for Piano Buying Ever Known.

ONE HUNDRED USED PIANOS TO BE SOLD OUT AT ONCE. SAVINGS ESPECIALLY ATTRACTIVE. A FEW GRANDS ALSO INCLUDED.

We have withdrawn from rental scores of fine pianos, grand pianos and player pianos. These, together with the many fine instruments taken in part payment on our popular Bungalow player pianos, are now offered in this clearance of unusual magnitude. In all there are over 100 pianos ranging in price from $125 for a fine Jacob Doll Piano in oak case, to $650 for a late Weber Pianola Piano, regularly priced at $1,150, which was taken in part payment by us for one of these new Chickering Artigraphic Players. This Weber uses the 88-note music.

A Few Prices
$165, $235, $268 and $285
A fine oak case, expensive style, sweet-toned Ludwig Piano, is offered for $235. Superb walnut case Lester, Philadelphia's pride, for $268. A famous Smith & Barnes Piano at $195. Kimball for $235. While a well-known Behning is here for $235. A Hallett & Davis upright, splendid condition, $285. Marshall & Wendell, in fancy mahogany, Colonial style, $265. A Royal at $215.

Well Known Makes
A glance through this stock will convince you of the quality. Standard, well-known makes are here. Kimballs, Lesters, Stegers, some Chickering and Sohmers. A Hazelton or two, the Hallett & Davis, several Story & Clark Pianos, a Knabe, our own Eilers Orchestral Grand, the new invention Duotonal, the Smith & Barnes, the Haddorf and a host of others. You will find a piano here to meet your taste and requirements from the daintiest little Colonial Marshall & Wendell to the massive, rich-toned, Empire Style Johnston. Come in today and look over this stock; it will pay you.

Also Some New Pianos
We have several of the most expensive Art Style Pianos, which at the regular price would be more than many people would care to pay for an instrument. These will be included in this clearance. A Louis XV. Hazelton Art Grand is offered at $335. This is a real $1,250 value. A Sheraton Sohmer Upright in Circassian walnut goes for $495, while an Empire design Johnston is marked at $715. These represent savings from $130 to $415, and are pianos suitable for Seattle's best homes.

Teachers Should Be Interested
A splendid Chickering Parlor Grand, used in concert for a few months, would make a splendid teacher's piano. Undersized $225. A Kimball Grand in oak case, $485. A Steger Grand in Circassian walnut is here for $285. One of the new invention Duotonal Pianos is priced at $285. Take advantage of these little prices. Quant-

SEE BUFFALO BILL AS GUEST OF THE STAR! AND HERE'S $50 IN REAL MONEY FOR YOU, TOO

Want to earn $25? Would you like to "take the kids" to the circus? Then get busy. Write an essay for The Seattle Star in not more than 150 words on "Buffalo Bill—What Has He Done for America?" and send it to the Buffalo Bill Contest Editor of The Star.

For the Sells-Floto circus and Buffalo Bill (himself) are coming to Seattle for three days—Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 28, 29 and 30.

First Prize is $25
Buffalo Bill's coming has aroused interest, so much interest, in fact, that The Star has decided to hold the contest. The prizes? They are to run as follows: First prize, $25 in gold; second prize, $12.50; third prize, $7.50; fourth prize, $5.

Fifty-fifth prizes of two reserved seat tickets to the circus. Twenty-six prizes of one reserved seat ticket.

That's worth while, isn't it? And the question is an easy one, for there are few men in the world who are better known than Buffalo Bill.

Go to the Library
The libraries are full of books about him. Every encyclopedia tells his history.

But if you would win a prize you must not simply copy his biography from some book, you know, for too many other persons would be doing the same thing.

Just give your own impressions—tell what you think of Buffalo Bill and his worth to the world.

If you win a prize you will receive it from the hands of Buffalo Bill himself. The famous account will appear Friday, May 29, the second day of the circus, and personally distribute the awards.

Fisher's Blend

has no equal in the world of flours

The initial cost is a little more than ordinary flours—BUT IT'S ECONOMY TO USE IT BECAUSE IT BAKES MORE AND LARGER LOAVES OF BETTER BREAD THAN ORDINARY FLOURS, hence the cost in the end is really less.

CHINESE BOY IS CONVICTED OF KILLING WOMAN

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 22.—Jack Kong, 16, Chinese servant, was yesterday found guilty of manslaughter by a jury which deliberated on the evidence seven hours, for the slaying of Mrs. Charles Millard, wife of a Canadian Pacific railway employe, in whose home he was employed. Sentence was reserved.

On the stand Kong pleaded self-defense, saying that Mrs. Millard ran at him with a knife because he had angered her by cooking the wrong kind of porridge for breakfast.

He struck her down with a chair and, before life was extinct, dismembered her body and burned portions of it in the furnace.

The Wise House Hunter hunts her home at home. She reads STAR "FOR RENT" ADS until she finds it.
