

GIANTS IN FIRST PLACE AND EXPECT TO HOLD ON TILL END

BEST SMOKER OF SEASON ON TAP TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S BILL
Pinkman vs. Vaise—135 lbs.
Johnson vs. Neff—133 lbs.
Douglas vs. Houck—122 lbs.
Thies vs. Davidson—118 lbs.
Hester vs. Mahoney—158 lbs.

The best boxing card that has been provided in Seattle in months will be offered at the Elks' club tonight. On the result of the two main events hinge important developments in the high flight class of the Northwest as Johnny Gray will likely be matched against the one who makes the best showing.

QUIMET, GOLFER, ALSO GOOD PITCHER

Francis Quimet, the star young golfer, is a baseball fan thru and thru, and at times is a baseball player.

JOE M'GINNITY BEATS INDIANS

SPOKANE, Sept. 10.—Despite the fact McGinnity was given wobbly support, he beat Spokane, 3 to 2 yesterday, as Wilson's triple in the fifth, a base to Hoffman, and Levine's single were factors in Tacoma's two winning runs.

STRAIGHT STUFF

By the Sporting Editor

The Brooklyn club will start next season with just about as good a pitching staff as any club in the league. Smith, Coombs, Pfeffer, Cheney, Marquard, Dell, Appleton and Malis are eight young men who will make it tough for any club on the circuit.

Infielder Joe Schultz, whom Brooklyn gave for Cheney, together with some money, hit 316 in the International league last season, and stole 20 bases in 155 games.

The school board is to be congratulated in its choice of coaches for the Queen Anne and Ballard high schools, the regret is felt that the men who were active last year were not reappointed.

After making sure that William Marshall really has $22,500 to pay for his $1,000-a-minute bout between McFarland and Gibbons, the New York boxing commission has O. K.'d the mill. Seeing was believing with the commission.

Jim Gilmore, Fed league president, says Jitney baseball is a big success, from which it might be inferred that the fans will go to ball games when they think they are getting their money's worth.

Gunboat Smith has replaced Jim Flynn as the official timekeeper in the ring. Any fighter who can't beat Smith is assigned to the junk pile, where he belongs.

EAST S. WEST TENNIS TODAY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The East and West will meet again in tennis today and tomorrow. McLoughlin will play Behr, Bundy will meet Pell, Johnston and Griffin will meet Williams and Washburn, Williams will play Johnston, Griffin will meet Niles, McLoughlin and Bundy will face Behr and Pell.

HIS OWN DOCTOR

Earl J. Bassett, N. P. train dispatcher, was recovering Friday at Providence hospital from a near-fatal gun accident which necessitated amputation of his left hand. Testing a new rifle with a mushroom bullet, Bassett accidentally discharged the gun, almost severing his wrist. He was a mile from the nearest road. He tied a fish cord about the injured member to prevent loss of blood and walked to assistance.

MANN HITTING

Leslie Mann recently made a triple, a double and five singles in two games. This was done in nine trips to the plate. He is hitting close to .300 for the Chicago Feds, on which club he is a pal of Bill Jackson, also with Seattle in 1912.

THEY PLAY TILL DARK

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 10.—This city claims to have started the idea of public golf courses—places where any man, woman or child who owns a golf club can play. This city also claims to have more public courses than any other city in the country.

This city had gone wild over the game; men and women who work hard all day, hurry to the links in the evening and play until dark; others get out of bed at 3 o'clock in the morning and play before going down to a hard day's work.

Golf, just like a disease, has its microbe; the person hit by this golf microbe is a goner.

As a starter of my probe into this golf craze business, I was routed at 3 o'clock Sunday morning and taken to Jackson park, one of the many parks where links are located. There were 54 persons lined up in front of the little shelter house where a card bearing a number is given each person who wants to go onto the course.

At 10 o'clock there were 387 persons in line. Has this city gone wild over golf? It sure has.

critics who have watched the several squads, each numbering 30 or thereabouts, in action. The rugby tendency is hurting the men in their work. In rugby it is necessary to hold the ball away from the body to make a long pass, and it is difficult to teach the men to hold the ball close to the body while running.

New Tennis Rule Shows Game Not of Mollycoddle Variety

BY BROWN HOLMES
The new practice in force in tennis tournaments of allowing players 15 minutes for rest just before the final set gives official emphasis to the fact that the court game is not the mollycoddle pastime many believe it to be.

A lot of ball players would expect to be nicknamed "Bessie" or "Gwendolyn" if they were caught playing tennis, but five sets on a clay court under a boiling sun is a more severe strain than a nine-inning ball game.

The tennis player who goes thru five sets gets more action than any individual ball player, with the possible exception of a pitcher.

Just a short time ago in a tournament at Kansas City a tennis match was called before being finished because the players were exhausted. The contestants had battled two and a half hours without reaching a decision.

The average ball game lasts two hours and five minutes, and even the pitchers, who are the most active, get a chance to rest between turns on the mound, while the tennis player is on the go and under a severe strain straight thru, with no chance for a breathing spell.

The argument has been made that the 15-minute rest period before a final set in a tennis match will rob the game of the element of ability to "stick" under pressure. Ability to stick it out should be a part of any physical test.

However, the rule is welcomed by players, even those who have shown they can stand the gaff of a long, grueling race. And the rule makes the fact stand out that this tennis business is not a nabby-pabby affair.

OWNERS DENY IT
LIVERPOOL, Sept. 10.—In view of the German claim in its note to the United States that the commander of the submarine which sank the Arabic concluded the vessel was about to ram and sink him, the White Star line today reiterated its declaration that the submarine was not seen and hence that it was impossible the Arabic attempted to attack her.

GUBS BUY DOUGLASS
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The Chicago Cubs bought Phil Douglass, with Spokane in 1913, from Brooklyn at the waiver price. Douglass pitched a three-hit game against the Phillies Tuesday, but waivers already had been asked on him and could not be withdrawn.

MISS KUBEY TO PLAY
Addresses by Frank M. Crangle, of Illinois, and W. L. Gazman, a violin solo by Miss Florence Kubey, are announced as the program at a luncheon of the King County Democratic club at Good Eats cafeteria Saturday noon. The public is invited.

ABERDEEN STAR HERE
Ted Faulk, the Aberdeen end, who weighs about 170 and is just a little under six feet tall, is in Seattle. He says he will enter the U. of W.

THOSE BOSTON BRAVES HAD NAUGHT ON TEALY RAYMOND'S CLIMBERS

The Boston Braves had nothing on the Giants. If you recall the standing in the Northwestern league on July 4, you will not have to be told, but realizing no one was interested in the Seattle club, these figures are supplied:

On July 4 Spokane led the league with 46 won, 28 lost—622; Seattle was in last place, with 27 won, 47 lost—338.

On September 10 the Seattle club is found in first place, with 81 won, 64 lost—559, while Spokane, with 80 won and 64 lost, is second—556.

By the simple process of subtraction, the fact is disclosed that Seattle has won 64 games and lost 17 since July 4, for an average of .761. During this same period Spokane has won 34 and lost 36 games, for an average of .486.

With these facts in mind, it is hard to see by what process of reasoning Spokane writers arrive at the conclusion that even if Seattle does win the pennant, Spokane has the better club.

Tealy Raymond deserves all the credit for the showing his club has made. He was the man who rearranged the club and made it of championship caliber. He took men no one else wanted and instilled in them the fighting spirit that started them on the most remarkable climb in the baseball history of the Coast. It was Tealy who, in 1912, took hold of just such a punk club as Dug gave him this season, whipped it into shape and beat both Spokane and Vancouver out of the pennant.

That spurt does not compare with that of this season, however. And don't overlook the fact that Hunky Shaw, the best ball player in the league on the attack the way he is going now, has had a great deal to do with it. Hunky starts more rallies than anyone else, and he goes thru with them, too.

Schmutz pitched good ball and deserved a shutout. His support was flawless. Rose will try to make it four shutouts in a row Friday afternoon.

VANCOUVER FANS SORE AT LEAGUE
That Vancouver critics are sore at the Northwestern league is shown by this statement from A. P. Garvey, sport writer on the World:

"The Northwestern league might just as well close up shop for the remainder of the season. The attempts to revise the schedule to suit all hands have been amusing. The directors appear to be able to do anything that suits them, regardless of results. The fans have come to regard the league as a joke and the majority of 33rd degree fans are more interested in a sand lot game right today than the Northwestern league flag race."

DOBIE LOSES BIG ANDY McPHERSON
Andy McPherson, big guard on the 1914 U. of W. team, who did not show much his first year, has decided to enter Rush Medical school at Chicago, according to advices from Bellingham. This is another serious blow to Dobie.

MISS KUBEY TO PLAY

What They Ask Cynthia Grey

"Hope Stranded and Alone": Will you please send me your name and address? I think I can help you.
CYNTHIA GREY.

Q—I always read your letters and have a faint recollection of your saying that you would help a girl who had made the first downward step and who is in trouble. Would you please answer this letter?
ONE WHO WANTS TO KNOW.

A—Most certainly I am willing to help anybody in any way I can.

Q—I am deeply in love with a dear little girl who is in love with another man. She has been going with him nearly two years and is just the sort of a girl to idolize a man she loves. When she met him, Miss Grey, she was not a good girl, but she gradually won her heart by his love for her and his kindness when she took sick and had to have an operation. He paid the bills and has helped her as much as he could afford ever since, because she has not been strong. This was about a year ago, since childhood, and know that dire necessity was the cause of her downfall. She was married before and has a darling boy of 6. Her former husband's mother takes care of the boy for her, and his people are very fond of her.

Her love for this man gave her the strength to straighten up, and she has braved the taunts of her uncles and friends and today there is a girl who has gone thru with what she has who is any more a good girl than she is. You, Miss Grey, must know that it is not easy for a girl to do as she has done and stick to it, and I love her the more for it, altho she has been as a wife to this man since she has known him. I know she has been true to him in every thought and deed, and until a month ago none could have been any better to her than he was; but he went away for a time, and since his return he seems to have changed. He never mentions marriage any more, and she is heart-broken.

Other people have told him things that are not true. I know the true woman in her would not permit her to do the things they accused her of. The best people in the world could not make me believe she would go wrong again.

She came to me for advice today, not knowing I love her, and asked what I would do if I were in her place. She feels that she can't give him up, because he is the only man she has ever loved, and it makes my heart ache to see her suffer so. Would you talk to him if you were I, and betray her confidence, or just keep your nose out of it? I feel more like giving him a good "kicking." I want an answer very bad. ANXIOUS.

A—I do not believe you could help the girl by mixing in the affair. Perhaps your great love for her makes you just a little prejudiced in her favor. She no doubt has reformed to a degree, but she is not doing right now to live with this man as his wife without being legally married. When a girl trusts a man too much, she repeatedly faces what this girl must now.

It is very hard to stand by with hands tied and see the girl you love suffer, but the suffering is the aftermath of indiscretion. A woman always pays 50 times over for such a mistake. My heart aches for such girls, and this one deserves credit for fighting her way up as far as she has; but there is little satisfaction in half-way reformation. A person must live absolutely right to be happy. No doubt the man in the case richly deserves a good "kicking," but peaceful methods are always more effective. If you think you can influence him by talking to him in such a way that you will not betray the girl's confidence, by all means do so.

Q—We are a bunch of boys and girls who chum together. That is, we go on picnics together, and parties together and meet at each other's homes. Two of the boys of our bunch live in a boathouse. It is wrong for the bunch of us to go out there in the evenings and play and sing and go boating and such things without a chaperon?

A—There might be no real harm in such a thing, and then again harm might result. Why step far enough out of the path of conventionality to warrant criticism?

Q—Will you please tell me how much a husband ought to pay for his wife's hat when his earnings are $75 a month? Please answer at once.
YOUNG BUSINESS MAN.

A—Not over $10. A woman with shopping ability can get a very good looking hat for $7. I consider a woman's plain dress better than a fancy one for $10 for a hat which she probably will not wear over four or five months.

CINCY'S BACKSTOP HELPS PULL TEAM FROM CELLAR

One of the main forces of the Cincinnati Reds who got into a remarkable streak and stepped out of the basement for a breath of fresh air, was the work of Tom Clarke, the catcher.

Clarke's work in handling pitchers was one of the reasons Manager Herzog finally got four triers into winning form, his cannonball pegs to bases cut thefts against the Reds to almost nothing and he has been whaling the ball near the 300 mark.

AU REVOIR, BILL

William Van Rappard, minister to the United States from the Netherlands, left Seattle Friday morning for Vancouver and the East. He represented the king and queen at the San Francisco exposition for the three days allotted to Holland.

To ask the wife of an Indian prince to dance would be the most outrageous insult conceivable.
