GAMBLING LID OFF TONIGHT

"Frontier Night" will be celebrated Wednesday evening at Moose temple with the lid lifted sky-high. Every one is expected to enter into the spirit of the frontier days and to this end, the committee will have sawdust sprinkled on the floor so that all members may feel perfectly at home.

Any member caught within the confines of the building with a stiff collar, billed shirt, or other dude make-up, will be hated before the kangaroo court and fined after first being searched to find the extent of his bankroll.

It is the intention of the Judge Advocate General that on Frontier night every one shall leave Moose temple "clean."

Faro, roulette, stud poker, bar maids, concert hall girls, and the like, will be in evidence. Every man who enters will be searched and the "rats" will be taken care of by the floor manager, as it is the hope of those in charge to eliminate all gun play.

The object of "Frontier night" is that the fraternal brothers may be permitted an evening of novel entertainment, and, incidentally, to let go of their loose change. The proceeds will go toward the rebuilding of the club.

LIFE STORY OF MODEL ON FILM

Colonial to Show Drama
Written Around Miss
Audrey Munson

NOTES OF THE MOVIES

"The Panama-Pacific Girl." Such is the name given Audrey Munson, world-famed artist model, who will be the feature of the Colonial's new bill next Sunday in the Mutual Masterpicture "Inspiration." Miss Munson is known as the "Panama-Pacific girl" because she posed for most of the statuary at the San Francisco exposition.

"Inspiration"—with a few variations—is the life story of this girl whose beauty of face and form has made her the most ardently sought-after model of the most celebrated sculptors and painters. Miss Munson's first great pose was for Daniel Chester French's "Evangeline," which is now placed in front of Longfellow's home at Cambridge, Mass. Next she posed for the "History" of Allan Newman, which is atop the state capitol of Florida.

Her face and figure have been reproduced in the Firemen's monument, on the Pulitzer memorial, the Williamsburg Bridge, the Municipal building and the Maine monument, all of New York. "Inspiration" marks Miss Munson's first essay into the land of the silent drama.

BEERBOHM TREE SIGNED UP

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, England's premier actor, has signed a contract to appear in Triangle films. The sum to be paid the actor is said to be one of the largest ever offered to a dramatic star, cash in excess of $100,000 being the remuneration agreed upon.

SMILE A LITTLE, GIRLIE

The word "Welcome" at the lobby entrance to a Seattle movie palace doesn't carry much conviction to the theatre patron when the party in the ticket office has promised mother never to smile again at anything.

Willie Collier, the inimitable Broadway comedian, has been signed to appear in Triangle-Keystone comedies.

MISS CLARK COMING

Marguerite Clark will next be seen in Seattle at the Alhambra in "Still Waters," a pastoral tale in which she is said to have surpassed all her former achievements.

After Mary Pickford completed scenes in an Oriental curiosity show recently, the proprietor presented her with a beautiful Japanese kimono. She wears it in "Madame Butterfly," the latest release.

A prairie schooner and some "shootin' irons," relics of '49 in California, are being used by W. S. Hart in "The Disciple," a new Ince release.

Gordon Fullerton, publicity agent for Jensen & Von Herberg, called us up this morning.

"We had a complaint today," he said, "that we're not neutral because we have a German play on at the Liberty. I wish you'd state for us that we have a French play at the Mission, an English play at the Alhambra, and that we're 'neutral' the Coliseum to completion." Grab him quick, guards!

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

Hair becomes charming, wavy, lustrous and thick in few moments.

Every bit of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

For 25 cents you can save your hair. In less than ten minutes you can double its beauty. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and charming as a young girl's after applying some Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knobel's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

SCENE FROM BIG PLAY COMING TO LIBERTY

A big scene from "The Coward," a Triangle war film, starring Frank Keenan (center) as Col. Winslow. Keenan will be remembered as Sheriff Jack Rance in "Blanche Bates" "The Girl of the Golden West" company. His work in "The Coward" has resulted in a two-year contract for his exclusive services in Triangle plays.

What They Ask Cynthia Grey

Q.—There is a subject I have and Mrs. Galt's wedding has not been wanting to write you about for some time—one I think should be given a little thought in a city of this size.

Why is it there are so many married women holding positions here where there are so many girls, depending just upon themselves, who are walking the streets looking for work? There are married women working here today whose husbands are making all the way from $90 to $150 a month.

I know, I am speaking from experience. I am all alone in the world with no one to give me a helping hand. I have a good trade and good recommendations from reliable people, but there are no openings because married women fill the places. I am now working short hours in an office for $6 a week. I pay $3 for my room and have $3 left to eat and dress on.

We look down upon the poor girls of the street, but no one tries to find out what is helping to put them there.

There would not be so many married men out looking for new faces if their wives were home making their homes comfortable and not taking the food out of the single girls' mouths and driving them to sell their souls for enough clothes to cover them.

There is a woman working in a delicatessen here whose husband holds a public office, making a salary of $150 per month. She is a grandmother. Why isn't she at home, giving some poor girl that needs it, a chance?

One of our leading hotels laid off some of their help because business was slack. Did they see who really needed it? No. To my knowledge they laid off some that had nothing in the world but the salary they were getting, and kept on married women whose husbands were working and who even owned their own homes.

Are we to sell our souls this winter for warm clothes, while these married women fill our places? That is the question I have been wanting to ask.

Trying to Live Straight on Six Per. A. Some firms will employ only single girls, and, of course, that is a step in the right direction. The only way this situation can be permanently remedied is by legislation. But I do not believe that all married women should be discriminated against, because there are a great many who must actually work to get enough for themselves to eat and for their children to wear.

Dear Cynthia Grey: I want to pass on a few suggestions to help the busy housewife when unexpected company arrives to eat dinner or supper. A very excellent broth can be made for soup in an hour by putting a dime's worth of hamburger steak on the stove in warm water and bringing to a boil slowly, to draw out all the meat juice—then add whatever flavoring in the way of vegetables you want, and boil briskly for 45 minutes or an hour.

An omelette that is extra fine is made by mincing a tablespoonful of ham or bacon very fine, brown it slightly and into this pour the omelette, made of three eggs, a teaspoonful of flour, a little salt and pepper and a can of minced clams.

A SUBSCRIBER.

Q.—If witnesses are required when a marriage license is issued, how many are required and whom may they be?

Are witnesses required at the wedding ceremony?
What kind of a ring is suitable for an engagement ring?
Could you suggest a good dressmaker who would make a wedding dress?
What day in December are President Wilson and Mrs. Galt to be married?

One witness who knows both parties personally must be present when a marriage license is issued. Any one may act as a witness, provided he or she is personally acquainted with the bride and groom-to-be.
Two witnesses must be present at the wedding ceremony. A diamond is preferable for an engagement ring, also any stone, such as an emerald, ruby, sapphire, etc., in single setting, may be substituted.
I cannot take the responsibility of recommending a dressmaker.

SECTION BOSSES RUN RAILROAD?

Could Do It As Well as U. S. Officers Could Run an Army

STARTLING TRUTHS

BY HERBERT QUICK

Once I knew a section boss who became a division superintendent. But he made his way by degrees. He was made assistant road master, then road master, and so "onward and upward."

If he had been jumped from section boss to division superintendent he would have made hash of the job.

Would they make hash of their jobs? I think they would. Am I doing the office of the army an injustice in comparing them to section bosses?

Listen to what one of them said to me.

He has served in the regular army for 25 years, and is now retired. Therefore he knows.

"Major," I asked, "if you were given an army of 20,000 men and ordered to march it from Albany to New York, could you do it?"

He wasn't insulted. He commended with himself a moment, and said:

"I think I could; but it would be an awful strain. It would keep me awake nights. You see, I never had a command even of a regiment. Moreover, I never saw a whole regiment of United States troops assembled at one place. I never served in a body of troops as large as a regiment."

All my experience with commanding or moving large bodies of men had been confined to maneuvers effected by marks on a blackboard or blocks moved on a table.

"I am ignorant of everything but the theory in the matter of moving an army. SO IS EVERY OFFICER OF THE ARMY EXCEPT WOOD, FUNSTON AND A FEW OTHERS. And I don't believe we have a man in the army who has ever done as big a job as peacefully marching 20,000 men from Albany to New York."

Then how about marching 500,000 in war?

The officers are not to blame. We as a people are to blame. But wherever the blame lies, the fact remains that, as compared with the French or German officers, even before the war, our officers are section bosses in experience, who would be called on to do all at once and without practice the work of division superintendents, general managers and all the other big jobs.

The French officers are fighting on ground over which they had marched great armies repeatedly before the war in practice maneuvers.

If they had not been given this practice, France would now be at the feet of Germany.

What chance should we have against even 100,000 such men, so led, and equipped as they are

All Walled in by Cleanliness

AROUND the production of Sterling Gum we provide a wall of cleanliness.

The factory itself is sunny—spotless through and through—the model of its kind—flooded with daylight from morning till night.

Throughout the manufacture of Sterling no hand can touch it. Each morning the men and girls in the Sterling factory slip on clean white gloves—freshly laundered. And they wear fresh-washed uniforms and caps.

It is pleasant to keep this in mind as you hunt the 7th point of Sterling excellence.
