STRAIGHT TUFF BY FRANK GIBB

There is something to the rumor, first tagged in The Star last Saturday, that William H. Dietz, coach at Washington State has been offered the position of football mentor at the University of California. In a Spokane interview, Dietz admits that he had been communicating with the U. of C. management for the past month. This makes Graduate Manager John Stroud of the Bears out as a prevaricator for Jawn denied that the Bears had given any thought to a successor to Schaeffer. Dietz has been eminently successful with the W. S. C. eleven, but he will have to admit he fell into a gold mine of material at Pullman this fall.

If the Californians could find another man of Dietz's ability and there are, might they be there—we would say, say that fellow, for the Northwest needs coaches who can give Gilmour Doble real competition.

Seattle men who are on the fringe of Frisco say that the newspapermen there had a reason for flaying Jim Schaeffer as they did when he lost. It seemed odd that good fellows like Harry Smith, Baggerly and Al Joy could not get along with Schaeffer. It seems that Schaeffer is far from being a diplomat. In fact, Frisco writers say they had never been treated

W. S. C. TO PLAY BIG BROWN U

Washington State College will play Brown university's football team, at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's day, unless some hitch ditches the arrangements. The University of Washington was offered this chance to meet "one of the leading teams of the East," unknown at the time negotiations were first opened, the football players voting against the post-season date, which meant several weeks' training, almost unanimously. Doble consented to put in extra time to drill the team if the game was scheduled.

Both Washington State and Brown have accepted terms offered by the Pasadena interests, as was first announced in The Star Pink. Brown put a powerful eleven on the field this season, which defeated Yale, 3 to 0. Outside of this one big victory, the Rhode Islanders have not achieved any wonderful successes and are never considered for a moment as contenders for the championship. Harvard beat Brown, 16 to 7, a week ago. The game will mean nothing. W. S. C. has nothing to gain and everything to lose.

BIG SERIES BETWEEN BEST FOOTBALL TEAMS IN EAST AND WEST IS NEEDED

BY BROWN HOLMES

This is the year for a world series in football, that event often talked of, but always passed up by the men who could put it thru. There are about six teams in the country that stand out ahead of all others, but absolutely no way to decide which is the best.

In the East, with the teams of the biggest three colleges, Yale, Harvard and Princeton beaten, Cornell and the University of Pittsburgh claim the title. In the Middle West and South the championships are still to be settled. In the West, Washington State has made a great record, and the U. of W. has not been beaten in seven years, yet these teams will not meet this season.

An elimination series would be the thing. Let Cornell and Pittsburgh battle among themselves. Let the Southern champions meet the Middle West champs. Let the two Washington teams battle.

Confessions of a Wife

COMPLIMENTS GALORE SEEM EMPTY WORDS

When I reached Eliene's I found all the old crowd. I was greeted with great enthusiasm, but no one asked if Dick were coming. "Dick has business," I hastened to explain. He will probably come after me."

"Never mind if he never comes back," shouted Bill Tenney, who grabbed me and waltzed me over to Donna.

"I am so glad to see you, Margie," she said, and she kissed me. "I believe of all my friends I missed you most. You must come over soon for a long talk."

I smiled to myself, for I thought of what Bill had said to me over the telephone.

Donna looked tired, but she really was stunning with her crown of

Let the winner of the Eastern series meet the winner of the Middle West, and the winner of that game battle with the Western champions.

The whole affair could be handled by a committee that would act as the national commission handles the world series of baseball. The expense of sending the teams about would easily be covered by gate receipts. It would be hard to find a field big enough to hold the crowd that would attend a game between Pittsburgh and Cornell or between the Western and Eastern champions.

The series would not only bring together the best in the East and the best in the West for the first time, but satisfactorily decide the championships in the various sections and at the same time the championships of the country.

A world series in football would be one of the greatest things that ever happened in outdoor athletics. The big men of football should put it over prematurely white hair. It has grown much whiter since she has been away and I really think she is better looking for it.

"Don't you think that the second Mrs. Tenney is better looking than the first?" asked Bill.

It was a funny question, even if a little vulgar, and I laughed and said: "I certainly do think Donna is lovelier than she was when she was married to you before, your dreadful man. Perhaps it is because you are older this time and do not worry her so much."

"I don't think I'll ever worry her again," I said solemnly.

"No," answered Donna, quickly. "You see the girls won't look at him now he's getting bald."

"Turn around, Bill," added Donna. "and show your bald spot to the lady."

Bill did this obediently, and I saw on the crown of his head a little spot about as big as a silver half dollar.

"I had to grow this," he explained. "to keep up with Donna's white hair."

"But her head crowned with its moonbeam whiteness is superb and yours—"

"Don't spare me, Margie, you know you never do—just say what you think."

Jim came up just then and took Donna away for a dance. Bill dropped into her seat beside me.

"I'll come for you about 2 o'clock tomorrow," he said. And then in a rather aggrieved tone, "Margie Waverly, believe you have grown prettier since I was away."

"Now, Bill, don't try to flirt with me, because I know your tricks and your manners," I said banteringly.

"But I am not trying to flirt with you—I mean it. What have you been doing to yourself?"

"Just living, Bill."

"Well, that's a pretty big proposition, I guess," he said, suddenly becoming serious.

"I am afraid I used to take it too seriously," I answered. "Now I am trying to make myself think it is pretty much of a joke."

"Oh, you can't do that," he exclaimed. "The very thing which shines in your eyes and hovers about your tender mouth; the thing which is like the minor cadence in the waltz; the thing which is beautiful, but tugs at your heart strings, tells any one that you, Margie, are a jewel, can never take life as a joke. If you did you might be called a pretty woman, but no one would ever think you beautiful."

"Who are you talking about—Margie?" asked Jim. "I have always thought her beautiful ever since I met her."

"Go on, gentlemen, just as the W. S. C. were not here," I said. "Indeed I don't think I'll stay—I'm going to show Donna Eliene's babies."

"But I want to dance with you, Margie," expostulated Jim. "I am a young fellow, and I have a right to be a young fellow. I am going to make you my wife."

"Later, perhaps. Remember, there is one thing a man can never hope to rival—a baby."

LOCAL HOCKEY STARS ENROUTE FOR NEW POST

Harry Holmes and Frank Poynton, two of Seattle's new hockey players, passed thru Regina, Sask., Tuesday en route to Seattle, according to word received by Manager Pete Muldoon of the Metropolitan. They met Carpenter and Walker, two other local players, at Fort William, and the four of them will arrive together, probably Friday.

The Victoria and Vancouver hockey arenas are scheduled to open tonight. McCullough and MacDonald, two of the Victoria players, left for their new post last night.

SAYS BILL JAMES IS ALL THRU

"The others say he'll come back all right, but I think he is thru," remarked Johnny Evers, Boston second baseman and one of the greatest stars in baseball in Dugdale's private office at Dugdale field yesterday after the All-Americans had won a 3-to-2 game on a field over which swept wintry blasts. "It was pitiful to see him having played behind him in 1914 when he was the greatest young pitcher in the country."

Evers is as polished a little fellow as one would want to meet. He is book-full of baseball anecdotes and delights in telling them. His tales are the plain, unvarnished truth, flavored with a tinge of wit that bespeaks wide experience in worldly affairs.

"James may come back, but if he does I'll be surprised," he said. "He doesn't know when or how he hurt his arm. He can't raise it over his head and bring it down to get the drive and speed he used to, and it hurts him to pitch. He had all the stuff in the world, nerve, brains and ambition. It's a shame to see a bright fellow like Bill pass out of the game."

Evers thinks Pete Schneider will be a wonder this coming season.

THE WACO CAR

A New Seattle Product

When you buy a car you want all the style, all the power, all the smooth-running and long-lasting qualities you possibly can command for the amount you pay.

The WACO is a maximum value car. The 5-passenger at $785 is cheaper by $100 to $200 than any car in the market of similar ability. It is made throughout of standard parts—there is not a single experiment in its construction.

The history of auto stocks would indicate that a Waco investment will prove a splendid revenue producer. A limited block of stock is now available at $1.00 per share (par). This offer will be withdrawn when the plant begins operation.

WINDICATED BY THE COURT

Medical Board Ordered to Restore License to Dr. J. Eugene Jordan After Evidence of Remarkable Cures Was Produced in Court

On January 7th. of this year, Doctor J. Eugene Jordan was arraigned before the State Medical Board and his license to practice medicine revoked, the contention of the board being that the advertisement produced on behalf of Doctor Jordan in the local newspapers, was untrue, that Doctor Jordan could not cure the diseases mentioned therein.

Doctor Jordan appealed to the courts in the matter and the trial of the case which followed, in the Superior Court, produced evidence of a character that caused Judge Walter M. French to award a decision to Doctor Jordan, restoring to him his license.

Judge French stated in his decision: "The court cannot find in this case that any credulous or ignorant persons have been deceived. On the other hand, the witnesses who have been produced on behalf of Doctor Jordan are among the best people in the city. Professional people, people of standing in the community, people who are known to the Court personally and people who are known to the citizens of this city generally as being among the best people in the city. And I don't think that it can be contended that they were either credulous or ignorant, except as the latter generally is somewhat ignorant of medical matters."

There is no contentment here that any medicine has been given which is at all harmful. In fact, all of the testimony in this case seems to show, as far as is concerned, that any medicine that ever has been administered by Doctor Jordan has tended to benefit the patient.

There is no contention on the part of the State, and it so stated by counsel for the State, that there was anything in this advertisement that was injurious to public morals.

So that it gets down to whether or not this advertisement is so grossly untrue as to involve moral turpitude on the part of Doctor Jordan.

Under all the testimony in this case, I cannot find that the advertisement is so grossly untrue as to involve moral turpitude on the part of Doctor Jordan and judgment will, therefore, be for Doctor Jordan.

GREATER VINDICATION COULD NOT BE DESIRED

The Medical Board claimed that these diseases were incurable, meaning, of course, that they could not cure them. Doctor Jordan not only claimed to cure them, but produced in court scores of actually cured patient as witnesses for his case. The stories of their remarkable cures have been stated under oath.

Doctor Jordan has caused this statement to be published in order to acquaint the public and his many friends with the proven facts in the case.
