SEATTLE MAN UNDER CHARGES

John A. Kingsbury Indicted in N. Y. Wiretapping Cases

MAYOR DEFENDS HIM

NEW YORK, May 24.—John A. Kingsbury, city commissioner of charities, and William H. Hotchkiss, special counsel for the charities department, are under indictment today in connection with the tapping of telephone wires by city officials. They gave bail in $1,000 each.

Their indictment in the superior court at Brooklyn has aroused the anger of Mayor Mitchell, who denounced some of his "co-religionists" for pressing the charges against the city officials.

The mayor was a witness before the grand jury and made the assertion that there was "an absolute conspiracy on the part of Dr. D. C. Potter, Rev. William B. Farrell and several priests to obstruct justice and coach witnesses as to what to say, and to keep others out of the jurisdiction of the investigators."

The investigators referred to by the mayor are the members of the Strong legislative committee, which undertook a survey of all charity institutions.

City officials "tapped" the telephone wires of some Roman Catholic institutions.

John A. Kingsbury, charity commissioner, indicted in New York, is a former Seattle man.

He worked his way thru the University of Washington, taught school here, and later was principal of one of the grammar schools.

A keen student, he became interested in sociological work and went to New York.

For the past five years Kingsbury has been actively in the New York city service, and for the past two years has been commissioner of charities.

ZEP RAIDS RAPPED BY THE HUNGARIANS

ZURICH, Switzerland, May 24.—Hungarians disapprove of Germany's Zeppelin campaign. They object to it both on grounds of humanity and for what they consider its uselessness.

Newspapers received here from the most important cities in Hungary are almost unanimous in deprecating such methods.

"By striking terror into the people of England," says the Hiriap, commenting on Zeppelin activities, "it is thought that the government will suffer, but, as we can now see clearly, the raids do not serve the purpose they were intended for, and only result in the annihilation of civilians."

The Prester Lloyd and the Az Usaj are exceptions. Both are strongly pro-German, and express themselves concerning air raiding much as does the Berlin press.

MME. RAPPOLD WILL BE HEARD HERE SOON

COPPER AS 'PEACE BABY' LEAPS INTO SUDDEN FAME THRU THE ELECTRIFICATION OF MOUNTAIN RAILWAY

Electric train of Milwaukee railroad, prophetic of a new big copper market in the United States

In the wild scramble to crown "war babies" with gold in Wall St., some lusty "peace babies" are being sadly neglected.

The electrification of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway's mountain division, recently completed, offers the cue.

In constructing the electric unit between Avery, Idaho, and Harlowton, Mont., a distance of 440 miles, MORE COPPER WAS USED THAN HAS THIS FAR BEEN CONTRIBUTED BY THE UNITED STATES IN THE MANUFACTURE OF WAR MUNITIONS FOR EUROPE!

Battles made copper a prize "war baby."

But as a "war baby" it has not yet reached the fifth, from point of metal output, that put it up to ward the head of the "peace baby" class.

Approximately 15 tons of copper per mile were used in the Milwaukee's electrified mountain section. At the present price of the metal this runs upward of $3,000,000.

The remarkable reduction of operating expenses resulting from this alteration, as well as other material advantages, will undoubtedly compel other transcontinental lines to follow suit.

A tremendous potential home market for copper seems ripe today for development by American industry, with very little apparent effort being made to cultivate it.

SKINNER LONGS TO BE A VILLAIN

Famous Actor Would Prefer to Play Iago Instead of Othello

DISLIKES HERO ROLES

Miss Enid Bennett, who will be seen with Otis Skinner at the Moore.

The last act of "Cock of the Walk," the comedy in which Otis Skinner will be seen at the Moore for three nights and a matinee, beginning Thursday night, takes place in the star-dressing room of a London theatre just before the curtain is to be rung up on a performance of "Othello." It is Anthony Belchamber's room and Mr. Skinner impersonates Belchamber. He is to be the Othello and he appears costumed and "made up" to go on.

It is a remarkable "make-up," and after every performance people may be heard discussing it as they leave the theatre and not infrequently some one will be heard to say how much he or she would like to see Mr. Skinner really play the jealous Moor.

That wish, however, is not to be gratified either in the near or in the distant future, for Mr. Skinner says the part has no appeal for him.

"I do hope to play Iago some day," he told an interviewer recently. "It is the villainous who interest me most on the stage. Perhaps I was imbued with the love of racally from my days with Ed. Booth. I remember well one night when we were playing 'Much Ado.' Mr. Booth was the Benedick, of course, and I was the Claudio. We came on the scene together and stood for a few minutes at the back of the stage waiting for Benedick to get his cue. As we stood there we always talked, and on this occasion Mr. Booth said, 'I hate Benedick. He is a lover, and I have always hated to play lovers. I love the villains.' Well, I, too, love the villains!"

ENGLISH DO NOT FAVOR WILSON

ADMIRAL IS POPULAR

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, May 8.—(By Mail)—The best cheered man in England is Sir John Jellicoe.

The silent little admiral who sits on the British navy lid is today England's most popular hero.

This message comes from the British movie theatres, a reliable barometer of public sentiment.

Lord Jellicoe's face on the screen always get "a hand."

Sir John French is sometimes cheered.

President Wilson and American notables are greeted silently.

But sit in any British movie theatre and let the operator throw the strong, prominent nose of Sir John Jellicoe on the balsamine, and the tumult of hand clapping and cheering rolls forth from stalls to gallery.

Jellicoe is a Sphinx—the mystery admiral. He has established a reputation for deeds and not words. In his face is action, determination, lightning decision, self control and wisdom.

Nowhere outside the great walls of the Admiralty building in Whitehall is anything known of Jellicoe at present. Here the slender strings of wireless antennae swing over the building connect with the aerials on Jellicoe's ship "somewhere in the North sea," where he is waiting for the Germans to come out, superintending the naval blockade and always adjusting the final twist of preparedness which has kept England from sharing the fate of Belgium, Poland and Serbia.

Ordinary British folk who go to movie theatres and never share the secrets of the admiralty wireless have learned to connect the name of Jellicoe with the security they enjoy at home. So every time his face appears they cheer it wildly.

FIRST PUBLIC concert of Press club glee club given Tuesday night. Big success.

NELMS SISTERS WORKED HERE?

Restaurant Owner Says Waitresses Resembled Picture of Missing Women

TENNANT IGNORED TIP

Belief that Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., worked as a waitress in the St. Germain bakery, 409 Pike st., after she and her sister, Miss Beatrice Nelms, were thought to have been murdered, was expressed Wednesday by Mrs. Margaret St. Germain.

"During the latter part of June, 1914," said Mrs. St. Germain, "a girl named Nellie worked for us."

"Three days after she started, The Star printed the pictures of the missing Nelms sisters.

"The likeness was so striking between Nellie and the photo of Mrs. Dennis that I called Mrs. F. A. Lacy, then of the Seattle Employment agency, on the phone.

"Mrs. Lacy had procured Nellie for the position in the bakery. She said she, too, had noticed the similarity and called my attention to another fact that clinched my belief.

"She told me Nellie had a sister named Beatrice, who was then working in a Third ave. restaurant. The picture of Beatrice Nelms, she said, resembled Nellie's sister even more than the picture of Mrs. Dennis did Nellie."

Mrs. St. Germain reported the matter to Capt. Tennant, chief of detectives, she said, but Tennant made no effort to ascertain whether the sisters were really the missing women.

When Mrs. St. Germain remarked to Nellie that she looked like the picture of Mrs. Dennis, the young woman, who answered closely the description of the missing girl, Nellie is said to have declared:

"I have heard enough of that. I don't care to hear more. Please let the matter rest."

Neither Mrs. Lacy nor Mrs. St. Germain could recall the surname of either of the sisters employed there. Both young women left their positions that week, without notice to their employers and without calling for their money.

SUSPECT IS HELD IN JENNINGS MURDER

PORTLAND, May 24.—Unable to find a clue which points to anybody else, detectives today began weaving their circumstantial evidence about Ernest Thompson, held in jail at Hillsboro in connection with the brutal murder of Mrs. Helen C. Jennings ten days ago.

The search for the body of Fred Ristman, the jitney driver who drove the supposed murderer to Mrs. Jennings' home, was resumed today. A jitney driver yesterday pointed to Thompson in a group of other prisoners and said he was "morally certain" that Thompson was the man who rode away with Ristman Monday night, May 15.

COURTS WOULDN'T BE HALF GLOOMY THEN
