BRIDGES WAS RIGHT!

When He Opposed Submitting the $450,000 Belt Line Bond Issue to the People, Because This Nation Must Spend Hundreds of Millions to Arm for War, Which Means

HIGHER TAXES FOR EVERY ONE

A few weeks ago Port Commissioner Robert Bridges advised the other members of the Port Commission to withdraw the Port Belt Line Bond Issue proposition, because war threatened, and the resources of the people should be conserved to meet the demands of the Government for money for defense.

War Threatens and Seattle Cannot Afford Any More Debt

As a patriot, you should vote against the Port Belt Line and other bond issues for the patriotic reason given by Mr. Bridges:

We should conserve our credit and resources so that we may be prepared for any emergency.

BRIDGES WAS RIGHT AGAIN

When he declared in a public interview that the burden of developing the Port of Seattle is too great for the district to bear, and that the State of Washington should be induced to take it over.

Figures prove how right Mr. Bridges was. The bonded debt of the Port District is approximately $6,300,000.

Since the Port District was formed, the taxpayers of King County have been taxed approximately $1,000,000 for operation, bond interest and redemption.

The Port District has levied a tax of $381,000 for this year because they estimate that the revenues from the wharves and warehouses will come that much short of meeting the operating expenses and the bond interest and redemption due this year.

WE OPPOSE THE BOND ISSUES

Letters To Cynthia Grey

Dear Miss Grey: E. B. Perry's very patrotic (?) remarks arouse my ire. I think he must be the very man inquired for by the poet the man "with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, 'this is my own, my native land.'"

He thinks any other government would be as good. I don't think so. In this country, at least, we have some say as to how we shall be governed.

He didn't acknowledge my gift, and a few weeks ago I asked her to kindly inform me if she had received it, but still no answer.

FROM KIPLING
Q.—Will you print in your column the name of the poem by Kipling which contains the following lines: "The sins ye do by two and two, Ye shall pay for one by one."

ANSWERING LETTER
Q.—Last year, when I was East, a very close friend offered me some of her money to use in a business enterprise. I told her I would write her when I was ready to accept the proposition, and would expect her to forward the money. I went ahead and got everything ready to use the money, and, of course, wrote her in regard to her promise, to see if everything was all right before I went further.

BELT LINE WOULD PUT CITY TO FRONT

"I am for a publicly owned and operated belt line along Seattle's waterfront to coordinate in one system and bring to the highest degree of efficiency our publicly owned docks, and to safeguard our present investment, to protect these docks from unfair discrimination by railroads, steamship lines and shippers, to eliminate the 'zone' system, by which railroads pile up excessive switching charges, adding to the cost of living and doing business, to extend our manufacturing and distributing district, and thus invite new industries here on equal terms with all others, giving them access to every railroad and steamship line entering the city, to make more smokestacks and longer pay rolls, to invite new railroads here on equal terms with existing lines, to enable us to compete with rival ports having public belt lines, to increase our shipping—in short, to insure Seattle's supremacy on the Pacific coast."—W. D. Lane.

WHO ARE THEIR FRIENDS?
DALE, CALHOUN AND PHELPS

It is expecting too much of the average human beings to ask them to rise above their environment and forsake their friends, even when the public good and general welfare demand it.

It is evident that Messrs. Dale, Calhoun, Phelps and R. H. Thomson really believe that the common people are the legitimate prey of the corporations and that fleecing, exploiting and robbing the public is still looked upon as ethical.

If Seattle wants to pay $1,600,000 for two streaks of iron rust running through Rainier Valley;

If Seattle wishes to allow the Traction Company to refuse to comply with the terms of its franchise to pave the streets between its tracks;

If Seattle wishes to lose $62,000 each year that the Traction Company pays under the terms of its franchise as 2 per cent of its income;

If Seattle wishes its city car line prospect killed by the Traction Company;

If Seattle would have its city light plant turned over to the city's competitor;

If Seattle desires the Renick law, that costs the people $50,000 per year loss in interest alone;

If Seattle believes that arterial highways for automobilists to drive over are more valuable than a Port Belt Line with which to handle the commerce for the great Northwest;

If Seattle feels that the Food Trust should have its pound of human flesh and that the working people shall not have a city market;

I say if Seattle wishes to turn all its most valuable possessions over to its enemies, who are the people's exploiters, Seattle must vote for Dale, Calhoun and Phelps, and take the advice of R. H. Thomson.

If, however, Seattle wishes to be honest, fair and true to itself and to free itself from the clutches of corruptionists and become its own boss, Seattle should vote for LANE, ERICKSON AND HESKETH.
