Here Are First Photographs of the Lusitania Horror

ONE OF THE LUSITANIA'S AMERICAN VICTIMS—Carrying the body of an American passenger, covered with the Stars and Stripes, through the streets of Queens-town to the morgue. Note the salutes of the jacksies on the sidewalk.

IN THE MORGUE AT QUEENSTOWN—This photograph shows one view among the bodies of victims of the Lusitania disaster, laid out in the morgue at Queenstown, Ireland. The woman with the curly-headed baby in her arms, his arm thrown over her breast, was poorly dressed and probably was a third class passenger. The two babies at the left were better dressed than the other one.

TOURISTS FLOCK TO SEE FIGHT

By William G. Shepherd
CHIAZZO, Switzerland (Italian Frontier), May 27.—The first great battle of the Austro-Italian war may be fought in Trentino. The Italians are pushing steadily northward into the Tyrolean Alps. They are advancing over passes and snow-covered peaks a mile high. The Austrians are fleeing, without offering serious resistance, back upon the main defenses of the Trentino army. Advice here says the Austrians are massed in great force in the Adige river section. Strong Italian forces have been brought up to support the raiders on the Trentino frontier, and Swiss military authorities believe the great forces may clash within a few days. Chiazzo is the busiest town of 4,000 souls in the world. Hundreds of tourists have flocked in, hoping to work their way northward along the border to see the expected battle. They remind me of the crowds along the Rio Grande, in the United States, watching the Mexicans. But, instead of El Paso policemen and soldiers from Fort Bliss to shoo the crowd along, sturdy Swiss militiamen are on the job. These soldiers have the double business of preventing belligerents from stepping on Swiss soil and keeping neutral spectators off the stage. Crowds are arriving by train, in automobiles, on bicycles and in curious old carts. Included, of course, are correspondents hot from the French and English fronts, anxious to see what a new battle with different opponents looks like. Refugees are flocking in, most of them with tales of border battles and narrow escapes from revengeful mobs. To date, however, the actual battle business is poor along the Swiss frontier.

BRAZEN INSOLENCE!

Brazen insolence is the only truthful description to apply to the telegram sent yesterday to President Wilson by the Employers' association of Washington, demanding the removal of Chairman Frank P. Walsh from the industrial relations commission. There is, of course, no danger that Wilson is going to pay the slightest attention to it. The Central Labor council, which last night sent a message to the president to counteract the effect of the Employers' wire, was unduly alarmed if it seriously believed there was any danger. It is only necessary, to appreciate the brazen character of any advice to the president from that source, to remember that one of the spokesmen for the Employers' association, tes-

John Louder Gets a Job—in Prison

TACOMA, May 27.—Today a ragged man was arraigned in police court, charged with vagrancy. "What is your name?" the court asked. "Louder," cried the defendant. "Louder," retorted the defendant. "I say, what is your name?" repeated the judge, raising his voice. "Louder," cried the man, getting red in the face. "What is your name? Can't you hear?" "Louder," shouted the defendant. "John Louder of Kalamazoo." John was given 30 days in jail.

PRETTY WET FOR MAY? NO, LESS THAN AVERAGE!

"Rain again," said John Smith as he climbed aboard his morning jitney. "Yes," said one of the oldest inhabitants. "More rain than ever before in May in Seattle." But the O. I. was mistaken. Rain came bunched in the last few days, but the total thus far, according to the weatherman, is 0.95 inches, considerably below the average, tho it is a trifle more than we had last year for all month. The total rainfall in May, 1914, was .74. The average for the past 24 years is 2.07 inches. May, 1893, broke the record with 4.26 inches and May, 1904, had the least rainfall, with only 0.34.

PETITIONS ARE STOLEN

Two sets of referendum petitions have been lost, strayed, or stolen from the Fremont pool hall. Stolen is probably the correct answer. About a week ago a stranger appeared at the Fremont pool hall, declared the Referendum league had enough names, and took the petitions with him. He purported to represent the league. The deception was discovered to-

Nebraskan Is Nearing Liverpool

BY JOHN E. NEVIN
WASHINGTON, May 27.—The American S. S. Nebraskan, victim of some sort of an external explosion, and declared in London to have been torpedoed, is expected to reach Liverpool by nightfall, official advices stated today. The naval attaché of the American embassy in London will examine the Nebraskan as soon as she docks and report, if possible, whether the steamer was torpedoed or struck a mine. President Wilson will proceed slowly. The claim of the British that the Nebraskan was torpedoed will not be accepted without proof. Officials admit that if the vessel was torpedoed without warning while the protests against the attack upon the Lusitania is unswayed, the act is a flagrant breach of neutrality and an assault upon the national honor of the United States, which no ordinary apology can satisfy. President Wilson is personally handling the case, as he handled the Lusitania. At the German embassy it is not believed the Nebraskan was torpedoed. The embassy expects the German foreign office to express disavowal of the act.

Urges City to Enforce Milk Test

Only 2 per cent of the 1,000 cows which have been examined by the city milk division for tuberculosis were found to be infected, A. N. Henderson, chief milk inspector, told the council safety committee Wednesday. Henderson used this statement in support of the McBride milk ordinance. He said farmers are anxious to submit their stock to the test. The cows inspected were voluntarily offered for test by the dairymen during the recent campaign waged by the milk division and The Star. The number represents nearly a half of the total number of cows in the county. One of the provisions of the new ordinance is that all animals must undergo a tubercular test, the infected being segregated or killed. It is this particular clause that is meeting vigorous opposition from some dairymen. The test is not compulsory under the present law. A delegation from the Women's clubs attended and urged the passage of the bill. Next Wednesday afternoon the milk ordinance will be considered section by section by the council. Final action is expected the following Monday.

TWO SEATTLE PHYSICIANS TO GO TO FRONT

Dr. Waldo Richardson, former superintendent of the King county hospital and Dr. Edgar Lee, associated with him in office in the Cobb building, will leave next Tuesday for England, whence they expect to go to the battle front in Northern France to do humane work for the injured. Dr. Lee and Dr. Richardson will not be under the Red Cross organizations of either England or France, but will go as representatives of an American organization which is at the head of a movement to send American surgeons and physicians to the front to work in conjunction with the Red Cross.

SHOWS HOW HER HUBBY SHOT HER

Dramatically pointing her forefinger at the jury, illustrating how her husband, Thomas Rais, a blacksmith, fired at her with a revolver, March 4, Mrs. Valentina Rais testified Thursday for the state in the trial of her husband for alleged first-degree assault. The bullet, she said, went thru her forehead, which she had raised to shield her face, clipped the tip off her right ear, and seared a path along the side of her head. Trouble between them arose because she went to visit a neighbor woman against her husband's will.

Invitations Issued for 5 Hangings

GEN. VILLA TRIES TO SAVE CONDEMNED MEN WASHINGTON, May 27.—The lives of five Mexicans, under sentence to be hanged tomorrow at Florence, Ariz., may be saved thru the action of the state department, which, at the request of Gen. Villa, has taken up the cases. Villa alleges the men were not given fair trials. The department has suggested commutation to life imprisonment, or, at least, a postponement of the execution until an investigation is made. PHOENIX, May 27.—Sixty invitations were issued today for the five hangings scheduled for the state prison at Florence on Friday. The condemned men are almost in a state of collapse, due to the uncertainty of their fate, which depends entirely on the action taken by the state parole board today. If the board grants a reprieve, there is still hope. If it refuses to act, the five must die. Warden Sims refused to say today if he would resign rather than perform the executions. In any event, he will not personally spring the trap. Make It Real Horrible Arrangements are being made as possible, as the administration, defeated in its efforts to abolish capital punishment, wants to show the voters the horrors of death on the scaffold in hope of abolishing the gallows at the next election. A death watch was instituted over the condemned men today and a priest is in attendance on them. Mayor Draw Lots for Turn The first man will go to his death at 10 a. m. Warden Sims refused to reveal today which man will be the first to die. It was suggested at the prison that a ghastly game of chance would be played by the five—that they would draw lots to decide the order in which they would enter the death chamber.

The Slav forces, it was stated, were forced to retire from exposed positions along the railroad to the protected defenses along the west bank of the San.
