

Slipshod, Hasty or Unskilled Dentistry Is Costly and Dangerous

Refined people avoid the "teeth factory". Teeth the guardians of the health. "Inexpensiveness" versus "Cheapness". Individual treatment. "Nature teeth".

DENTISTRY WORK that is turned out by the wholesalers cannot be carefully done, and the very idea of "falling in line" and being called "next" like the customers in a barber shop is repulsive to sensitive people.

THE mouth is the most important organ of the body, and the teeth are the guardians of the stomach, and so of the general health. It is natural, therefore, that people with the proper ideas as to health and cleanliness should be anxious to have their teeth put in good order. And in these times THE COST is an important matter.

BUT COST is a relative term. CHEAP dentistry—hasty and unskilled work and inferior materials—are most expensive in the long run. You will find that the cry of "cheapness" is, on the whole, a catchpenny scheme, and that even the initial price of a so-called "cut rate" man is as high, or higher, than that of a skilled and conscientious dentist.

WE MAKE no boast of the number of people we "turn out" in a day. Our object is to build up a practice and reputation for thorough work at the most reasonable price. Every patient receives the most careful attention. Every individual case is conscientiously studied and treated.

OUR "Nature-teeth" are duplicates of the ones Nature gave you. Whether a bridge or a plate is used we say to our patients: "Bite with them, chew with them, smile with them; they stand every test." And our guarantee tells the story of our earnestness.

OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR SUFFRAGE

President Receives 300 Women Leaders in the White House

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—With the opening of congress today, suffrage workers made the capital city the field of their activities in behalf of the Susan B. Anthony suffrage amendment to the constitution.

At 12:30 p. m. a great delegation of suffragists was welcomed in the rotunda of the capitol by the house and senate committees on suffrage, led by Senator Sutherland and Representative Mondell.

At 2 p. m. President Wilson received 300 suffrage leaders in the East room at the White House.

The campaign for the Anthony amendment will be planned at the week's session of the Advisory Council and the Woman Voters' convention, beginning Wednesday.

Today's reception marked the arrival in Washington of Mrs. Sara Bard Field and Miss Frances Joliffe, from San Francisco, by motor, bearing the 600,000-signature petition asking congress to pass the suffrage amendment.

The two were met by representatives from congressional union headquarters and local suffragists in cavalry, infantry and motor divisions.

The procession went to the East steps of the capitol. Senator Sutherland and Representative Mondell there received the petition and spoke briefly.

The two women travelers replied.

CAR COLLIDES WITH AUTO; BOY BADLY INJURED

Willie Smith, 16, 909 North 72nd st., is in a precarious condition from a possible fracture of the skull, following a collision at 11:45 a. m. between a Capitol Hill car and a delivery auto at North 14th st. and East Olive st.

Two other boys, who were also in the auto, Martin Merick, 15, and Wm. Scheurman, 18, escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

The auto belonged to the Frederick & Nelson company. It was all smashed up.

The motorman, I. A. Benedict, says he saw the auto heading toward him two or three blocks away at a terrific speed. He reversed his car, but he says, when he saw the boys did not intend to swerve from the track.

REV. M'CULLOUGH LOOKS LIKE A "GOOD SCOUT," SAY REPORTERS; HE SURE MAKES HIS FLOCK MIX

Sunday night a Star reporter visited the Tabernacle Baptist church, and here he tells what he saw and heard. It is the seventh in a series of winter church talks appearing every Monday in The Star. Read it.

"To strangers and friends: We are glad to have you with us. If this is your first visit, we hope it will not be your last. If you are a stranger, we desire your acquaintance. If without a church home, we extend you this one, with free seats, a simple gospel, a true fellowship and a cordial welcome."

This is the welcome accorded all comers at the Tabernacle Baptist church, another of the snug community churches, which radiates hospitality to worshippers on Sunday from the corner of 15th ave. N. and Harrison st., in the Capitol Hill district.

Rev. Robert W. MacCullough, the pastor, is a Scotchman, but of a different mold from Rev. Hugh Ross, of the Plymouth Congregational. There is no snare drum effect when the Tabernacle pastor pronounces his "r's," like you hear from Rev. Ross. Rev. MacCullough dispenses a broad dialect of the sort you hear from Sheriff Bob Hodge.

Looks Like a Good Scout

Like Rev. Ross, however, he is of a decidedly theological cast. He has a high, intellectual forehead and twinkling eyes. His forehead is higher than it used to be. It extends well beyond his crown before it loses itself in the retreating suburbs of his hair.

He looks like a good scout and is an entertaining talker.

Prof. Clifford Tentner, the organist, wears his hair long and bushy, like Dr. Matthews. He wears an artist's bow tie and an artistic coat. He looks like a young edition of David Warfield. He is a good organist. He skips up and down over the keys in all sorts of variations.

You'll Like the Singing

In the choir are five women and three men. The women sit between the pipes of the organ and the keyboard, but the men, fearful of the organ draft or of the women, sit off by themselves. It is a good choir, with sweet, tuneful voices, but the Star believes the men should not stand so aloof from the ladies. Closer harmony would result from more compact mobilization.

You will like the singing at the Tabernacle church. They sing old-fashioned songs, and everybody opens his mouth and "let's 'er go," so that it reminds you of a fresh wind sweeping off the ocean. "Rescue the Perishing, Care for the Dying," and "Yield Not to Temptation" were two of several old stand-bys that were sung Sunday night.

The services are of the good, simple sort you used to know "back home."

The organ prelude was followed by several hymns sung in succession, then a prayer, then the anthem, then the collection, followed by announcements; scripture reading, another hymn, then the sermon, which closed with a prayer.

"Let us have some testimony now," suggested the pastor after the sermon; and one after another of the flock arose and told how they had been converted.

Makes His Flock Mix

The pastor took no chances of any of the congregation escaping. He assigned them to the singing of a lengthy hymn, and then, with Bible in hand, he walked up and down the aisles, shaking hands with strangers and slapping the regular comers on the back—good, hard slaps they were, too. He has the most thorough way of making his flock mix you ever heard of.

"Everybody who believes in paying his honest debts shake hands with himself and with his neighbor," he commanded. And, of course, everybody shook.

The sermon was on "The Man I Ought to Marry."

Talks of Marriage

"Marriage is a physical, spiritual, mental union of two loving hearts," he said. "The state, the minister, cannot marry them. Love is the basis of all marriage. Some people marry for money. Some people con-

PRAY FOR PRESIDENT WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—While scores were in line at the White House today to shake hands with President Wilson, two representatives of the Society of Friends (Quakers), with bowed heads, prayed that he would allow a "higher power to settle the question of whether this country should lay itself open to the horrors of war."

The president thanked them and the line moved on.
