

GILL TELLS OF LIQUOR RAIDS

Urges Election of Sheriff Who Will Get After the Billingsleys

INDORSED BY MEETING

Representatives of the Epworth League, Christian Endeavor and the Baptist Young People's Union, which have a membership of 5,000, heard Mayor Gill voice his stand on dry law enforcement and the water front strike situation Tuesday evening at the Good Eats cafeteria. Sergt. Putnam, in charge of the dry squad, explained the problems confronting his detail.

"It is up to the citizens to elect a sheriff and a prosecuting attorney who will go after the Billingsleys in the county," Mayor Gill said. "They have opened up at Renton now."

He said he had promised the voters to enforce the dry law, and was keeping his word, despite criticisms.

"Some of our supposedly good citizens are in the whiskey business," he said, "retailing a $2.50 product for $15. We are not dealing with real men but with a combined aggregation of law breakers."

Speaking of breaking up the bootleggers' fixtures, he said: "I am doing no more than I have a right to do, because a public nuisance can be abated with an ax."

Little weekly publications taking money from the liquor people, he said, were responsible for the false articles on the dry situation which are being circulated thru the country.

He gave credit to the city council for co-operating.

Referring to the water front strike, the mayor said he considered himself fortunate that there were no nervous disorders.

CALORIES! THESE MAY DECIDE WAR! NOT ENOUGH IN GERMANY

(This is the second of a series of articles from The Star special correspondent, who is touring Europe to describe conditions that will bear on the final peace terms.—Editor.)

BY CHAS. EDWARD RUSSELL, Noted American Sociologist, Touring Europe for The Star

THE HAGUE, Holland, July 25.—(By Mail)—The news reports always say that this is a war of artillery, shells and trenches. No doubt. But it is just as much a war of wages and of stomachs.

Just as much, and I guess it is more. So far, artillery, shells and trenches can't be said to have settled anything, but in Germany, anyway, wages and stomachs are settling things with considerable rapidity.

Wages, stomachs and calories. That's a great thing—calories. Calories are bossing the job.

With reason or without it, all about Europe the cost of living has been soaring and soaring. Wherever that happens, it is the workers and their families who get squeezed.

They fight the wars, pay for the wars and starve for the wars. That is the bitter truth of the case.

Persons who have moderate to large salaries or incomes never really get pinched when the cost of living goes up. They utter the loud roar, but they are not vitally hit. With the workers it is a different story. They get the bulge and it hurts.

Unless there is a corresponding increase in wages.

Costs Climb 139 Per Cent In Great Britain the cost of living has increased 61 per cent in two years. In the same time, wages have increased, it is estimated, an average of 42 per cent. But many wages have much exceeded that figure, and if you include the government's separation allowances, a vastly greater wage fund has been distributed than was ever known there before.

In Germany in the same time, the cost of living has increased 139 per cent. But because Germany's outside commerce has been paralyzed, her export and many other manufacturing plants, partly or wholly suspended and her allied industries crippled, there has been less instead of more demand for labor, and the average increase of wages has been slight.

Very few working people are better fed because of the war; millions are worse fed.

Shy of Calories THE AVERAGE POORER CLASS GERMAN IS NOW BEGINNING, FOR THE FIRST TIME, TO SHOW PLAINLY THE SIGNS OF A DIMINISHED DIET—show it in face and in girth.

That is to say, he is shy of calories. In July many municipalities began to feed the poorer people at public expense, and thus a large part of the nation was getting its meals, such as they were, at municipal kitchens. More than a year it had been to a great extent on rations—that is, all the poor had been. The rich could always get enough, and can now.

These rations and the municipal meals are calculated on the basis of 2,200 calories a day for each adult.

But your scientists long ago determined 2,400 calories a day to be the minimum for normal life.

In Great Britain the present average consumption is said to be 4,000 calories a day.

Workers Want Peace So the German worker is shy 200 a day of the minimum supply and probably 1,800 a day of the amount, the more fortunate British workers get.

THE GERMAN GOVERNING CLASSES ARE STILL KEEN FOR WAR; THEY HAVE PLENTY OF CALORIES. Millions of German workers are dead weary of war and are beginning to demand peace.

In the last month there have been menacing outbreaks in Berlin (two), Munich (three), Coblenz, Brunswick, Osnabruck, Magdeburg, Cologne (two), Aachen, and elsewhere. One that rather startled people was in the Berlin suburb of Charlottenburg.

Kaiser Roasted STILL MORE SIGNIFICANT ARE THE REVOLUTIONARY CIRCULARS AND APPEALS THAT IN SPITE OF THE POLICE AND THE RIDERS, ARE BEING SCATTERED IN GREAT NUMBERS. I HAVE SEEN TWO OF THESE AND THEY ARE SIZZLING DOCUMENTS. ONE ROASTS THE GOVERNMENT AND THE OTHER (OMINOUS SIGN!) ROASTS THE KAISER.

Add now the fact that one peace demand of the allies is likely to be the retirement of the whole tribe of Hohenzollerns, and you can see us almost on the edge of huge changes.

I told you at the beginning to keep an eye on the workingman; and elsewhere. One that rather startled people was in the Berlin suburb of Charlottenburg.

The president has indicated he would sign the army bill as accepted by the conferees.

Lemon Pies for Hughes Being Made by Seattle N. P. Experts

Candidate Charles Evans Hughes, after he leaves St. Paul, en route to the Pacific coast, will have to watch out for his whiskers.

If he doesn't, they will get kummed up with lemon pie.

Dining Car Superintendent H. J. Titus and David Tobias, his chief lieutenant, of the Northern Pacific, arranged Wednesday to keep the Hughes party supplied with lemon pies and great big baked potatoes.

"The pies will bear Hughes' name," says Titus, "and will be the kind mother used to try to make."

The great big potatoes will be especially selected from a pile of heavyweights grown in Washington.

When the candidate reaches Seattle, he will be presented with a 100-pound fruit cake. It will have a sugar vine covered pillar at each corner, flying an American flag and a big sugar eagle in the center, with an electric illuminated flag in its talons.

HOUSE ACCEPTS HUGE ARMY BILL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The house today accepted the conferees' report on the army bill, appropriating $267,000,000 for national defense on land, and lowering the age of enlistment in regular army and National Guard from 21 to 18.

The law will empower the United States to enlist into military service boys under 21 without the consent of or against the protest of their parents.

The bill, if it becomes law, will permit boys of 18 to enlist in either the regular army or the guard.

Senator La Follette today drafted a bill which, he says, not only will prevent such enlistments, but which will make criminal a misrepresentation by recruiting officers in obtaining enlistments.

The president has indicated he would sign the army bill as accepted by the conferees.

GIRLS TO COMPETE AS BILL POSTERS

Can a woman post bills on a regular, honest-to-goodness billboard stand?

The wise woman says "Yea." It's a good bet that if a real bright woman starts out with the paste brush and gets a faint inkling of the how and why, she will beat the man out in a bill posting contest.

At the Ad club show in the Arena September 6, which is Exhibitors' night, there will be a struggle between four pretty girls with paste brushes, who will post on 12-sheet boards big type stands setting forth the glories of the suffragette's life, while four masculine daubers from amateur pasters' ranks will try hard to defeat them. Cash and silver cups will reward the winners.

BOOZE DETECTIVE IS BADLY BEATEN

When C. W. Olson, special investigator for the dry squad, tried to obtain evidence at a soft drink bar at 167 Washington st., he was conducted down a stairway and there beaten and disarmed, and his star ripped from his vest, Tuesday afternoon. D. Crona, who Olson said, attacked him, is under arrest.

Officer C. B. Peterson of the dry squad entered the basement when Olson failed to return and arrested Crona.

Later, John Cleoria, proprietor of the place, thru Attorney George Vanderveer, received a restraining order from Judge Gilliam to keep the mayor or chief from wrecking the place.

Here's Why Her Clothes Cost So Much This Season

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Here's why her clothes cost so much. This fall she asks for long, full skirts on her party gowns and dresses, and insists that $21-a-yard material be used.

It takes four yards and "up" to make a skirt of this kind, or $84 worth for "just the dress goods," which doesn't make the waist nor put on the trimmings.

That's why some women's dresses cost around $150. This deduction was brought out today when Chicago dress manufacturers showed their display at the Fall Style Show of Chicago-made garments at the Grand Gardens. Dress manufacturers vied with each other to display the most costly material in their dresses. Buyers agreed that all had succeeded.

The war has made costly materials more costly, say manufacturers, because these kinds are imported goods.
