SHIP PURCHASE BILL IS BELIEVED TO HAVE FAILED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Its friends virtually conceded today that the ship purchase bill was dead. The bolt of the seven democrats—O'Gorman, Hitchcock, Hardwick, Bankhead, Camden, Vardaman and Clark—who joined the republicans in an agreement to send the bill back to hostile committee, was regarded as having been entirely successful.

Democrats who joined the republicans in the ship purchase fight were denounced as traitors and virtually read out of the party by Sen. Stone in the upper house this afternoon. So strong was Stone's language that Sen. O'Gorman, one of the seven bolters, made a point of order that Stone was violating the rules by personally abusing fellow senators.

"I insist," broke in O'Gorman "that the chair force the senator from Missouri to take his seat until he purges himself of his conduct." Stone apologized with a very evident sneer, and then paraphrased Mark Anthony's speech on the rights of Caesar, in making his attacks.

"These gentlemen," he said, "with no extraneous influence, for like Brutus, they are all honorable men, sprang a most complete and hostile surprise on their comrades on this side." "You did upset us," he continued, pointing at the republicans on the other side of the chamber.

Stone apologized with a very evident sneer, and then paraphrased Mark Anthony's speech on the rights of Caesar, in making his attacks. "These gentlemen," he said, "with no extraneous influence, for like Brutus, they are all honorable men, sprang a most complete and hostile surprise on their comrades on this side."

BIG AUDIENCE HEARS SHANK AT STAR'S MEETING

Big, homely Lew Shank, at The Star's "after-breakfast" matinee at the Empress theatre Wednesday morning, told Seattle housewives how they can bust the food trust and get a nickel's worth of food for a nickel.

The theatre was well filled. Shank's audience rippled with laughter at his quaint Hoosier wit and pondered thoughtfully his sound good sense. There is nothing academic or polished about Shank's oratory, but he can be roughly eloquent, none the less.

It's "By golly!" and "By gosh!" with Shank. He hurried through the well-known story of how he, as mayor of Indianapolis, learned of the existence of the food trust and of how he fought it by personally buying farm products by car load lots and selling them direct to the people.

He sketched the obstacles he encountered—political, business and even social—and how he overcame them. He told of similar conditions found in other states—farm products rotting for want of a market, city dwellers scratching to make ends meet, middlemen—non-producers all—fattening on the production of others, prices manipulated by a clique of middlemen instead of by the natural law of supply and demand.

The remedy? A municipally-owned cold storage house and wholesale public market. How secure it? "By golly, you women of Washington have the vote. Then," said Shank, "the farmer can sell his products at a reasonable profit, but not on this, glaring around at the seven who had caused trouble. Stone's speech was regarded by the republicans as an admission that the administration had been whipped on the ship bill.

CITIES TO LOSE SCHOOL FUNDS IF BILL PASSES

OLYMPIA, Feb. 3.—The house educational committee today reported out for passage Timblin's bill, cutting down the city proportion of the per diem state school fund.

Opposition in committee was backed by members of the city school boards, but no minority report will be brought in, everything being left to be fought out on the floor. The bill makes serious inroads on all city receipts.

Bills were introduced to provide for an annual convention of health officers, both county and city, enforcing attendance and providing for $5 a day pay.

Making Tacoma and Seattle terminal ports for the handling of grains and at the same time providing for warehouse receipts from the seaports, signed by the state train inspector or deputy which will be bankable paper, a bill has been introduced in the house by a subcommittee on banking.

"With this bill in effect," said Parnsworth, one of its sponsors, there is no reason why we cannot do it myself. Now, I am not going to urge her to do so, but as I have not been in good health for some time, I should like her to attend to such small things. We have a maid, and my wife has little to do as we have only one child. In the old home, there were 10 of us children and my mother had no maid, but she always appeared to consider it a great pleasure to do these little things for dad.

Who is right, Miss Grey, my wife or I? A.—Wherever they are, men take care of their own coats, hats, canes, umbrellas, rubbers, etc.—at least, nowadays. In this day of equal rights, wives are no longer generally looked upon as their husbands' servants, and it is not now recognized as the duty of a wife to perform such service for her husband.

But in the former generation, mother helped father into his coat in the morning and out of it at night. That was the kind of "loving service" which preceded the modern feminist movement. As you say, you would appreciate services of this kind, and that makes the best reason in the world why an observant and devoted wife would wish to perform them. But if she has the modern notion of service with the loving eliminated, she may feel quite safe from criticism. Still, there was something exquisite in the need of the old-fashioned wife to express her love in homely ways. "I love thee to the level of every day's most quiet need, by sun and candle light."

Q.—Is there any way a rain coat can be cleaned at home? The dry cleaners in our town refuse to guarantee successful work. A. T.—The home treatment of a rain coat consists in spreading it on a clean kitchen table and scrubbing it with a soft brush, inside and outside. Use plenty of soap suds containing ammonia and sponge with clean water.

'TIS TOUGH TO GET STUCK IN MEADOWS MUD

It's tough when a man gets stuck in the mud with his auto at an early hour in the morn. Ah! But that does not begin to tell the tale of woe that was poured into the ears of the police Wednesday forenoon by Alex Fox, of Arden station.

Alex struck the mud near the Meadows race track, on his way home from Seattle, and when the machine wouldn't budge, he hailed George and Henry Sherlock, brothers, who came upon the path in their auto. The brothers will be but failed to move the Fox machine.

So they hailed the next auto, which contained a crowd of revelers, two men and two women. While the men worked, the women gaily chattered, ran their fingers through Alex's hair, sang and laughed. Soon the Fox machine was out of the mud. The revelers went their way, and the Sherlock brothers demanded $5 for their trouble from Fox.

When he refused to deliver, they took to the machine, he says. When they left, he also missed his gold watch, which, he thinks, was taken by one of the women. After that discovery, he looked to the north, then to the south, and he decided it was easier to walk to Georgetown than to Arden station.

What They Ask Cynthia Grey

Q.—The other day I came home and put my wet umbrella in the hall and the water ran over the floor. My wife asked why I didn't open it up and I told her it is a wife's duty to take her husband's hat, coat and umbrella and put them away. She said I ought to do it myself. Now, I am not going to urge her to do so, but as I have not been in good health for some time, I should like her to attend to such small things. We have a maid, and my wife has little to do as we have only one child. In the old home, there were 10 of us children and my mother had no maid, but she always appeared to consider it a great pleasure to do these little things for dad.

Q.—I have been going with a girl a year and a half. I love her dearly, but never yet have I had the courage to ask her to be my wife. Her birthday will be in two weeks. Would it be appropriate for me to give her a diamond ring for a birthday present and broach the subject then? B. B. A.—There is no special need of approaching the subject with fear and trembling. If you have been going with the girl 18 months she is probably as anxious to hear from you on the subject of an engagement as you are to bring it up. So why put it off longer? You'd better heed the old saying: "Faint heart never won fair lady," and talk to her at once about it, before you have an opponent to deal with. The girl will not consider you too abrupt, no matter how you speak of it.

Q.—A young man of 28 who I have been going together for four years. About a year ago I began to find it monotonous, and now I simply cannot bear him around. Would it be right to break off the engagement? V. F. A.—Yes; do not hesitate; you will probably find that the man will be very much relieved by your suggestion. When one party to a friendship is bored, it is quite probable that the other is equally bored. Moreover, do you not think that if he had been wildly anxious to marry you the young man would have found a way before now? Unless two persons are extraordinarily prudent about the financial side of marriage, a four-year-long engagement does not imply any very great amount of sentiment on either side.

Q.—I have been going with a man four years. For some time I did not know what work he did. Then he told me he kept a saloon. But he does not drink. He is refined and moral. He drifted into our engagement because he is a man of high ideals. My family are highly respected and I have always known fine men, but aside from this man's business no other man so fine as he. He was on the sea in his early life and took up this business as something at which he could make quick profits. He is in the thirties. My friends are all shocked; they think I am far above him. Shall I cost me? Either way, there is an awful life before me. YOUNG WOMAN. A.—A number of persons who judge themselves upon their good judgment and intelligence would hasten to urge you to let the man go out of your life. My personal opinion is that marriage concerns, not only the two people, but the other hundreds of people, and that no other human being has any right to decide the matter for them. Despite the great divide in the social careers of yourself and the man, he might make your life so happy that you would gladly endure your isolation from friends.

Who would dare direct your course? If we go to the east, or if we go to the west, we get around the world at last; and in love it is much the same. At times you will probably regret it—if you do marry the man—and if you don't, you will probably be just as sorry.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Continuing his defense of the Rockefeller foundation before the federal commission on industrial relations, Jerome D. The commission planned, after Green completed his testimony, to hear the testimony of women victims of the "battle of Ludlow," whose stories were expected to wind up the side of labor in the commission's investigation of the Colorado troubles.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD Get a small package of Hamburg Great Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grippe, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

CANADA SHUTS DOWN ON GRAIN EXPORTATIONS

"WINNIPEG, Feb. 3.—Nine carloads of grain shipped from Ft. William by the Western Canada Milling Co. have been seized at Niagara, Ont., as contraband in war. The wheat was destined for New York and for points in the Baltic.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The government today faced the possible necessity of a new protest to Great Britain, as that nation's attitude toward American shipping. Great Britain's formal warning that it intends to seize grain and flour cargoes destined from the U. S. to Germany and Austria precipitated this possibility.

In view of Germany's assurance that any such cargoes would not be commandeered for military purposes, some authorities held that England was disregarding established rules in declaring those cargoes contraband.

RECORDS SMASHED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—All trade balance records for a single month were smashed in January, according to figures given out today by the department of commerce. Telegraphic reports showed that 13 customs ports which handle 86 per cent of the nation's commerce had netted a balance in favor of the U. S. of $121,000,000. The complete reports will show a substantial increase of this gigantic total, officials predicted.

LAWYER TAKES WOMAN'S MEANS OF LIVELIHOOD

A Seattle lawyer, collecting a bill, has deprived Mrs. Otella Carlson, 2112 52nd N., of her only means of livelihood. Furniture in Mrs. Carlson's home has been sold by the sheriff to meet a judgment rendered against her.

Practically her only money has come from the three rooms which are to be stripped of their furniture. Mrs. Carlson also is supporting an 18-year-old son who has been out of work nearly a year.

The action against Mrs. Carlson has grown out of a $7 bill of a former tenant. Mrs. Carlson vouches for the bill. The money is due the National Outfitting Co., now receiver's hands. Costs, which have accumulated during court procedure raised the judgment against Mrs. Carlson to $17.50. The woman hasn't a cent.

The case against her has been handled by Attorney A. Holtz. When Mrs. Carlson's former tenant refused to pay the balance due on the suit, the lawyer turned to Mrs. Carlson for it.

Lawyer Holtz explains that the tenant had nothing that could be attached, and for this reason, suit was brought against Mrs. Carlson. Neighbors, on the other hand, say the tenant owned a piano and other furniture, which she took with her when she moved from Mrs. Carlson's house.

Holtz denied knowledge of this. He told The Star today he would investigate and, if he finds the tenant has a piano, the instrument will be attached and action against Mrs. Carlson withdrawn.

Mrs. Carlson was deserted by her husband two years ago. Otto K. Strizek of Port Orchard buys out Phillips & Townsend interests in Kitsap county bank.

AN EASY WAY TO GET FAT AND BE STRONG

The trouble with most thin folks who want to get fat is that they insist on dragging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "cream" or following the fad of taking physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You never get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

A Sure Way to End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it to your hair when retreating, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning wash, if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. Advertisement.

The barbs are placed in sets of four one inch apart along the steel core, the points standing out at right angles.

Barbed wire entanglements have come into general use in the European war to hold the enemy at bay.
