INVASION OF RUMANIA ENDS

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Rumanians have halted an attempted Austro-German invasion south of the Red Tower pass, and have driven the Teutons back for a short distance from the border.

Bucharest dispatches today reported that Gen. Falkenhayn's advance has been checked everywhere along the southern Transylvanian frontier.

On the Eastern frontier the Germans have been stopped on the Rumanian northern wing and thrown back at some points by strong counter-attacks. Elsewhere the Rumanian resistance is stiffening.

The battles on both allied wings in the Balkans are again becoming more violent. The British are at the outskirts of the city of Seres, already under bombardment, and have cleared the surrounding country of the enemy.

On the left wing the Bulgars have been counter-attacking desperately, but have been unable to bend back the Serbian line. King Constantine, despite the growth of the Venizelos movement in Greece, continues to delay plans for Greece's entry into the war.

The king told a diplomat, according to the Athens correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, that he was convinced the Germans would overrun Rumania within 15 days, and that he feared Greece would meet a like fate if she joined the allies.

WAR LOSSES ARE ENORMOUS

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, Oct. 14.—Ninety fresh Anglo-French divisions (1,620,000 men) were practically annihilated in the 3 1/2 months of the Somme offensive, the military critic of the Semi-Official News agency asserted today.

Since the beginning of the Somme offensive 178 divisions (3,184,000 men), partly new and partly filled up, have been launched against the German positions, the military critic stated.

Russian losses from June 1 to October 1, he estimated at about 1,000,000 men, quoting the statement of a Kiev officer in a Swiss paper as authority.

CAPITALIST, HERE, SEES BIG GROWTH

Frank J. Parsons, vice president of the United States Mortgage and Trust Co. of New York, is a visitor in Seattle and is particularly impressed with the financial and business situation.

He expressed an opinion that the city was fully prepared to take advantage of the economic rush which will follow during the next few years.

Flaiken & Co. are the agents of the concern represented by Parsons, who is visiting all of the agents of the head company.

BEAR TRAPS SELF IN MILK WAGON

A bear, rambling along the Snoqualmie river highway Wednesday, charged into the auto milk delivery wagon driven by A. Frederickson of Monroe, and succeeded in trapping itself.

Head down, it got under the front axle and was pinned tight. Frederickson jumped out of the auto, ran a mile and a half to a farmer, who loaned him a rifle, returned and killed the bear.

BARBER WARNS HUGHES

FULTON, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Michael Czuba, a master barber, wrote a letter to Candidate Hughes today warning him that he'd be in greater favor with the tonsorial artists if he clipped a pound or two off the famous Hughes chin adornment.

ARGENTINE HEAD REFUSES MOTOR

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 14.—President Irioyen, who was inaugurated yesterday, turned down the offer of an automobile, of which a friend wanted to make him a present. It wasn't so much the rejection of the gift, for in this respect most Argentines think he was quite right, as the manner in which he did it, that attracted attention.

Irioyen had already announced he would ride in a street car. In returning the machine to Don Horacio, the doctor sent this message:

"Any time I want an automobile, there are plenty of taxis I can hire in Buenos Aires."

LIQUOR, MEANT FOR USE HERE, PILING UP ON ALASKA DOCKS

Bootlegger whisky, valued at thousands of dollars, has been shipped to Alaska, altho it was purchased for distribution here, according to dry squad officers.

It is still in warehouses and on the docks there—unclaimed. Liquor men in the North are alleged to be stealing all they need.

The mixup has resulted from dry squad efforts to break up the game of bootleggers who order large quantities of whisky from California and have it addressed to some Alaska firm, in care of a Seattle transfer company.

Bootleggers, of course, planned to take over the goods here and distribute them.

But dry squad officers, dozens of times, have gotten track of the cars, and guarded them.

"The men have stayed on the job until the liquor was put on a boat and started on the way to the Alaska consignee, which has often been fictitious," Sergt. Putnam says.

The Jesse Moore Hunt company of San Francisco, which has supplied Seattle bootleggers with large amounts of liquor, recently sent a representative to Alaska to check up on the situation. They have lost a lot of money because the liquor was sent on North.

This is a great moment in a great play.

The innocent country girl and the young man studying for the ministry have been marooned on an island over night by a great storm.

The man saves the girl from the storm, but he cannot save her from himself. Her very innocence and affection for him help him to lose the battle with his moral impulses.

In the picture above, he is telling her that the storm is over. But she is looking into the future.

It is a powerful story, powerfully told. It is called "The Storm," and opens at The Coliseum Sunday morning with two famous stars—Blanche Sweet and Theodore Roberts.

WILSON WOMEN HECKLE FAIR BOOSTERS FOR HUGHES HERE

The women campaigners of the Hughes "billion dollar special" were surprised almost to the point of consternation at the predominance of Wilson sentiment and apoplexy in the Moore theatre meeting yesterday afternoon.

Several times the Hughes campaigners were brought to a full and distressing halt by the good-natured badinage and gloved plaudits of the fair Wilson adherents.

In the gallery, especially, the democratic women, had massed, and from there a constant fire of heckling was directed at the speakers.

Rush Reserved Section Repeated applause when the president's name was mentioned plainly showed the predominance of sentiment.

There seemed to have been considerable organized team work among the democratic women. It was exerted early in an irresistible center-rust upon the poor men ushers who were trying to hold back the feminine tide from seats referred to as "reserved."

If they had been reserved for the fair Hughes contingent, the latter must still be rursing bitter disappointment for the more athletic of Wilson admirers made a breach thru which several hundred suffrage democrats swooped upon the empty chairs.

Then the siege began. Seven women comprised the speaking force of the Charles E. Hughes "Billion-Dollar Special."

They gave everything they had in the way of oratory and feminine persuasiveness Friday, before a packed house, to win the support of Seattle citizens for the republican presidential candidate.

The women arrived in Seattle from Spokane at 1:40 p. m. After an automobile parade, the party went to the Moore, where former Senator A. J. Beveridge made a few brief remarks. Josiah Collins introduced the speakers.

Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, daughter of Julia Ward Howe, explained how the transcontinental trip, which would lead thru 39 states, had been arranged. She dwelt lightly on the kindness of Hughes.

Mrs. Raymond Robins, wife of the progressive leader of Chicago, had trouble with her hat thruout her speech. She said Hughes was responsible for 56 of our labor laws and that Wilson will be unable to cope with the economic situation after the European war.

Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, writer and former Seattle woman, said she was for Hughes because Hughes was for women. The meeting was marked by much gloved applause and many funny stories. Mrs. William Curtis Demorest was one of the best story-telling orators on the program, and her comical stories did much for Hughes. She scored heavily when she said she was for Hughes because he was for the negro. She belayed Wilson for his Mexican policy and ended with another story.

Miss Elizabeth Freeman was "off" of Wilson, too. Along toward this part of the afternoon many of the women in the audience had to leave to prepare dinner.

Dr. Katherine B. Davis, known as "The Little Doctor of New York," said that it was foolish to think Wilson had kept this country out of war, any more than he had kept Switzerland and Sweden out. She dwelt on his ability to switch about.

Mary Antin, immigrant lecturer, dwelt on the hyphen, asserting that it was the so-called hyphenated American that manufactured everything in this country.

K. REFERENDUMS

Referendum measures set forth the republican convention at Yakima were discussed Friday at a meeting of the state committee, in the Smith building, and a resolution adopted in favor of them.

It was planned to have speakers speak and speak on the measures, giving every detail to the voters.

Youth, Adult and Aged

Three generations have tested Peruna and pronounced it a reliable family medicine. It's useful because it has met the demands of the youth for strength builder, the adult for preserving strength, and the aged for a healthful invigoration. It cures inflammation of the mucous membranes, dispels the inflammation we call catarrh, and aids digestion. It helps rid the system of acids and coughs, and builds up strength to resist grip, as well as helping remarkably in convalescence.

Nearly Fifty Years

Peruna since Peruna was introduced to the world. The original formula has been used for nearly fifty years and has shown that it remains the same remedy that accomplished so much for the people of the world.

It may be obtained in tablet form or in liquid form. The latter is the most effective. It is made of the finest medicinal plants, and is absolutely pure.

"Traveling Salesman" by Wilkes Players and Vaudeville at Other Theatres the Coming Week

(1) Walter Spencer, of Monte Carter's musical stock company, Oak. (2) Jue Quon Tai, Chinese prima donna, at the Pantages Monday. (3) "Jeanne," comedienne at the Palace Hip. (4) Mildred Hayward, Eugene Levy's road show, at the Grand. (5) Maude Lambert, in Orpheum vaudeville at the Alhambra. (6) A Chaplin Mutual comedy. The Gerald, gypsy serenaders, two of them, who play 34 mandolins at once, the Orpheum Travelogue, and Charles Burnett's usual fine musical program, complete the show. PALACE HIP Road Show No. 6 reaches the Palace Hip theatre Sunday. In the bill is "The Schoolmaster," a comedy playlet. It carries seven people, the teacher and six pupils. Singing, dancing and screaming comedy are featured. "The Three Lilliputs," three charming misses, whose ages range from 29 to 25 years, but who are no bigger than 5-year-olds, will offer a program of picturesque dances and singing. "Jeanne" is a clever comedienne. Vardaman, "The Gay Deceiver," offers a costumed surprise. The Four Musical Bonnelles have a musical, singing and comedy act. Adelewee and company have another novelty acrobatic skit. The feature photoplay of this show, which continues until Wednesday night, will be "Mamma"

OAK

Monte Carter, his Musical Comedy Company and Fifteen Dancing Chicks, beginning with the matinee tomorrow, will present the big laugh-maker, "Hip! Hip! Hooray!" as the offering for the fifth week of the company's run at the Oak theatre, Second ave, at Seneca st.

The play, which is filled with droll situations, calculated to bring out Carter's comedy abilities, as well as those of the remainder of the able company, is laid on the Mexican border, with San Diego on one side and Tijuana on the other. Chinese smuggling of the unconscious variety causes the comedy complications.

PANTAGES

"Oh, the Women!" a big and rollicking musical farce, with 14, mostly girls, in the cast, will be the merry headline attraction of the new bill at Pantages, opening with the matinee performance Monday.

Harrington Reynolds, English comedian, Florence Moore and other Seattle girls are in the cast. For the added feature, Manager Pantages has arranged for the appearance of James Grady, character actor, and his players, in their newest dramatic success, "The Toll Bridge."

Other numbers on the program will include Jue Quon Tai, the prettiest Chinese nightingale; Warren and Templeton, nifty singers and dancers; George Stanford, the expert whistler, and Ollie and Johnny Vanis, the world-famous wire performers.

The fifth episode of "The Crimson Stain" will be thrown on the screen.

ORPHEUM

"The Traveling Salesman" is the comedy-drama announced for next week by the Wilkes Players at the Orpheum. This play is from the pen of James Forbes, who wrote "The Chorus Lady" for Rose Stahl and is one of the plays that are human, with characters who say and do things.

Mr. Forbes wrote "The Traveling Salesman" in the heart of Indiana, where he lived for nearly a year amongst the people he has written into his story.

Miss Phoebe Hunt will be seen as the girl and George Rand will be "The Traveling Salesman." William C. Walsh will do a blackface hotel porter.

"The Traveling Salesman" will unpack his samples at the matinee Sunday.

HE WARNS AGAINST RESUMING SUB WAR

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., Oct. 14.—"Unrestricted submarine warfare would not hasten the advent of peace, but would further prolong the war," Dr. David, socialist member, told the reichstag, during debate on the question of submarine warfare and peace.

CAPT. R. S. PATTON, of the U. S. Coast Survey, addressed the Engineers' club Friday on navigation problems on the Pacific Coast.

Your Christmas Remittance to Europe Should Go Soon

Those intending to send money to friends and relatives in Europe for the Christmas holidays, should do so this year earlier than usual.

Quite a length of time is required in transit, and possibilities of disarrangements of mail steamers make early remittances desirable.

We have direct connections abroad, and can give you the best of rates—better NOW than usual.

All our mail goes by Scandinavian steamers, and the bank is responsible for the safe delivery of your remittance.

LOANS: We are open to make a number of additional Real Estate loans, but ONLY on improved Seattle property. Applications for loans in amounts of $1,000 to $10,000 preferred.

As we have previously announced, we are now handling Building Loans, and invite applications for residences, apartment houses or business buildings.
