PURITY

A Masterpiece of Photoplay Art in Seven Marvelous Acts

A Remarkable and True Interpretation of the Beauty of Sculpture and the Feminine Form

The frank clearness of this picture will cause much comment on account of the many disappointments in the past by the suggestive treatment of nude in motion pictures.

There is nothing in Miss Munson's poses in the nude that should wound the sensibilities of even the most Puritanic person.

The posing of Miss Munson assumes the paramount interest, while the plot and action serve to make the poses acquire a real significance and to give them adequate dramatic setting.

The picture gives a new view of the motion picture as an art medium and marks a new era in the presentation of artistic film spectacles, says Augustus Lukeman, the world renowned sculptor.

ALLIES' DRIVE
BEATS GERMAN
VERDUN FIGHT

LONDON, Sept. 30.—In the first 13 weeks of the Somme offensive, the French and British have captured more ground than has been taken by the Germans in more than six months of battling at Verdun. A survey of the results of the great allied drive, halted temporarily yesterday by a terrific downpour of rain, shows that the allies have reconquered 285 square kilometers of French territory (about 29 square miles) exceeding by 15 kilometers the territory gained by the Germans at Verdun. Forty-five villages, each one organized into a veritable fortress by the Teutons, have fallen before the battering of French and British artillery. In every instance, the German position was so strong that it had to be broken down by shell fire before infantry could storm it. A total of 62,000 prisoners, 285 cannon, half of which are heavy artillery pieces and more than 1,000 machine guns have been taken. Everywhere from the Ancre to a point near Chaulnes, the German first, second and third lines are completely in the hands of the allies, who this week were rushing thru hastily constructed German trenches for great gains when bad weather halted operations.

MINERS WILL VOTE ON WAGE

Nearly 5,000 United Mine Workers of America, in district No. 10, will stop work Saturday night, while a general ballot is being taken on their attitude toward accepting latest offers of the operators in their controversy over wage increases. The decision to stop work pending a referendum vote was reached here Friday afternoon, when representatives convened at the Labor temple. District No. 10 includes all mine workers in the state of Washington. A 5 per cent wage increase has been asked, but operators have agreed only to raise the pay of certain classes of labor that high. Firemen and pumpmen, and others whose work is necessary for the safety of the mines during the suspension of operations, by agreement will stay in the mines pending the vote.

JIM HAM WINS BIG

was "sweating blood" in his effort to avoid a strike, which would have brought upon the nation untold misery, bankruptcy, and famine, not one word came from Judge Hughes nor from the other captains of the republican party—not one word to aid the president, the president as well as mine and yours—not one suggestion, not one voice of assistance. "Do nothing. Whatever the administration under President Wilson does, condemn." Lewis then read from a speech in congress by former President McKinley in 1890, in which he advocated the passage of a bill introduced by him, providing for an eight-hour day. It was proclaimed also in the progressive platform of 1912 and by Theodore Roosevelt, he said.

Lewis, time and again, appealed directly to the progressives to give fair hearing to the issues and to discount partisan platitudes. He took up the charge that the country is enjoying prosperity, but that it's "war prosperity."

Foreign Trade Increase
He quoted statistics to show that aside from all possible exports for war purposes of any kind, the United States foreign commerce has increased in the past three years by over a billion dollars over previous records.

"Now it's an economic fallacy that war, of itself, can bring prosperity," he said.

He cited the fact that the United States felt the greatest panic in its history in 1873 when only Germany and France were at war, and in 1907, the clearing house certificate panic was on, he said, as due to the Japanese-Russian war.

Regarding the tariff, he said that a readjustment must come after the war to meet the new conditions.

Old Theories Are Dead
"All economic theories of yesterday are dead," he said.

The war has created the highest protective wall possible, he said, and so, therefore, the republican theory of a high protective tariff was necessarily given its fullest advantage. The tariff, he concluded, could not be an issue therefore.

"And it should not be a partisan matter," he added. "That is why the administration passed a non-partisan tariff commission law to take the tariff out of politics."

Panic Proof Now
The federal reserve law, he said, forever made panics impossible. He cited the child labor law and other measures as evidence that the Wilson administration not only kept its democratic pledges but also passed most of the legislation advocated in the progressive platform.

Lewis was introduced by Col. Otto A. Case, with whom he served in the National Guard here in earlier days. Col. Case was progressive candidate for governor in 1912 and is now supporting Wilson.

Elks Honor Lewis
Before Sen. Lewis arrived, the crowd gave an ovation to Dr. J. E. Brown, democratic candidate for prosecutor, and demanded he speak.

ROME APPROVES LLOYD-GEORGE
"KNOCKOUT" MESSAGE ON WAR

BY JOHN H. HEARLEY
U. P. Staff Correspondent
ROME, Sept. 30.—A proper reply to Germany in view of Bethmann-Hollweg's speech was the Giornale D'Italia's characterization of David Lloyd-George's statement to the United States not to make peace overtures at the present time. It is thought possible this warning was inspired by reports that Ambassador Gerard was carrying to Washington a request from Germany that President Wilson sound out the belligerents on peace.

The Lloyd-George interview was interpreted here as a special warning to the United States not to make peace overtures at the present time. It is thought possible this warning was inspired by reports that Ambassador Gerard was carrying to Washington a request from Germany that President Wilson sound out the belligerents on peace.

BRITISH HOLD NEW POSITIONS

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 30.—British troops improved their positions at Stiff redoubt north of Thiepval and beat off German counter attacks at the Heslian trench last night. Gen. Haig reported this morning.

The fighting at the latter place was very severe, despite a heavy downpour of rain that converted the shell-wrecked trenches into great pools of mud and water, in which Germans and British fought.

The Germans shelled British positions south of the Ancre from the Destremont farm to a point southwest of LeSars village toward which Haig's men are approaching. Despite this artillery attack, the British continued to improve their positions on the whole Thiepval sector.

The official Paris report today showed the French made further progress north of Rancourt last night, but elsewhere were held up by weather conditions. South of Neuville St. Vaast, the British made a successful raid last night.

Poor Lo Is Not
Poor Any Longer

HIAWATHA, Kan., Sept. 30.—"Lo, the poor Indian," an expression old as the mountains, isn't so poor any more. The Indians passed thru here in great numbers, en route to the Sac and Fox reservations, and practically all of them rode in motor cars.

Some came from as far away as Oklahoma to attend tribal festivities of the Sac and Foxes. On the whole, they were a really prosperous looking aggregation.

They then called for Ole Hanson, progressive candidate in 1914 for United States senator, to speak. Both Brown and Hanson declined. After the meeting, Sen. Lewis was taken to the Elks' club, of which he is a life member, and was presented with a gold membership card.

FINDS POWDER GOOD
IN CIVIL WAR SNELL

DUKE, N. C., Sept. 30.—Dr. F. R. Ruff has made a very interesting find. A few days ago he was driving past the scene of the battle of Averasboro and saw a partly exposed piece of iron. He stopped and investigated and discovered that it was a shell used in the war between the states.

Money in the Bank
Represents Character

Not only the bankers of Seattle, but all the citizens, have reason to be pleased over the splendid showing made by our banks on September 12. It is a marked demonstration of the thrift, industry and perseverance of our people.

Thousands of people have brought their deposits—small or large—to make the grand total of over $4,500,000 gained since the call of June 30.

To our own bank has come a total gain of $902,518.21—an average of $14,795.38 for each of the sixty-one business days—a most gratifying testimonial of the confidence and good-will of the community.

This large sum of money, brought to the bank by the people, goes out again in various investments to aid individuals in their business enterprises, and to facilitate the larger business of the city and county.
