HAMILTON AND KNUDSON MEET IN SECRET, AND PUT OVER LEE-WHITNEY ELECTION BOARDS

It's one thing after another in the Lee-Whitney political "frame-up." The "ring" was caught, a few days ago, by five candidates for governor in an attempt to fix up the voting machines so as to favor Lee, Whitney and Humphrey. And now comes the appointment of election officials. Friday afternoon and part of the evening, County Commissioners Hamilton and Knudson, and their political allies, Frank Paul and Jack Kalloran, and County Chairman Horr met in secret session. County Commissioner Carrigan was not allowed in. He was not notified of the meeting, for fear that, as an independent man, he would expose the frame-up. The secret session appointed the election officials for the coming primaries—and it is plainly a Lee-Whitney affair. Secretary Ryan, of the democratic committee, further charges that even the democratic appointees were chosen from a list prepared by Would-Be Boss George Murphy, instead of in the regular way.

M'BRIDE WILL FINISH UP HERE

Former Gov. Henry McBride of Seattle, independent candidate for governor, will close the campaign with a series of meetings this week in King county. McBride has been in every part of the state. His experience as governor, and the fact that through the state it is known that "his word is good" has made him, probably, the most formidable candidate among the eight. His meetings in King county this week will be as follows: Tuesday, Roosevelt-Hughes club meeting, Washington hotel, 2 p. m.; Vashon and Burton in the evening; Wednesday, 2:30 p. m., Arcade hall, Women's Hughes club; Duwamish and Foster in evening; Thursday, Green Lake and Ottman's Hall; Friday, Women's alliance, afternoon; Renton and Rainier Beach in the evening; Saturday, Rose hall, Bothell.

WILL NAME SHANNON

Dr. W. H. Corson, candidate for coroner, has announced that, if elected, he will appoint Dr. Chas. D. Shannon as his deputy. Dr. Shannon is the son of Dr. James Shannon, and nephew of Dr. Will Shannon. He graduated two years ago from Georgetown university. He was born in Seattle.

MARGIE CONFESSES SHE TAKES COURAGE AFTER READING STUART'S LETTERS

For the first time in a year I sat up today! Mollie and Dick came this morning, both of them almost as excited as I was. When everything was ready, Dick would not allow any one to lift me but himself. When he picked me up he whispered, partly to me and partly to himself, "How light you are, Margie, you weigh almost like a feather." Then he set me down, oh, so carefully, in the soft invalid chair, and, to my great joy, I found I could sit up and move my legs and feet.

"Look, Dick," I exclaimed, as I lifted one of my legs and flexed my knee a little. "Oh, Dick, Dick, doesn't that seem as though some one had handed you a million dollars? Altho I am quite afraid to ask what that blessed doctor's bill was yet, I am sure that all my life I will go without any luxury to pay him."

"I, too, was a little afraid to ask for the great surgeon's bill, Margie," said Dick, "but yesterday he sent it, and, much to my surprise, it was only a thousand dollars! When I went to pay him I told him I expected his services would have cost more. 'But you see,' he said, 'I came here on my vacation, and part of the recompense for the operation may be a soap to my vanity in showing your splendid surgeons a new way to help suffering humanity.'"

"He tells me," continued Dick, "he has decided to stay in this country and start a hospital for children crippled by spinal diseases. I wonder, little book, if it were wrong not to have told Dick I had known Malcolm Stuart was going to do this. I don't know why I shrink from telling any one of the intimacy that has grown up between Mr. Stuart and me. Perhaps it is because, while I was ill, it was a kind of secret garden open to myself to refresh my soul. The letters are so different from any I have ever received from man or woman. They stir the idealistic side of my nature. The fanciful idea of the "little green god of dreams" and its utter loneliness until I should, after countless ages, find its other self, particularly appealed to me who has suffered from a kind of loneliness all my life, especially the last year. And, some way, little book, I shrink from letting any one see that bit of natterly put up in the prose poem which he called "Salvia." It was a description of the woman I should like to be. And the subtlest compliment was the fact that he saw the germ of courage in me, and encouraged it by making it bloom and hold up its head. Some people, little book, might say this is a question of right and wrong when I can only feel it is a question of temperament. It would hurt me inexpressibly if by chance some one would misunderstand Mr. Stuart's letters. I know they were written by a lonely man to a lonely woman—a woman who had no hope, and to whom a bolster for her courage was the greatest boon for her.

HA! HA! G. A. LEE WAS DEMOCRAT

What is probably the biggest joke in the whole campaign, has come to light through one other than the Yakima Republic, a "regular" republican newspaper. Col. W. W. Robertson, editor of that paper, is authority for the statement that the "regular" republicans have been sorely imposed upon when some one of them "hand-picked" George A. Lee, as candidate for governor. It was assumed by the "hand-pickers" that Lee was "regular," that he never "scratched" the republican ticket in his life; that he always voted the "straight ticket," and was as standpatty as the most reliable of the "old guard."

But now! The Yakima Republic says George A. Lee was a democrat in Nebraska before he came to this state. Lee went into public office almost as soon as he reached here. And with the exception of the past two years, he has been in public office, by appointment—never by election—all the time. He now claims Seattle as his residence. He has lived here since he became a candidate about two years ago. Before that, he lived in Spokane.

MILLER CHARGES "RING" DICTATION

John F. Miller, former mayor of Seattle, addressed two street meetings Saturday night, and in each he denounced the editor of a morning paper with preparing a slate of candidates to force down the throats of the people. Miller is a candidate for congress. He always belonged to the "regular" republican wing, but, in spite of this, he claims he and other candidates are being jolted by the "ring." While mentioning no names, Miller referred to the Whitney-Lee "ring."

JUDGE WEBSTER HERE

Judge Stanley Webster, of the superior court at Spokane, now a candidate for the supreme court, was in Seattle Saturday.

BRUNS FREE OF 'RING'

O. S. Bruns, candidate for county clerk, issued a formal statement today to the effect that he is free from all "ring" connections. He has served nine years in the office, holding all positions from recorder to chief clerk, and this, he claims, qualifies him for county clerk.

RECORD IS LUNDIN'S ANSWER TO DEBATE

Replying to a challenge to debate submitted by Frank E. Green, one of his opponents, Prosecuting Attorney Lundin issued the following statement: "The record of my office is a public record. We have, since January 1, instituted 193 prosecutions under the prohibition law. In 80 of these cases convictions have resulted; 12 defendants have been acquitted; 16 cases were dismissed prior to trial; and on 22 search warrants no liquor was found. The remaining cases, 69 in number, are pending. This record cannot be disputed. Discussion cannot change the facts, and any voter, from that record, can determine for himself whether my administration has been efficient. "Should I agree to meet the challenger in joint discussion, he would at once claim that I had conceded him to be my strongest opponent. I make no such concession. I have three other opponents, each of whom is as much in the race as the gentleman who, by his challenge, asks me to turn the spotlight in his direction."

MEDICOS TO MEET

The King County Medical society will resume its usual semi-monthly meetings Monday evening. All candidates for election to the legislature have been invited to attend this meeting, in order that they may express their views concerning medical legislation which will come up before the next session of the legislature.

REBISTRATION $6,575

The total registration in Seattle for the September primaries is $6,575. This is 5,244 less than two years ago, when the prohibition campaign was on, and 2,700 more than were registered four years ago.

The King county democratic central committee will celebrate the passage of the eight-hour law for railroad men at a meeting to be held Monday night at the Good Eats cafeteria. George F. Cotterill, James A. Duncan and T. P. Ledgewick, of Monterey, Mex., a leader of the liberal party, will speak.

Because the United States mails aren't working on Labor day, 1,000 invitations sent out to guests of the Women's King County Republican club will not reach them in time. The club is to hold a mixer, dance and social affair at the Washington hotel Tuesday afternoon.

FREDERICK & NELSON

A Word Concerning Jewelry Styles for Autumn

NOVELTY BEADS bid fair to become more the vogue than ever. Oriental colorings effectively combined with filigree metal beads will be very popular. Pearl Beads in opera-length necklaces are especially in demand in the larger sizes.

LAVALLIERES of sterling silver, set with rhinestones, colored jewels and enamels are offered in a wide selection of new and unusual designs.

NOVELTY RINGS or small Finger Rings, of sterling silver, gold and white gold, introduce many novel ideas in artistic settings, including some especially effective designs in black and white.

EARRINGS will still be extensively worn and in these there are a number of very attractive new designs.

LACE PINS or Bar Pins are among the most popular items in jewelry and are offered in stone set, pearl and enamel designs that are exceptionally pleasing, at a wide price range.

MESH BAGS signalize their return to fashionable favor with the introduction of some distinctively new designs in dainty, narrow-frame patterns, of sterling and German silver. The sketch at right shows one of these new Bags in sterling silver, with very fine, soft-draping "silk" mesh and plain, narrow frame. —First Floor.

The Rich Velvets, Satins and Woolens point the way to the new modes, and are a source of inspiration to those planning wardrobes for the new season.

A strong vogue is forecasted for Satins for daytime and evening wear. Satin Exposition, a soft, lustrous weave, in Orient-blue, amethyst, sapphire, blackberry, military-blue, Labrador-blue, seal-brown, Russian-green, Burgundy, navy and black, 36 inches wide, $2.50 yard.

Other Satins in the new colors, 36 inches wide, are priced at $1.75 and $2.00 yard.

Costume Velvets in beautiful street shades; plum, Belgium-blue, mat-brown, Burgundy, Russian-green, crows-blue, also black, 27 inches wide, $1.50 yard.

Pekin-striped Voiles for smart one-piece dresses, in both evening and street shades, 40 inches wide, $1.50 yard.

The new Plaid Woolens are in soft-toned French Serge, with over-bars of various colors, 48 inches wide, $1.50 yard.

Fancy Striped Woolens for skirts, with narrow and wide stripes on grounds of green, Belgium-blue, navy and black, sometimes used in combination with plain color, 54 inches wide, $2.00 yard.

New Plaid and Check Velours in a weight suitable for long coat or suit, 54 inches wide, $3.00 yard.

Fancy Tweed Suitings and Mixtures in brown, green, gray and blue, 54 inches wide, $2.00 to $3.50 yard. —First Floor.

Misses' School Frocks of Serge

QUITE in the mode, yet so sensible and serviceable are the new Serge Dresses for misses that they are unsurpassed for school wear.

In black or navy serge is the Dress pictured, with the wide belt adorned with two tiny pockets and trimmed with buttons at sides. Buttons outline the plaits which run the entire length of the dress in front and back and an over-collar of white corded silk finishes this simple frock. Price $15.00.

Another youthful model has cluster plaitings set on a yoke, and the slightly raised belt passes through the plaits. An over-collar of white silk messaline tops the sailor collar. Price $18.50. —Second Floor.

New Neckwear Fashions

FASHION provides abundantly with Neckwear for the new season, and sponsors the return of the lacy, fluffy things that have such a smartening effect on the simplest costume. For example:

Soft jabots attached to high shirred stocks of Oriental and Net-top laces and fine lace-trimmed and hand-embroidered nets.

High-neck Guimpes in plain and embroidered Georgette crepe and fine net, embroidered and lace-trimmed, with wide frills and jabots.

Tucks and gathers shape High-back Cape Collars to accommodate the new coat collars. Dainty hand-embroidery and laces are used for trimming.

Large Rolling Cape Collars of sheer organdy, hand-embroidered and lace-trimmed, and of washable satin.

Standing Collars of white satin with open V-front and lace side frills.

White Satin Stocks with wide flaring cape effect in back, and lace jabot.

White Broadcloth Collars in sailor and round shapes, with loop trimming, some hand-embroidered or in combination with Georgette Crepe. —First Floor.

The New Things in Art Needlework

A WHEAT design to be embroidered in three shades of brown is stamped on a new 36-inch Center-piece for finishing with white fringe. Price 85c.

New Centerpieces, Luncheon Cloths, Napkins and Scarfs are on display, stamped on white linen for Roman cut work, eyelet and solid embroidery.

Stamped Library Table Runner of ecru needleweave cloth, to be embroidered in colored cross-stitching and finished with fringe, 75c. New Square Pillow Top to be finished with fringe on all edges, 65c.

New Oblong Sofa Pillow of tan needleweave cloth, to be made up with crochet medallions on each end and in center. May be copied from finished model on display. Price 65c. —Second Floor.

Dreadnaught Suits, $5.00 With Two Pairs of Knickerbockers

—Second Floor.
