

92-POUND GIRL DROPS 1,400 FEET FROM PLANE WITH PARACHUTE

IT TAKES a lot of nerve to break into just an ordinary job such as keeping books or pulling telephone plugs or transposing shorthand notes—especially if you are a young woman.

But it takes a whole lot more courage to jump from an airplane 1,400 feet from the ground for the first time, like Miss Ruby Rutledge did Monday afternoon on Harbor Island.

Miss Rutledge made good at her new job. For two years this 92-pound bit of femininity has been aeroplaning, but aeroplaning is ceasing to thrill as it once did.

Quite Progressive! Being progressive, Miss Rutledge decided to try a new line, consisting of a simple little drop with a parachute from an airplane traveling 60 miles an hour.

"Tiny" Rutledge had never dropped from an airplane before. So she would have been perfectly justifiable in feeling just a little bit concerned.

But she didn't. Seated in front of the hangar at Harbor Island before the flight, this little bundle of grit smiled and chatted about everything except the stunt she was about to perform.

When asked if she wasn't a bit nervous, she answered her questioner with a smile that such was not the case.

Success Her only Thought "You see, I never think about anything but success. If this first drop of mine is successful, why, it is successful, and if it is not a success, why, I won't be here to know about it, that's all."

Her smile was not a boastful one. There was no grandstanding in her tone.

"Isn't there anything that will make you give up flying and taking chances?" "No, I like it, and intend to stick with it."

MISS RUBY RUTLEDGE

Seeing the interest it aroused, she repeated that there was nothing that would make her give up her chosen career.

Some Sage Advice At this juncture Charles Broadwick, aviator veteran of 25 years of high altitude work, and inventor of the safety parachute used by "Tiny," butted in.

"A woman never lasts more than seven years at the game," he moaned.

"They become domesticated, and then—good night."

There might have been more of this, but Lieut. Terah T. Maroney grew impatient to fly.

With a true feminine touch Miss Rutledge adjusted her flying cap and tucked away a stray strand of hair.

Showed No Concern As far as she knew, the subsequent few minutes might be her last alive, but that did not hinder her from taking one last peep into a mirror hanging in the hangar.

She left in the rear of the big Curtis engine with a smile on her face. It was a matter of a few minutes before she was circling high over Elliott bay.

A lounge observed that probably her heart was as near to standing still as it ever would be.

A black dot dropped from the machine, and 100 feet below opened into a mass of white silk, and "Tiny" floated to earth.

She landed plump in a heap in the soft sand of the island and began laughing. She had made good.

In her excitement she attempted to describe her sensations, but the nearest she got was a series of giggles, punctuated with little hops and hand-clapping.

"It's great, it's—anyway, it has just plain flying cheated to death."

And there's not the slightest doubt that Miss Rutledge will stick to the game now.

Landed in Soft Sand She wanted to go up again, but Aviator Maroney figured she needed one more square meal.

The girl who is to electrify thousands with her daring jumps sank into a hangar chair, for it had been an ordeal, after all.

"I know now what to expect," she said.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughing at an account of your fat, but go to Bartell Drug Co. or any good druggist and get a box of Oil of Koresin capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless, and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

BONEHEAD STUNT BY FEDERAL EMPLOYE
There is one employe of the Alaska Engineering commission, evidently possessed of an exaggerated idea of his importance, who is far from being a favorite with several applicants for jobs on the government railway.
Early Tuesday morning, a number of applicants appeared at the Bell st. dock and took their places in front of the door, where other applicants had been examined Monday.
When this employe arrived, they asked him if that was the right place. He refused to answer. Later, it developed another door was the correct one—and in the meantime, these seekers for work had lost their chance to get in the right line, altho they had been the first to arrive that morning.

CENTER SHOTS FROM GOV. HENRY M'BRIDE'S SPEECH

There were no backstairs to the governor's office when I held it before. There will be none if I am elected again. Nor will there be any hidden hand to dictate the acts of the governor.

"The saloon is gone, and it is well that it is so. It faced defeat and went down to it in 1904 rather than surrender what I believed to be right, and I am prepared to do so again if need be."

"There is need for social and industrial betterment, and I rejoice in the fact that the votes of women in this state have added materially, and will continue to do so, in the fight for a happier humanity."

Greeted by the biggest audience at any candidate's rally in the present campaign, Henry McBride, former governor, candidate for re-nomination, found a warm response to his declaration of independence of any bossism, when time and again his remarks at Fremont hall, Monday night, were interrupted by spontaneous applause. Approximately 400 attended the meeting. It was Gov. McBride's introductory speech of the campaign in the North End. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Ninth Ward Republican club, and other candidates who spoke were: W. M. Whitney, for coroner; Dr. C. C. Tiffin, for coroner; Dr. J. A. Ghent, for coroner; Dr. W. H. Corson, for coroner; Charles H. Miller, for judge; Percy Thomas, for clerk; Henry Odom, for auditor.

"Charles E. Hughes has gathered in his campaign committee both progressive and regular," said McBride, "and the nation approves the step to reunite the party. I have done the same, but what is considered a virtue in Hughes has been hinted at as a vice in me by a certain newspaper."

"The same newspaper bitterly contested the fight I made as governor for a railway commission, the abolition of the railway passes, an equal burden of taxation with individuals, and other progressive legislation."

"I am conducting my campaign in the open and in broad daylight. I have made no promises of patronage to any one, nor will I. All appointments will be made strictly on the basis of efficiency."

Whitney asked several terms in his address before the Ninth Ward Republican club, W. M. Whitney, candidate for congress, severely scored President Wilson's policies. He also emphasized the fact that he never "wobbled," but always was a regular republican.

As to his claims for congressional honors, Whitney said he was responsible for important legislation in this state—namely, the new registration law and a bill amending the direct primary law by reserving a modified form of political conventions. This last measure has been placed under referendum by 52,000 voters who protested against it.

Whitney offered himself for life service in congress. He said a young man should be sent there so that the community can elect him again and again for many years.

The South District league backing Herman Nelson for county commissioner, has opened headquarters in 216 Pioneer building, telephone Elliott 1287.

Nelson, who is a farmer at Orillia and never ran for office before, spoke at Fremont Monday night. "I have no political strings on me," he said. "I don't have to load the county payroll to keep up a political machine. I shall be free to give the county service—and keep low expenses for useless jobs and supplies."

The supreme court has ruled against the application of Bruce Rogers for a place as socialist candidate for senator on the primary ballot. Because the party failed to get 10 per cent of the total vote two years ago, it loses its standing as a primary party.

Vice Governor Henderson S. Martin of the Philippines will speak at the Arena, University and Fifth ave., Tuesday night. He will urge the re-election of President Wilson.

Henry Aloers McLeand, progressive candidate for congress in 1912, and C. J. France, also a leading progressive, will be on the platform. They are to announce their allegiance to Wilson.

The Women's Roosevelt-Hughes club will hold its "mixer" at the Press club Tuesday night.

Dr. Albert Lessing has withdrawn from the coroner's race in favor of Dr. Chas. C. Tiffin.

COPS NOW LOSE THE SALARY INCREASES
There will be no salary increases or new positions for city employes next year.
Altho a general increase had last week been granted to members of the police department, on motion of Councilman Dale, it was decided "not to take into consideration any salary increases of new positions."
Hesketh and Bolton voted against the motion.

NURSE JUMPS OFF TRAIN IN NIGHTIE
SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Aug. 1.—Railroad police and employes searched today between Pasadena and San Bernardino for Miss Agnes Hansen, 22, a nurse, who, to all appearances, slid from the window of her berth aboard a Santa Fe train, clad only in a night gown.
It is feared she may be seriously injured or dead. All her belongings, traveling bag and purse, were in the sleeping compartment and her clothing remained undisturbed. The screen from one window had been forced out. She was bound for Grand Rapids, Mich.
