WARDEN TELLS OF SING SING HONOR PRISON

NOTE—Thomas Mott Osborne, millionaire and prison reformer, is slated for dismissal as warden of Sing Sing prison, according to authoritative reports from Albany, indicating friction between Gov. Whitman and the prison head. The United Press yesterday sent a staff correspondent to Ossining to see how Osborne's reforms are working out and to find out from Osborne himself what he thinks of his experiments.

By Lowell Mellett (United Press Staff Correspondent)

OSSING, N. Y., Aug. 9.—The fad of the moment in muckraking appears to be Sing Sing. Here's another rake: Some prisoners in Sing Sing prison wear loud socks. Prisoners are allowed to talk—talk out loud and even at the table. Prisoners are allowed to attend the funerals of their mothers and wives. Prisoners get so much time out of doors that they look like other people. There seem to be those on which Warden Osborne is scheduled for dismissal. Warden Osborne is the same Thomas Mott Osborne, millionaire with a mission, who spent a week as a prisoner in Auburn state prison for the "experience."

Asked for an interview, he said: "It's simply that New York is finding it harder than most states to reconcile itself to two things: "First—the conduct of a prison as a business institution. "Second—the treatment of men like human beings, with the idea of returning them to society improved instead of harmed by the time they have spent here at the state's expense. "When the basis of the present hue and cry against our methods is revealed I believe that you will find that it is the effort to operate Sing Sing along the lines of good business that is causing the most dissatisfaction in some quarters. "Treating men decently is good business. It has increased the output of the prison plants 20 per cent."

NO CHEAP SENTIMENT "Either thru mistaken kindness or thru inability to understand what we are trying to do, much has been written to indicate a reign of sentimentality at Sing Sing. As a matter of fact, I consider sentimentality only a degree better than brutality. There is no sentimentality among the 'welfare league.' Visit a true session of the prisoners' own court and you will find out. "Sitting thru such a session seemed to prove his case. Half a dozen prisoners charged with violation of prison rules were brought before a board of five other prisoners. Few courts were ever more thorough and painstaking in their efforts to get at the facts. Few courts were more even-handed in dealing out justice. Mercy was the quality that most surprised the visitor. "They talk about lack of discipline here," said Osborne, afterward. "The prisoners themselves keep twice as close a watch on the conduct of one another as the strictest guard could possibly keep. And in our first four months only about half as many cases were reported for discipline as in the first four months of the year before."

LET'S 'EM TALK "The charge that men talk is the first one that proves itself. The absence of the sickening silence that characterizes Sing Sing is one of the first things one notices. In the two-hour rest period they not only talk, but they play or watch baseball or obtain other exercises. "They have just that much less time to brood in their cells. "And it makes them sleep all night—the best cure in the world for disordered minds. The things that told most on my nerves the week I spent in Auburn prison, was the constant moaning, coughing, restless moving in the cells all night long. It was horrible. "D—n this talk of sentimentality. It's just plain common sense."

CONSIDER REALTY APPRAISERS

The county commissioners are considering Monday the acceptance of an offer of the Seattle Real Estate association to loan its appraisal board for the purpose of appraising tracts offered for purchase for a county industrial farm.

The board is: Robert W. Hill, chairman; George B. Kittinger, George W. Dilling, Fred W. West and J. A. Paine.

CHALLENGES SUNDAY TO DEBATE

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 9.—Altho he would not say directly he would reply to Dr. Charles F. Ake when he preaches in San Francisco Wednesday, Billy Sunday laughed heartily today at the prospect of appearing in the Van Ness tabernacle again.

"I shall certainly enjoy speaking in San Francisco," Sunday said. "The evangelist ran into a 'flanking movement' of the war now raging in San Francisco today, when Rev. Wm. Wilbur, of Escondido, challenged him to a debate, declaring there is 'no such God, Christ, devil, heaven or hell as Sunday preaches.'"

ERNEST WANTED ADVENTURE

Ernest Goldboro, 13, who lived three days in the woods on Whidby Island, "hunting redskins," and who was found Sunday in his brush hut by Rev. E. M. Rogers of Everett, was returned to his home, 2307 E. Cherry st., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Goldboro, reside. He had a 22-calibre rifle, a wooden bowie knife, and a sample package of breakfast food.

YOGI LEADER NOW RESIGNS

"Dr." De Bit has sent his resignation to A. K. Mozumdar, head of the Yoga cult at Spokane, "severing all connections with it."

However, he says: "I shall continue to express my realization of man's relation to God, continuing in my work here in Seattle, and building a school where others may prepare for the service of revealing man's divinity to man, thereby lifting him out of his self-created ignorance and illusions."

His resignation was written, he says, because he did not wish to embarrass the future of the "movement," because his "loyalty in defending; Mrs. Gerber against the persecutions of her husband has reflected upon the pure name of the Yoga."

Mozumdar did not comment or condemn the resigned Yogi.

GIVES ROSES TO BOOST CITY

Thousands of visitors to Seattle from the East this summer are raving over the beauties of our roses. Edward J. Bladine, sexton of the Lake View cemetery, heard them expressing their delight several weeks ago, as they passed by in sight-seeing autos. Bladine conducts a nursery. He has thousands more of roses than he knows what to do with.

He hit upon an idea of giving the surplus away. So he banked them in front of the nursery in an attractive manner, and inscribed a sign, inviting Seattle visitors to help themselves.

They did. But—Seattle people came along and helped themselves, too—carried off whole armfuls of them. The visitors were more polite. They contented themselves with one or two. You see, roses are scarce in the East. Two to the visitors seemed like a gold mine. Bladine is pleased with his experiment. Thus far he has given away approximately 20,000.

TAKES ISSUE WITH STATEMENT REFLECTING UPON SOCIALISM

Editor The Star: I write this in answer to the article in The Star, Christianity, as we cannot practice it under a system of government that is based on rent, interest and profit. Mr. James A. Flaherty. I do not know whether this man understands the socialist philosophy or not. I do not believe he does. However, when he makes the statement that the Catholic church is a bulwark against socialism and anarchy, I, as a socialist, must take issue with him. No organization that exists today, or that can be formed in the future, can be an effective bulwark against education, and socialism means education along economic lines. Socialism, being a material philosophy, deals with the social problems that evolution is automatically creating. The statement that socialism is opposed to Christianity leads me to say that there is not now nor ever has been such a thing as real Christianity, as we cannot practice it under a system of government that is based on rent, interest and profit. Why should a form of government that would give each individual the right to work and receive the full social value of his or her labor be a thorn in the side of a religious organization? As to "allowing up the vagaries and fallacies of the soap-box orator," I may say that the soap-box orator does not always give a clear talk on socialism. There are many who have preached anarchy and other things under the socialist banner. This is unavoidable at the start, and such individuals are always expelled from the party if there are enough level-headed socialists in their local to do it.

V. L. BEAN, 1801 Sixth ave.

FREDERICK & NELSON

Ohio Steel Ranges Almost Irresistible Are the New Street Gowns Pyralin Ivory

for the coming season, offering as they do so many artistic and original combinations of materials and colors. The new Coat Dresses of serge combined with satin-striped taffeta silk, and of serge with self-colored taffeta or charmeuse, show many fascinating touches of braid and embroidery. The undefined waist-line is again in evidence, and many Russian blouses are seen. An ideal Gown for the first days of Autumn is seen in the many-buttoned and patch-pocketed model of taffeta and serge, which is pictured at right. The widely-banded taffeta skirt is topped by a long-backed redingote of serge, and the collar and belt are cleverly embroidered in dull green and silver. Price $25.00.

Autumn Dress Fabrics

CHIFFON Broadcloths for suits are here in a choice selection of the darker or "silent" colors, which combine beautifully with the new, rich-toned plaids and stripes in silks and satins. Wine, plum, hunter's green, navy-blue, negre brown and gray. Fifty-four inches wide, $2.50 yard.

Piled Fabrics Will Be in Demand

for entire costumes as well as for separate skirts and coats, and will be shown in many widths and weights. A new 32-inch Costume Velvet that has arrived can be confidently commended for its elegance and serviceable quality. Offered in black, wine, navy-blue, damson, brown and laurel. Price $2.50 yard.

Plaid and Stripe Silks

are here in a wide selection of designs and colors, in Taffetas, Louisines, Gros de Londres, Failles and Satins, ranging from the tiniest check to the wide bar plaid and from the pin-stripe messaline to the faille silk with three-inch contrasting stripes. Width from 19 to 40 inches; prices from $1.00 to $3.00 yard.

A display in one of our large show-windows suggests some of the effective uses of these silks with plain silks, broadcloths and velvets.
