

Burnett's Jewelry Store Unloads

Finest Stock of Everlasting Gifts Now Reduced From One-Fourth to One-Half

Because the jewelry business has not been good, and stocks have accumulated, Burnett's Jewelry Store has decided to cut prices on everything in the store so as to reduce the stock as quickly as possible. Last Saturday's crowds were well-nigh overwhelming. And Monday's business was almost as big. The values displayed in the windows keep a constant crowd of sightseers outside and a constant flow of buyers inside the store. Here are a few of the values on display:

THIEF AT WORK IN ACCIDENT

Hastening to the aid of Mrs. Fannie Esknazi, of 408 11th ave., who had been thrown to the pavement in an auto collision at Seventh and Union st., at noon Thursday, Mrs. Grace Edwinton, 1324 1/2 Seventh ave., dropped her pocket-book.

The purse containing $15 was stolen as she assisted in carrying Mrs. Esknazi into Boyd's drug store.

Mrs. Esknazi was slightly injured and her brother-in-law, L. Meterni, driving a delivery car for the Cascade bakery, was cut about the legs.

Meterni lost control of his machine coasting down Seventh ave. At the intersection of Union st., the machine collided with a jitney driven by Arthur Van Dykeman, 1113 Cherry st.

WANT TO INVEST IN 72 PAIRS OF SHOES?

Because the shoes and clothing of the 55 youngsters and 17 mothers wholly or partially dependent on the Mother Ryther home won't last forever, and because there is no money with which to purchase a new supply, the home is going to hold a tag day sale Saturday, and if you don't buy a tag from one of the many pretty girls who assault you on the street, you're a mean old piker!

They want as many girls and women as possible to sell tags for

THINKS WILSON WILL WIN AGAIN

Frank P. McLennan, editor and proprietor of the Topeka State Journal at Topeka, Kan., stopping at the New Washington hotel, says he believes his state, as well as others, will vote President Wilson into office again because of his Mexican and neutrality policies.

There is a widespread feeling that he will keep us out of trouble," said McLennan.

CALGARY WELL SALTED, HE SAYS

Employe of Black Diamond Company Confesses in Court

PROSECUTE PROMOTER

CALGARY, Alta., Nov. 11.—How George E. Buck, president of the Black Diamond Oil Fields, limited, planned to bamboozle people of Western Canada by "salting" the company's well just before the oil strike of May, 1914, was told in police court here today by Norman A. Fletcher, former employe of the company, at a preliminary hearing of charges of conspiracy preferred by the crown against Buck.

According to Fletcher's story, the company was very hard up at the time and Buck said money had to be got somehow.

He proposed salting the well, Fletcher, and another employe named H. C. Beattie demurred, fearing consequences.

Buck sent out and bought quantity of crude oil, gasoline and distillate. These, according to Fletcher, were to be mixed and put down the well.

That the plan was carried out, he inferred from the fact that Buck told him afterwards that everything went all right.

Fletcher further said that plenty of crude oil was bought in Vancouver, shipped to Banff, then re-shipped to Calgary for the same purpose.

Shortly after this, one dollar shares of Black Diamond sold as high as seven dollars on rumors that oil had been found.

Buck floated Black Diamond No. 2 and an orgy of speculation ensued which finally resulted in the collapse of the entire Black Diamond boom.

Buck gave himself up to police after they had been trying for some time to arrest him on a warrant issued by the attorney general's department after he had secured an injunction restraining the government oil commission from inquiring into the affairs of Black Diamond.

SCHMIDT TRIAL FOR MURDER ON

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11.—Alleging that M. A. Schmidt purchased 500 pounds of dynamite in San Francisco, under the name of Leonard, and stored it in a vacant house there and went thru the Times building here to select the best location for the explosion, Special Prosecutor Jas. W. Noel today reached the climax of his opening statement to the jury in Schmidt's trial on a charge of murder.

Noel promised to prove that J. B. McNamara and Schmidt were paid $500 for a "job" in Oakland by the "Old Man."

SUES HUSBAND LOST FOR YEARS

Mrs. Amanda Boak, of 1423 28th ave., started suit for divorce here Thursday from Henry Calvin Boak, whom she had considered dead for 26 years.

Boak returned to his wife recently, it is alleged, to swear at her and make her generally uncomfortable, and Judge Gilliam granted Mrs. Boak a restraining order forbidding her husband from entering her premises.

The couple were married nearly half a century ago and have grown children, which Mrs. Boak alleges she earned the money to support and educate. Their wedding was in Frankfort, Ind., on May 15, 1873.

For 16 years, she says, they lived together. Then her husband vanished suddenly. She supposed him dead. He never wedded, she said, more than six months during all the time they were together.

LOSES HIS HAIR; WANTS DIVORCE

Carl J. Johnson, a tailor, of 114 Boylston ave., is seeking a divorce from Christina Johnson on the ground that she has caused him to lose a large portion of his hair.

Mrs. Johnson did not resort to the traditional method of pulling it out, but her husband complained Thursday, secretly applied to a chemist for a solution to his state while he was asleep, causing his hair to fall out.

The solution ran down into his eyes, he says, and menaced his sight.

PART SO SAD SHE REALLY WEEPS

Star Reporter Sees Honest-to-Goodness Tears in Actress' Eyes

IT'S NO JOSH, EITHER

There is in Seattle this week a play which twice daily breaks the heart of the woman who plays the lead. The story that she helps tell the audience is so gripping and so filled with heart throbs, she forgets that she is just Miss Stella Archer, and actually lives the misery of Lillian Locke, wife of the hero in "The Decision of Governor Locke."

Every afternoon and evening when the curtain goes down on the play Miss Archer hurries for her dressing room at the Orpheum theatre, brushing from her eyes actual tears, and smiling foolishly at other stage folk who chide her.

A Star reporter was in the wings Wednesday afternoon and saw the tears. They were honest-to-goodness tears, too. Miss Archer, who is the same sweet-faced, reserved little woman off the stage that she is on, was trembling with agitation.

"Out in front" big men were sniffing and women were weeping. With her soft voice and quiet manner she and Claude Gillingwater, as the governor, had been wringing the hearts and souls of the audience for a half hour.

"I can't help it," she said, laughing and drying her eyes. "That poor wife's story and the thoughts of all she went thru are more than I can bear. I—sometimes wish I had a more pleasant part."

And then she stopped, she folded her hands on her lap, and waited for the interview to begin. This was something new. Actresses don't wait, usually.

They begin expounding their views on things generally, and talk indefinitely.

The Star man was stumped, but presently asked the stock question, and felt ashamed immediately afterward:

"Did you ever kill wild animals in Africa?"

"No," she said, quickly, "but I wish I had."

Then she said she spent a summer in Seattle a few years ago, living on Lake Washington with a couple of Alredale dogs. She said it was the most wonderful time she ever had.

WOULDN'T LET HER SHOP SHE CHARGES

Because her husband would not allow her to go shopping more than once or twice a week, Mrs. John Drummond-Spencer asked a divorce from John Drummond-Spencer in superior court Thursday.

She declared they were financially able to permit her going out more, but alleged her husband grew quite peevish when she left home and was gone more than a specified time.

They were married in London in 1892.

Make Your Hair Curly and Wavy Over Night!

To curl the hair without at the same time burning the life out of it, nothing equals plain liquid salmerin. If a little be applied to the hair with a clean tooth brush before retiring, the lovely waves of soft ringlets will be in evidence in the morning. It will also be found an excellent dressing for the hair.

This simple method is not to be compared with curling by means of a hot iron, or by the use of hair curlers. The hair is really beneficial. A few ounces of the liquid, which may be procured at any drug store, will last for months. One can curl the hair in any style desired and the effect will be one perfect naturalness. The best way is to divide the hair into strands and moisten each of them from root to tip. The hair will be beautifully glossy, yet without the least greasiness or stickiness.—Advertisement.

BACK TO NATURE IN PINK TIGHTS

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 11.—Young Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Estes, equipped only with pink tights and determinations, have gone back to nature for two months via the Maine woods around Deadwater, Moosehead lake, on the upper Kennebec.

The couple took neither food nor weapons. Estes says he can make fire with flint, kill a deer with a stone or club or bow and arrow, have plenty of food and make shelter and covering from the hides.

Estes, hunter, trapper, guide, warden and herb gatherer, is familiar with everything that walks, swims or flies in the State of Maine. He and Mrs. Estes said they want to show the world that folks of today can return to the primitive and prosper. Estes is 26 years old, as is his wife.

HERE'S A FINE HOME FOR SOME POOR AND DESERVING COUPLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Announcement today that the big model dairy herd of prize Holstein-Friesians, which has attracted the attention of livestock men throughout the country at the exposition, will go under the auction hammer on Dec. 4, has created intense interest.

"I want to tell you about a chance to help some poor, deserving man," there and take possession. "There is a four-room house, three acres cleared, 60 thoroughbred, laying hens, a good boat, two incubators, brooders and facilities for raising a thousand chickens if they want to, there is a four-room school a half mile away, postoffice a quarter of a mile, and a community hall and park half a mile."

DAUGHTER DYING IN CHICAGO, MOTHER HERE, HEART BREAKING; WHO'LL EASE GIRL'S LAST DAYS?

You people who are complaining about your hard luck—listen to this story of a Seattle mother:

She has a daughter dying of consumption in a Chicago sanitarium. The daughter asks continually for her mother. She wants her mother with her in her last days.

And the mother's heart is breaking because she cannot go to her daughter. The reason she can't go is because she has no money. The reason she has no money is because Fortune has turned its back on her and her husband.

The mother is a trained nurse. Her husband is an auditor. When they work, both command good salaries. But until a few days ago both have been idle for months.

The husband found work a week or two ago, but all he earns is needed to pay the grocer and others who have been carrying their accounts from month to month.

A second daughter is working in San Francisco. It has been upon her small savings that the father and mother have subsisted.

The daughter in Chicago is married, but every cent her husband earns goes to pay sanitarium bills.

He says if the mother were back here, he could bring the daughter home and keep all there for what it costs at the sanitarium.

All the mother needs is a little less than the price of a ticket from here to Chicago. She can carry a
