500 Men in Dry Dock Company Here Now Enlisted in U. S. Naval Service

Service to the nation, in war, means not only fighting in the ranks, but the government has drafted many skilled workers to continue their regular occupations which are in aid of war preparations. The following their daily occupations.

With war formally declared, the task of enrolling Seattle skilled workmen in the Naval Coast Defense Reserves was speeded up today.

Five hundred workers at the Seattle Construction & Dry Dock plant, and 50 employees of the Kilbourne & Clark wireless apparatus factory will become units in Uncle Sam's war machine as a result.

This is one phase of the modern preparedness problem, which has been recently worked out to prevent the crippling of vital war-time industries.

Skilled workers, instead of being urged to leave lathes and foundries, to carry rifles, will be enrolled to stick to their trade and at the same time carry the patriotic stamp of enlisted men.

Wanted at Work
Uncle Sam wants 500 of the best ship builders at the Seattle Construction & Dry Dock plant to keep right on building submarines and destroyers after war is declared, and she wants 50 specialists at Kilbourne & Clark factory to continue making wireless apparatus.

And she doesn't want them to bear the brunt of criticism and be called "slackers."

These men are already vital to the navy department because they are busy on government contracts. Those who are enrolled will be rated in regular war form.

For instance, Manager C. W. Wiley, of the Seattle Construction & Dry Dock Co., becomes "Lieutenant Commander Wiley" in the Navy Coast Defense service, but continues to keep right on working where he is now.

Foreman Luke McLuke, of the moulders, by tonight may be officially titled "Ensign McLuke" or "Chief Machinist's Mate."

Their duty will be considered fully as important and as patriotic as that of the men in the ranks, according to instructions from Secretary Daniels. They cannot be drafted into any other branch of federal service.

May Be Pensioned
Any injuries suffered while in the employ of the government will be considered grounds for a pension, just as tho the wounds were received on the battle field.

The big idea is to insure a sufficient personnel for the efficient operation of plants vital to the manufacture of war materials and to prevent a sudden reduction in output by the efflux of skilled workers to the military forces.

The task of enrolling the men falls on the shoulders of Lieut. G. E. Davis of the navy, who is stationed at the Seattle Construction & Dry Dock plant as submarine inspector.

200 More to Sign Up
Altho only 500 of the 3,500 employees can become enrolled in the Naval Coast Defense Reserves, there are still about 200 to be signed up.

American naval authorities launched the reserve after they had studied the lesson Great Britain learned at the beginning of the war.

When the call to arms came, skilled workers answered the colors among the first, leaving industries depleted and crippled. The men had gone to the trenches. The lathes were idle. So Great Britain had to go to France and bring back her skilled workmen to help manufacture war supplies.

The American plan has not yet been expanded to cover more than two plants in Seattle, but if the government takes over other ship-building plants, or awards contracts to them, their workers will also be permitted to enroll in the reserves.

HOW HOT CROSS BUNS ORIGINATED

The custom of hot cross buns originated in this manner: Offerings to the gods of sacred bread was a ceremonial many ancient religions had in common. Sometimes the bread was made of honey and fine flour, but usually it was highly spiced and marked with a symbol.

Cakes of this kind were generally purchased at the temple gates. "There is nothing more curious than the persistence of custom, generation after generation, long after both the origin and the meaning have been forgotten. The buying of hot cross buns on Good Friday is today the survival of such an interesting custom."

Everybody can repeat the popular nursery rhyme which begins "One a penny, two a penny," but here is another verse which is classic by reason of its antiquity: "Good Friday comes this month, the old woman runs With one or two a penny hot cross Whose virtue is, if you believe what's said, They'll not grow moldy like the common bread."

BOY SCOUTS OFFER SERVICES TO CITY

Seven hundred Seattle Boy Scouts will march down Second Ave. from the Bon Marche park to the city-county building Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock to tender their services to Mayor Gill.

"The movement is not a military one," declared R. H. Parsons, who is in charge here, "the boys will offer to act as first aids and messengers."

This is in keeping with general orders from scout headquarters. Similar demonstrations effecting about 250,000 boys will take place all over the country.

PADDED BILLS ON THE COUNTY BUILDING?

Judge Jury Friday morning ruled that the case of August Weiffenbach, sub contractor on the county-city building, against the Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Co., should proceed, despite the fact that Randolph Pearson, Weiffenbach's foreman, testified Thursday that time sheets and pay rolls which had been introduced as originals in the case were padded and made to conform with the bill of costs.

It is possible that a criminal charge may be filed. Weiffenbach is suing the city and the contractor for $72,121.13, which he claims is coming to him for extras. The defense holds that he has only $24,000 due him.

Every Member of Our Staff Takes a PERSONAL Pride in Turning Out His Best Work

Every one of our graduate registered dentists is an expert. He had to be or he wouldn't have had a chance to affiliate himself with our organization. Each one of them has a reputation of his own to live up to as well as the reputation of this office. Thus you can easily see that he will be determined to please and satisfy from every standpoint.

Dr. L. R. Clark

We value the reputation of this office far more than any other thing we possess. It has been built up by years of conscientious service to the people of Seattle and vicinity. If our office equipment should be destroyed we could quickly replace it and go ahead doing business; but should we lose our good business name we would indeed be in a sad predicament. So you may be sure that we guard this reputation with most jealous care. We are not going to let anyone leave this office dissatisfied if it is within our power to prevent it. We expect to so please and satisfy you that you will not only return to us in the future when you need dental service, but also that you will recommend us to your friends, and be able to do it conscientiously.

Remember this—every operator in this office is a graduate registered dentist, who has graduated from the best dental colleges and passed the examination of the State Dental Board. Every one of them has his certificate from the State Dental Board hanging right on the wall in front of his dental chair, in plain sight of all.

You will get only the very best of materials in work that you have done at this office.

We found out long ago that the best materials are the only kind that will turn out work that will give lasting and permanent satisfaction, and the kind of work that we can afford to go behind with our iron-clad guarantee of satisfaction. We give such a guarantee with all work that leaves this office. This guarantee is signed both by the operator who did the work and also by L. R. Clark, D. D. S., owner and manager of this office, who is thoroughly responsible. It means just what it says, too: if for any reason whatever your work does not give perfect satisfaction, we will make it right.

We guarantee to do your work painlessly.

We have brought our system of painless dentistry to such a point of perfection that we are now able to guarantee to perform the most difficult dental operations without hurting the patient a bit.

WE USE NOVOCAIN

This is by far the best dental anaesthetic that has so far been discovered. We have it, and can give you the benefit of it. Most dental offices haven't got it, nor can they obtain it on account of the fact that it is imported, and the European war has interfered with its importation.

Your teeth are a matter of the greatest importance to you. You ought not to neglect them. Come in and let our experts give your teeth a thorough examination. They will tell you just what needs to be done to them to put them into perfect condition, and also just what the cost will be.

This examination and estimate won't cost you a cent, nor will it put you under any obligation whatever. You will probably be surprised to find how small the cost will be under our low prices.

One thing is very sure, though, it will be worth a great deal more to you than it will cost.

You will always be thankful that you made up your mind to have your teeth put into perfect condition and kept that way.

Come in just as soon as possible!

JURY WANTS TO HURRY THE CASE

Breaking into more or less dry and uninteresting testimony, came a touch of humor Friday morning in Judge Ronald's court, where Thomas H. Tracy is on trial, charged with murder at the time of I. W. W. shooting in Everett last fall.

The jury wanted to hold court Saturday. They were in a hurry to get thru, they said. But Judge Ronald said he needed Saturday to compose his instructions to the jury and the attorneys for the defense needed it to write their instructions. So while the counsel and the court discussed the matter, up rose jurymen James R. Williams.

"Will the counsel furnish amusement for the jury tomorrow?" he asked. "The law doesn't provide for it, but the court might not object," announced the judge. Then court and lobby joined in laughing with the jurors, when Judge Ronald ruled that he would accept all responsibility for their entertainment and that they might, if they saw fit, find him guilty of gross neglect.

Then court took up the testimony of W. W. Blaine, secretary of the Everett Commercial Club. Blaine was asked to identify certain records of the club. He failed to identify a heavy bill introduced as evidence by the defense.
