Thin Men and Women

Here's a Safe and Easy Way by Which You May Gain 10 Pounds or More of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are fond of saying, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and thirsty for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the assimilatory canal to quickly filter out the food. A splendid way of working to overcome this sinful waste of the body is to take Sargol.

The famous flesh building agent that has been so widely sold in America in recent years. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal, and see if your cheeks don't quickly fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh form over your body, covering each bony point and giving you a new, more pleasing appearance.

NOTE—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder, and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported, care should be taken in using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

Safety First

Indigestion, constipation, biliousness and many ailments of the digestive organs are often the source of serious illness. At the first sign of disordered conditions take the reliable family remedy that is always dependable—

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can make a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost. If you get from your druggist a package of canthar and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and rub briskly. This creates an abundance of thick, white lather that thoroughly dissolves and removes the dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing the hair dries quickly, with a softness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.

BRITISH CABINET ABOUT TO FALL

Conscription Question Tears Country Asunder and Many Rumors Are Rife

ASQUITH IS HOPEFUL

LONDON, April 19.—Predicting national disaster unless the British cabinet comes to an agreement on the conscription issue, Premier Herbert Asquith today proposed adjournment of the house of commons until Tuesday. He said he hoped to effect an agreement with regard to conscription in a few days.

Asquith informed the house of commons that several points of disagreement in the cabinet had not been cleared up by the series of conferences just ended. If they are not settled, the result will be a breaking up of the ministry, he admitted.

"The cabinet," said Asquith, "is united in the belief that this would be a national disaster. I am hoping that wise counsel will yet prevail."

Sensational rumors had it that David Lloyd-George, minister of munitions, other ministers and Earl Kitchener, as well as other military heads, had threatened to resign unless Asquith yielded to their demand for immediate general conscription. These reports were discounted by rumors that the opposing factions had compromised during the night.

The capture of Trebizond by the Russians and reports that the United States was about to break with Germany were used as arguments against any course that might threaten Great Britain's position in the eyes of the world. The allied economic conference, which opens in Paris tomorrow, also was cited in an effort to avert the threatened breaking up of the ministry.

GERMAN AGENT'S DOCUMENTS PHOTOGRAPHED BY THE U. S.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The arrest Tuesday of Wolf Von Igel, formerly secretary to Capt. Von Pappen of the German embassy, and the seizure of papers in his Wall street office, were reported today to have revealed new information concerning bomb plots of an international aspect second in importance only to the submarine issue.

It is said German Ambassador Von Bernstorff has laid the matter of Von Igel's arrest before Foreign Minister Von Jagow in Berlin.

Secretary Lansing is being kept informed concerning local moves in the situation.

Bernstorff is said to be very anxious to recover the seized documents. He has demanded that they not be photographed and that they be returned to Von Igel immediately.

The papers are still in the U. S. district attorney's hands in New York, and they have been both photographed and copied.

THEDA BARA HAS GREAT AMBITION

Would Like to Be Tragedienne on Speaking Stage, She Says

LONGS FOR NEW FAME

Theda Bara
BY THEDA BARA
Written Especially for The Star

Sometimes, when I am almost exhausted after an unusually strenuous scene, I wonder why I should exert myself so horribly. I am successful. I am more widely known on the screen than any other person. Why can't I let down for a while and just skim over my work? Then I pull myself up with a start. I realize that my vision has suddenly become short-sighted; that, no matter what I am today, no one can tell what I will be tomorrow. Surely not if I slack up.

And I have ambitions. This work is just my severe training school, a groundwork upon which I intend to build a structure that will be lasting.

I want to be a tragedienne on the speaking stage. And sometimes, when my director is very profuse in his praise, I am saying to myself: "You could have done it so much better. Why didn't you?"

I like to be praised, of course. We all do, even the we are not frank enough to confess it. But praise doesn't influence my appreciation of myself. I know when I have given my best. I despise myself when I fail to live up to the standard I have set.

I have read the biographies of most of the great artists in all professions—composers, singers, painters, actors and actresses. Their struggles are inspiring to read of, but they must have been torturing to live thru. When they did attain the heights, much of the radiance was dimmed by the horrible sacrifices and privations which they had gone thru.

Then there are the others, whose fame became world-wide long after their poor bodies were marbled cold. The irony of it! The wonderful brain that conceived the masterworks, petrified. The heart that throbbed and bled at renowned successes, lifeless. And the lips silent forever.

That is what I am fighting against. I am going to fight to the last ditch to make my fame echo to the four points of the compass while I am still alive and young enough to enjoy it.

They have said to me: "Give too much in the beginning, and you won't be able to live up to the standard." But I laugh at them. I am working things out in my own way, and if they go wrong I have no one but myself to blame for it. I am giving as much as there is in me to give. And each day I am giving more than I did the day before. I don't want to acquire fame on a fluke of fate.

PEOPLE OPPOSE GRADE CROSSING

Citizens of the Fourteenth ward, at a meeting Tuesday night at the Fauntleroy Gate-wood Improvement club, in West Seattle, decided to organize for a demand that the street car tracks on Spokane ave. be elevated over the railroad crossing where the fatal wreck between an O.W. train and an Alki car occurred last week.

Mass meetings will be held thru-out the district, and petitions addressed to the city council, asking that the matter of elevating the tracks be taken up in conference with the railroad.

It is declared that travel could be made safer and service quickened by at least ten minutes by such an improvement.

The public service commission is contemplating ordering the installation of gates at the crossing. The committee has continued its hearing on the Alki car collision until Monday.

It was learned that the Milwaukee system owned the tracks over which the O.W. freight was rolling when it collided with the street car and killed one woman, last week.

FIGHTS BURGLAR IN DARK STORE

Groceryman Nearly Burned to Death After Gun Duel.

LAMP STARTS A BLAZE

Knocked down by a burglar whom he had cornered in his grocery store at midnight Tuesday, a revolver duel, Tom Rackler, 601 W. 55th st., barely escaped death when the flames from the lamp he had held fired the place.

His wife and four children, living in an apartment above the store, were trapped by the flames, but managed to escape with their lives.

The store, with its stock of groceries, and the little home above, were a total loss.

Rackler heard the noise made by the burglar as he ransacked the storeroom.

Taking a gun he made his way from upstairs to the door, and, as he held the lamp over his head, peered into the storeroom.

The blaze of gun fire flashed as both men fired.

There was a rush and a quick blow.

Rackler crumpled to the floor: The lamp fell at his side.

He managed to crawl out before the flames, which spread rapidly, blocked his way.

The little frame building burned like kindling.

The wife carried her four children out of the store.

The building was owned by W. H. Riley.

AGAIN DEMANDS U. S. WITHDRAW

Ambassador Presents Formal Note Today; Gen. Scott Leaves for Border.

VILLA FATE UNKNOWN

MEXICO CITY, April 19.—Ambassador Arrendondo, in Washington, has been instructed to demand withdrawal of the American expedition on the ground that the Villistas have been broken up. It was officially stated today.

It was not indicated whether new demands had been made or whether this was merely the official interpretation of the recent Carranza request.

CHIEF OF STAFF LEAVES FOR BORDER TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Gen. Hugh Scott, chief of staff, is leaving tonight to spend several days with Gen. Funston and canvass the Mexican situation.

Secretary of War Baker requested that Scott make the trip for the purpose of getting accurate information as to the situation of the use of the war department. Funston remains in full charge of the expedition and retains the full confidence of the war department, Baker said.

It is believed that Gen. Scott's journey arises from disquieting reports that Gen. Funston forwarded bearing on the situation of Gen. Pershing's men around Parral.

PAT MAKES A SURPRISING REQUEST

I was rather surprised yesterday afternoon when Pat's name was announced. He has never been to see me since I met with my accident.

I knew he had not come simply to see me in my own home, and while I was waiting for Alice, my dear little nurse, to bring him in, I wondered idly what his visit portended.

Staggered, isn't it, little book, how one's mind will fly off in the realms of speculation over the very things that it knows will be settled for it in a minute or two?

Often when I get a letter with an unfamiliar postmark on it, I turn it over and over and try to guess who has written it.

But as wild as were my many conjectures, not one of them came anywhere near the matter on which Pat wanted to talk to me.

You know, little book, Pat is one of the dearest of fellows, but he has never gotten over a certain shyness which makes him appear at times very ill at ease. When he came to my bed to shake hands I noticed his hands were cold, and I began to think that something terrible had happened.

However, we began to talk of the lovely spring day and the hope that I was getting better and other conventional things, and I began to get rather impatient. You see, little book, while I was very glad Pat had come, I knew something he considered of importance had brought him.

"Did you know Mollie and Chad were coming back?" I asked.

"Yes, Chad wrote me that he was sailing on the — and expected me to meet him at the pier looking as happy as he felt at the thought of getting home again."

Pat's face was inscrutable. I could not tell whether he was unhappy or happy at the thought of seeing Mollie again, but one thing I did have answered, and that was that what had brought him to see me did not concern Mollie and Chad.

At last he spoke. "How do you intend to pass the time you will be compelled to stay in bed, Margie?"

"I expect I shall just let it pass me," I answered.

"But you must have something to take up your attention, or the first thing you know Time will be passing you out into eternity."

"That wouldn't be the worst thing that could happen me, Pat?"

"Perhaps it would not be the worst, but I am sure it would be very bad for your friends."

I looked at him gratefully. It was kind of dear old Pat to comfort me.

"The only way I can see where I can be of use to any one," I said bitterly, "is to make him thank his stars that my affliction did not come to him."

Pat looked pained. "Oh, yes, Pat, I'm human, very human, and I defy any one to bear my burden uncomplainingly all the time."

"That's just it," said Pat. "You are, to me, one of the most human women I have ever known. You never have set yourself up for a paragon. I wondered what he would say if he had become acquainted with you, little book. You have not arrogated to yourself impossible virtues or impossible intellectual attainments. You have a wonderful perception and analytical powers that you seem to have raised to the nth degree. Above all, you have a certain sense of humor which makes you able to laugh with yourself and at yourself."

"I'd get up and court you very, very hard, if I were able—but instead I'm going to ask you what you want. No man ever gave a woman such a compliment as that, without expecting to be paid in some way."

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, figs. Have you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

CONSTRUCTION BEGINS ON $24,000,000 DAM SYSTEM

DAYTON, O., April 19.—Construction work was under way today on the great engineering project for flood prevention in the Miami valley to prevent a repetition of the disastrous floods of 1913, which caused millions of dollars' damage and claimed several hundred lives.

Five mammoth detention basins, large enough to hold back the cost of a flood in per cent greater than the devastating flood of three years ago, are being erected. The cost of materials will be about $21,000,000.

There will be five large dams at crucial points. The highest, at Englewood, will rise 120 feet above the surrounding country; the lowest will be 65 feet high, and all 25 feet across the top.

It is expected that the work will be completed in three years.

Enough steel will be used to build a 16-story skyscraper, enough concrete to build a column ten feet square and 13 miles high, excavate tion enough for more than 3,000 miles of trenches, and enough embankment to fill a train of cars reaching from New York to San Francisco.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications, all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.

BISURATED MAGNESIA

Neutralizes excess acid; instantly relieves indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour stomach, etc. One teaspoonful in a little water after eating. Pleasant, wholesome, laxative; at all druggists everywhere in either powder or tablet form.
