

Prepare for Big Mexican Raid Tonight

CARRANZA MAY GIVE IN, IS HOPE

MEMBERS OF PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE WHO ARE TRYING TO BRING PEACE OUT OF CHAOS IN MEXICO

Robert Lansing, U. S. secretary of state. At left (reading upwards), are R. S. Naon of Argentine Republic, Domico Da Gama of Brazil, and Eduardo Saurez-Mujica of Chile; at right (reading upwards), are Ignacio Calderon, Bolivia; Carlos Maria De Pena, Uruguay, and Joaquin Mendez of Guatemala.

BROWNSVILLE, Aug. 14.—Fears that a big raid will be attempted tonight and Sunday were expressed today, following reports of fighting between troops and bandits at Santa Maria. The bandits scattered into the brush about Mercedes. In fighting last night, one Mexican was killed at San Juan and Wm. Hall, a cavalryman, was accidentally shot in the hip. Three Mexicans were killed at Santa Maria. One of them was discovered to be the leader in the Noria raid Sunday.

BY C. P. STEWART
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Gen. Carranza today received the last word from his neighbors in the way of a friendly suggestion of peace. The appeal, signed by representatives of the Latin-American powers and Secretary Lansing, has been delivered to him at Vera Cruz. Upon the "first chief" largely depends the hope of a conference between the warring Mexican factions, which may result in the establishment of a new government.

While Carranza has been defiant and uncompromising and his almost belligerent attitude has not made officials overly optimistic, the administration thinks there is a chance that he will respond to the peace appeal. He is expected to make some counter proposal. This, perhaps, may serve as an entering wedge leading to an agreement. The appeal of the pan-American powers for peace was sent in Spanish to Carranza, Villa and Zapata. Copies in English and Spanish were forwarded to the governors of the Mexican states and to diplomats in Mexico City. The state department today announced that the text of the Mexican peace appeal will be made public tomorrow morning.

A Graduate Dentist Who Is Registered

By Edwin J. Brown, D. D. S., 713 First Ave., Union Bldg.

At common law any person could practice medicine or dentistry and be held responsible for damages or injuries resulting from incompetence. The people in any state or country never asked for a law regulating the practice of medicine or dentistry and the law now in force provides for penalties for gross misconduct and malpractice. It has always been the persons engaged in a vocation who requested the state to regulate them, and then those who regulate the law dictate the provisions which go into it.

The Physicians and Surgeons asked for and obtained the enactment of the Medical Act. The Dentists obtained the Dental Act and signed it to suit their purpose. The Teachers, the Barbers, the Plumbers, the Accountants, the Milk Dealers, all protected by laws that protect the people, but in reality the law now in force protects those who pretend to regulate. Some day these laws will be so broad as to really protect the people.

THE LAW AIDS THE CHARLATANS
The Dentist has much to say about the registered Dentists in his office, and has the gall to infer that all other Dentists are incompetent. He is simply advertising himself and his assistants practiced for years in his office without a certificate. As I said before, his assistants practiced from one to ten years in this state without a certificate and they were just as much before they received their certificates as they do now, and they, as he, are no better Dentists today than they were before they received their certificates. He will know that they were discriminated against in examinations as to was he unless he is an expert, because he took the examinations twice each year for many years, and during all those years he practiced without his certificate, before he graduated from the school that blew away, he was nothing to say about Dentists who were not graduates and who were not registered.

WE SHOULD HAVE A DENTAL LAW
A Dental Law is intended to protect a qualification standard and a law to test the qualifications of dentists by that standard, but a law to protect the public against charlatans is not intended to protect the public against destroying the private rights of Dentists.

Some years ago a young graduate Dentist started to work for me in Seattle, but I only kept him one day because he was hopelessly incompetent as a Dentist. His people had influence and he had no doubt of his pasting the Dental Board getting his certificate to practice Dentistry in this state. I know of many instances of this kind. About the same time I had a young man of high standing, with long hair and a high forehead, and my assistant, who was not allowed to even be examined. Now, all these things are the law protects the people.

An alleged Dentist comes to Seattle to take the Dental Examination and runs out, changes the name of the institution, gets a state license and goes in to practice. You and I standers all other Dentists for doing exactly what he and his assistants did for years. They they came here and before they ever registered.

Some of my associates have had from 12 to 20 years' experience and are Dentists of the highest qualifications, and it is my word and my guarantee that my patients rely upon, because I am a Judge of Dentistry.

The way to select a Dentist is to ask your friends and neighbors, or the neighbors of the friends, for their recommendation, and be your own judge as to who is truthful, reliable and responsible.

NEW FIGHTING IN DARDANELLES

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Renewal of violent fighting in the Dardanelles, in which the British have captured several Turkish trenches and made a new landing, was reported in an official statement from the war office today.

The battle is still in progress with artillery pouring a steady fire upon the Turkish lines along a 1000 yard front.

At Sarce charges against the Turkish British Colonials captured a line of trenches on the slopes of the Sari Ibar, it was stated.

ALASKA BUSINESS GROWING RAPIDLY

Seattle's import and export trade this season. It is predicted. Trade has been stimulated, not only by shipments of supplies to the new government railroad, but also an unusually large salmon pack from the North to Seattle.

Twenty-five landmarks and monuments declared national monuments to commemorate historical events.

SEES CHILDREN FOR 2 HOURS; GOES HOME

guard over Dr. Lambert and his daughters while they visited. Several persons stood about the room. The meeting was somewhat stiff and formal. The children broke the ice. "Daddy, if you love me," said little Carolyn, "I should think you could give me your kodak."

Dr. Lambert and the little ones vanished into a little private room. They could be distinctly seen thru the glass door.

Father Sued by Mother.
The father sat in a large arm chair and Carolyn and her smallest sister, Frances, sat opposite on two smaller chairs, their legs dangling. They looked demurely at him. He spoke. And then the greatest consultation of his experience began.

It was a real old-fashioned visit and it was costing Dr. Lambert $20 a minute, for while he was enjoying the smiles and the pratle and the touch of his babies' fingers running thru his hair, a suit for $2,500 was being filed against him in superior court, seeking a judgment against him for alimony said to be due Mrs. Lambert.

Four o'clock came. Dr. Martin hastened into the room. "It is 4 o'clock," she said. "But Judge Smith gave me two hours with my children," pleaded Dr. Lambert. "They were late, you remember."

Dr. Martin went out. At last father and daughters emerged. Dr. Lambert did not look at his former wife, but turned straight for the door with quick steps.

Carolyn darted after him. "Daddy," she said, "are you going away?"

"Yes, dear," he said, choking, while Dr. Martin looked on and winked wryly at a bystander; "I'm afraid so."

"And you couldn't take our picture?" asked the child.

"No," he said sadly. "Dr. Martin says I mustn't."

Kisses Children Good-bye.
She was standing on the step. He grabbed her into his big, bear-like arms and smothered her for a moment, kissing her again and again.

Dr. Martin stood watchful. It was past two hours. "Good-bye, daughter," said the father, turning away.

"Good-bye, daddy," the child called after him.

If he returns without first having paid the alimony she says he left. "The children are in good hands. I haven't the money to pay the alimony, that's all. I wanted to see them and so I came. Judge Smith is a fine gentleman. He could have kept me from them, but he didn't. Good-bye."

THIRD PARTY STAYS IN RACE

By Gilson Gardner
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Progressive party will have its candidate in the presidential race of 1916. That much is now settled.

Roosevelt has spoken, and before he spoke nearly all of the Progressive leaders had expressed themselves to the same effect.

That candidate will probably be Hiram W. Johnson of California.

Victor Murdock, chairman of the Progressive party national committee, has expressed his opinion in a widely published statement calling attention to the fact that the Republicans contemplate a reactionary candidate and platform and that the present is just the time for the Progressives to rally for the things they stand for.

Perhaps the best reason for holding the Progressive party together is the fact that by maintaining their party organization and naming the candidate the Progressives hold a veto power over the reactionaries.

With a progressive candidate in the field, standing on a Progressive platform, no Elihu Root can be elected to the presidency.

The alternative may or may not be Woodrow Wilson.

Nothing could be worse than an Elihu Root managed by a William Barnes, financed by Wall Street, and platformed by the inheritors of Mark Hanna and his school of politics.

A veto on that is the best service the Progressives could possibly render to their country.

The Progressives will hold an early convention. Their platform and candidate will take the lead. It will challenge the two conventions which are to follow.

NOW RAILROAD CLAIMS MILES OF COAST LINE

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 14.—The Southern Pacific R. R. Co. is claiming the entire water frontage on the coast line of Lincoln county from Otter Rock, six miles north of Newport, down to the southern boundary of the county, a distance of about 30 miles, it became known today.

Within this district is the Newport, Ore., Nye Beach, one of the most popular beaches in the state. If the Southern Pacific's assertion of title is sustained in the courts, it will be within the power of the railroad company to put up private property, keep off signs almost anywhere along the Lincoln county coast.

EIGHT KILLED IN ENGLISH WRECK

NORTHAMPTON, Aug. 14.—The Irish mail of the London North-western railway was derailed near the Stowe tunnel today.

Railway officials announce that eight were killed and 30 injured. The first section of the train crashed into the overturned engine which left the track and the second section plunged into the wreckage of the first.

HERE ARE WAR ODDS

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The following odds are being offered by British war insurance underwriters:

Fifty to one that the U. S. will not enter the war before September 15.

Six to one that Bulgaria, Greece and Rumania will not enter the war before September 15.

Twenty-four to one that peace will not be declared before September 30.

Three to one that peace will not be declared before December 30.

Three to two that peace will not be declared before March 31, 1916.

Nine to one that Paris will not be taken by the Germans before September 30.

Four to one that Calais will not be captured by the Germans before September 30.

PACIFIC MAIL SELLS VESSELS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—The sale of the five transpacific liners of the Pacific Mail Steamship company is the beginning of the end of that company, shipping men declare.

The purchase of the entire Orient fleet of the company, the Manchuria, Mongolia, Korea, Siberia and China by the Atlantic Transport company, a subsidiary of the International Mercantile Marine, leaves but one liner on the Pacific flying the American flag.

This is the steamship Minnesota, owned by the Great Northern Steamship company, plying between Seattle and the Orient.

The Pacific Mail Steamship company announces that it is going out of business because of its inability to meet the requirements of the La Follette seamen's law.

OPPOSE POOR FARM PLANS

Protest against the purchase of a county industrial farm was made to the county commissioners Saturday by the taxation committee of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce and the King County Medical association.

The commissioners hope to save several thousand dollars annually in the matter of taxes for county dependents by raising all the products needed on the proposed farm.

Several sites have been offered, and County Agricultural Rader made favorable reports on a number of tracts, after thorough soil tests and complete agricultural surveys had been made.

The Chamber of Commerce bases its opposition on a doubt as to whether the county government is stable enough to engage in successful farming, and the fact that purchase of such a farm at the present time would be too great a burden on the taxpayers.

The medical association, represented by Dr. Park Weed Willis, has sent a letter of protest which is included in the Chamber of Commerce's adverse communication.

The letter sets out that removal of the county poor farm from its present site at Georgetown to the proposed new quarters would mean additional expense to the county, as many times it is necessary to move inmates to the county hospital, and that it is the rule to send convalescents from the hospital to the poor farm as early as possible. The new farm would be at too great a distance to make this feasible, it is said.

It is pointed out that nearly $200,000 would be necessary to buy and equip an industrial farm properly.

"Therefore," reads the protest, "we recommend that no levy be made this year for the purchase and equipment of such a farm."

Joseph Blethen is Saturday a trustee of the Chamber of Commerce, following his election Friday to the position vacated by the death of his father, Col. Alden J. Blethen.

J. E. Chilberg has been appointed chairman of the chamber's bureau of foreign commerce, to succeed J. D. Lowman, resigned.

POF. KALLEN TO SPEAK AT TEMPLE

Horace K. Kallen, professor of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin, is visiting in Seattle on his tour to the Orient. He spoke Friday night at the Temple de Hirsch, 15th ave. and East Union st., on "Jewish Life and Religion."

Sunday evening he will speak at the synagogue of the Bikur Cholim, 17th and Yesler, and Sunday morning he will address the members of the Menora club.

BUY COKE NOW While the Price Is Reduced

Next to artificial gas, Coke is the cleanest, most convenient and most satisfactory fuel for a wide range of heating purposes, both industrial and domestic.

It gives intense and long-sustained heat, without smoke or dirt, requires little attention, and is very economical.

We sell Oven Coke from our plant, crushed and screened to Lump, Nut and Pea sizes, at a uniform price of $5.50 per ton during August, plus the usual charge for delivery and carrying.

This Coke gives excellent satisfaction for domestic use wherever hard fuel is required, and those who have once used it in furnaces for house-heating will never discontinue it.

The time to buy is when you can buy the cheapest.

CONNOR SURE IS A HUSTLER

W. W. Connor was speaker of the house of representatives at the 13th Washington legislature.

Remember the gentleman? At the next session, the last, he introduced a bill authorizing the purchase of automatic voting machines by the counties of the state.

The bill passed. Today ex-Speaker Connor is agent for the Automatic Registering Machine Co., of Jamestown, N. Y.

County Commissioners Carigan and Knudsen Friday signed a contract to purchase, for $175,000, from the Jamestown concern, of which Connor is representative, 200 voting machines.

And this in the face of a violent protest from the Chamber of Commerce and against the legal opinion of Prosecutor Lundin.

The commissioners were advised to go slow in signing a contract to buy machines that may be useless if a later legislature chooses to revoke the voting machine law.

Also they were cautioned against signing away $175,000 without amending the contract to require the company to make changes in the mechanism of the machines, which may be necessary at any time, should the political parties increase in number.
