

If you were downtown Saturday morning, you noticed, perhaps, that The Star issued an extra edition, carrying the news of the shooting of J. P. Morgan, to its readers two hours ahead of its competitors. The Star is always first.

MILWAUKEE TRAIN GOES OFF BRIDGE Killed, 11 Hurt, at Rainier, Wash.

MILWAUKEE TRAIN GOES OFF BRIDGE

TACOMA RUSHES RELIEF

One is known definitely to be dead and at least 11 injured as the result of a locomotive and two passenger coaches of a Milwaukee train from Seattle to Grays Harbor jumping the tracks on a trestle near Rainier station south of Tacoma, Saturday morning at 10:30.

The train plunged down upon a freight train which was passing underneath the trestle on the Northern Pacific tracks.

The railway company Saturday afternoon gave out the name of Louis D. Bradeen, contracting freight agent, 312 Olive st., Seattle, as the only identified victim.

The company admits 11 are injured. The telephone operator at Rainier reported at least six or seven lives had been lost.

A dispatch from the scene of the wreck received by the train dispatcher's office of the Milwaukee road at Tacoma announced that the fatalities in the accident were, one killed and eleven injured.

A partial list of the casualties follows:

The injured are: W. H. Baldwin of Seattle, engineer of the Milwaukee train, badly injured. W. J. Penacor of Seattle, fireman on the train, badly injured. F. B. Fisher of Seattle, brakeman, was slightly injured.

T. M. Thomas, baggage master, bruised and internal injuries. A. L. Turner, conductor, leg crushed and internal injuries. Practically the entire train crew was injured in the accident, which accounts for the delay in accurate reports from the wreck.

The fact that the passenger train, when it leaped from the trestle, fell upon and broke telegraph and telephone wires, made communication with the scene of the wreck difficult.

The Milwaukee train left the King st. station at 7:20 Saturday, for Montesano, Aberdeen, Hoquiam and other Grays Harbor points.

Tacoma Rushes Relief On word of the wreck, ambulances and a relief train were rushed to the scene from Tacoma.

OLD WOMAN, 87, NEARLY BLOWN UP BY DYNAMITE

Awakened by the squeaking of her front gate, Mrs. William Harris, 87 years old, a widow living five miles from Renton towards Issaquah, escaped from her bed late Thursday night just in time to avoid being blown to eternity by an explosion of dynamite that completely wrecked her cottage.

Word of the explosion was first received by the sheriff's office this morning, after the constabulary at both Renton and Issaquah had unsuccessfully exhausted every clue as to the vandal who committed the act.

The Indian population of the United States at the end of June, last year, totaled 231,250.

Giant Firecrackers and Explosives Are Barred

Welcome, New Citizen, Welcome!

WHOEVER you are, from whatever land you came, whatever may have been your station in life in the Old World, you are now an American.

As an American you have the same social and political rights that all Americans enjoy. It doesn't make any difference to us, and it ought not to make any difference to you, whether in the Old World you were commoner or aristocrat. We have no classes here.

Keep, if you will, a sentimental regard for the country you have left. But you are now an American—don't forget that. You need America, for she will give you equal rights and opportunities. America needs you.

In this broad land surely you can find useful work and enduring happiness. These words The Star addresses to you, the invited guests at Sunday's Americanization day exercises, who have become citizens of the United States since July 4, a year ago:

600 NEW CITIZENS TO MEET

Six hundred citizens of Seattle, who have been naturalized within the past year, will be guests at a reception at Recreation pier, on the roof of the Bell st. port commission dock, Sunday afternoon.

There will be a concert from 2:30 to 3 by the police band, under the leadership of Sergt. Clarence Carr.

Addresses of welcome to the foreign-born residents will be made by Mayor Gill, Commissioner of Immigration White and Judge Neterer.

Carl J. Smith, representing the recently naturalized Americans, will respond.

The invocation will be pronounced by Rev. Father John G. Stafford, and the benediction by Rev. Carl K. Dittmers.

The guests and their friends will sing "Columbia," "Home, Sweet Home," and "America."

The foreign-born residents to whom invitations have been sent represent nearly every civilized country in the world.

Skinny! O-o-h, Skinny! Wat-ya-gotta-do-tuh-morra? Yah can't. Th' police won't let yah. They'll git yah if yah try it. Honest to goodness, cross mah heart ah hope ta die if it ain't so.

Listen, Skinny and Faty, and all you other fellers! 'Way back in the time when George Dilling was mayor, a safe and sane city council passed an ordinance which still holds good.

It says you can't shoot off toy pistols, or blank cartridges, or explosive games. It's agin the law to have fire crackers bigger than two inches long and half an inch in diameter, or torpedoes more than three-quarters of an inch in diameter.

No explosive may be used, on the Fourth of July or any other day, more powerful than black powder, unless you have special permission from the chief of police.

The Fourth of July will be celebrated in Seattle and surrounding towns on a larger scale, probably, than ever before.

Old-fashioned celebrations will take place at Bremerton, Kirkland, Ravenna park and other sections.

The anniversary of 100 years of peace between the United States and Great Britain will be observed at Blaine, close to the Canadian border.

Tacoma Sunday and Monday. There will be automobile races in Tacoma Monday.

The Fourth coming on Sunday, Monday will be a legal holiday this year.

On Sunday, at 10 a. m., the Washington National Guard, Col. W. M. Inglis commanding, will parade downtown.

Bremerton, Saturday, will be the scene of a street carnival, pavement dancing and an automobile parade. There will be ball games Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

SHIPBUILDER DEAD Capt. Thomas H. Petersen, master ship builder, 79, is dead at his home, 4433 32nd ave. W., after a brief illness, following a paralytic stroke. He leaves a widow, four daughters and a son. He had been a resident of Seattle 30 years. He was a member of the crew of the Constitution, the first mail steamer on Puget sound.

Ex-Cornell Professor Invades Home of Financial King and Inflicts Serious Wounds.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Victim of a would-be assassin, J. P. Morgan was shot through the groin by a man who forced his way into the Morgan home at Glencove, L. I., early today.

Early this afternoon Morgan was able to talk over the telephone to his office here and assured W. H. Porter, a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., that his wound was not serious and there was no cause for his partners to be concerned.

Dr. John Zabriski refuses this afternoon to confirm or deny that the condition of J. P. Morgan is serious. He said the financier had instructed him not to talk.

"Is Morgan's life in danger?" the doctor was asked. "A man's life is always in danger when he is shot," he responded.

Members of the family said Holt shot twice, but only one shot was effective. The first bullet shattered a valuable portrait hanging in the hall.

Dr. W. G. Lyle, head physician of St. Luke's hospital, was summoned today for consultation with Dr. J. W. Markoe, a specialist, who arrived at the house earlier in the day, accompanied by some of Morgan's business associates.

After examining Morgan, Dr. Markoe announced the wound was not serious and there was no danger except from infection.

Morgan was at breakfast with Ambassador Sir Cecil Spring-Rice of England when his assailant, who told the police his name was F. Holt, and that he was a professor at Cornell, forced an entrance into the house.

No explanation was made as to the presence of the British ambassador at Morgan's house, except that he was a guest.

This fact was regarded as significant in connection with the shooting, as it has long been public knowledge that Morgan has been handling practically all of the war contracts of the allies in this country.

Questioned at police headquarters, the prisoner reiterated that he shot Morgan because of the financier's alleged connection with the war.

Only quick action by Morgan in resisting the attack made upon him saved his life. He sprang upon his assailant and grappled with him, while the butler, calling for help, assembled the excited household.

Morgan, who is powerfully built, was more than a match for the slender intruder.

He overpowered him after a struggle, during which the man fired two more shots.

The prisoner was bruised and cut about the head. The constable found him smeared with blood and his clothing badly torn when he arrived at the Morgan house and placed the would-be assassin under arrest.

Morgan scarcely felt the wound while grappling with the man, but afterward sank into a chair, exhausted from the struggle and the pain. The constable, summoned by telephone, took the prisoner away.

'A Service to Humanity,' Assailant Calls Deed

GLENCOVE, L. I., July 3.—"I stain nitroglycerine." It was learned the Morgan assassin was willing to give my life for the service I have rendered humanity. Morgan should have been killed. He started the war and could have stopped it if he had wanted to."

This was the statement of Prof. Holt, who shot J. P. Morgan today, according to Justice Lyster of Glencove. In a statement to the United Press, the justice said:

"When I first asked Morgan's assailant regarding the shooting, he replied: "I am too dignified to discuss the matter."

Prisoner is "Inuited" "I asked him if he had any accomplices and he replied: 'No one was in on this but me and God Almighty. I had no other accomplices.' Continuing the justice said: "The prisoner is about 30, and speaks with a distinct German accent."

"He is tall, very thin, and dark. He is very well dressed in Jew clothes." "I asked him if he was a Jew, and he replied: "No, I am a Christian gentleman." "I am insulted at your remarks. You have no right to assume such an attitude toward a prisoner."

LID'S OFF ON SPOONING IN PARKS, DECISION OF BOARD

The lid is off at the parks, fellers—and girls!

You can carry on to your hearts' content, providing you keep out of the way of the passerby.

You can love, and kiss, and spoon, by sun, moon and stars. But you mustn't do it in the highways and byways of the city's play places. You must withdraw to the inner shadows.

This is the decision of the park board, arrived at Friday afternoon.

and purposes, a Butinski. Chief Lang, according to statements at Friday's meeting, dismissed the couple after hearing their story.

The park board Friday was considering whether or not Davis should be dropped from the force, for over-vigilance in shadowing this and other loving pairs.

"I don't think any officer should deliberately follow any couple," said Commissioner Lamping. "If a man wants to put his arm around a girl, why shouldn't he, if he and the girl keep out of sight?"

Commissioner Brainerd demurred slightly.

Park Superintendent Thompson, however, agreed with Lamping. "The trouble is, the couples cluster up the paths. They seem to lack all sense of propriety," he complained.

Thompson further said the boulevard at night were a sight. He offered to tell for at least 25 cases where enamored couples drove out in autos, parked the autos, and, without alighting from the machines, made open demonstrations of affection.

"They even get in my honey-suckle vines," he added.

The board voted to defer action, pending a more complete report on the Davis case.

PORTLAND, July 3.—Mrs. Margaret McDowell, wife of G. M. McDowell, agent for W. H. Grace & Co., is in a serious condition today as the result of swallowing a bi-chloride tablet by mistake for headache medicine.
