BIG BILL HART'S

"THE BORDER WIRELESS" HAS CAPTURED THE TOWN

ALL WEEK

WAR ORPHANS TO COME HERE

(Special to The Star by N. E. A.) PARIS, Nov. 25.—The old home of General La Fayette, at Chavaniac, is being used as an American home for French war orphans. A hundred children from the devastated regions are at Chavaniac. A modern schoolhouse and a hospital have been built. The orphans learn English. They are being brought up with the aim of sending them to America for the completion of their education. They are learning American ways and ideas. In America, each child has a godfather who will take over its education. State Delegation Returns to Capital Representative John F. Miller, of the First district, will leave for Washington Wednesday, to attend the opening of the short session of the present congress, December 2. Representative Lin H. Hadley, Second district, left Monday, and U. S. Senator Wesley L. Jones, Sunday. Representatives Dill and La Follette, Fourth and Fifth districts, who are already at the capital, retire at the end of the short session. Representative Albert Johnson, Third district, will also be present at the opening of the session.

WAR IS OVER, BUT STARS STILL HUNT HUN SPIES

Bill Hart, appearing in his latest picture, "The Border Wireless," at the Liberty this week.

FISTIC FIGHT IS REALISTIC

Trapped into what seems to be a death chamber, Bill Hart, in "The Border Wireless," at the Liberty, makes a winning and exciting fight for life. At the crucial moment, a United States army unit takes a hand scattering the German spies, outnumbering them. Just before the rescue, Bill Hart and an enemy agent stage a most natural looking fist fight.

THEY KISS THIS HOBBO

To be mistaken for a long lost heir to great riches, to be received with open arms by the whole neighborhood, to be entertained at a sumptuous feast, and to be fondly kissed by a bevy of old maids, because they "knew him when he was a little boy," is the experience of a hobo named Danny Rowland in "Pals First," at the Mission.

GIRL HELPS HERO TO REDEEM HIMSELF

J. Warren Kerrigan has a strong role this week at the Liberty in "One Dollar Bid," a story of the Kentucky hills. Kerrigan plays the part of Toby, a man who steps down into the mire from the bottom rung of the ladder of life, and lives for a long time in obscurity among negroes. Finally, with the help of the "only" girl, he brings himself back to a high position in the town which cast him aside.

YOUNG ACTRESS IN MOTHER ROLE

The still very young, Elizabeth Risdon appears as little gray-haired mother of two full grown children in "Mother," now showing at the Colonial. Miss Risdon's acting, as well as her character make-up, is good, and she is well cast in the sympathetic role of the mother fighting to save her young son's reputation.

FROM MINE TO CABARET

A mining camp in the Far West and a fashionable cabaret in New York are the settings for a quick succession of thrilling and rapidly moving scenes, in "The Man From Funeral Home," starring Wallace Reid, at the Strand this week.

GOLDEN LOCKS IN LOVE TANGLE

A clever bit of acting is done by a little golden-haired girl, who looks to be about 6 years old, in "Zaza," now playing at the Rex, as Nana, the little Helen Sinnott is adorable, and one does not wonder that Zaza, who seeks to revenge the man who ruined her life, relents when she meets his little daughter. Pauline Frederick is starred as Zaza.

NORMA TALMADGE PLAYS CHINESE GIRL

Some beautiful scenic effects feature Norma Talmadge's picture, "The Forbidden City," at the Coliseum theatre till Friday night. Scenes of the court of China and the garden of a Chinese mandarin are to be viewed. Miss Talmadge plays a dual role, that of San San, daughter of a Chinese mandarin, who married an American, and their daughter, Toy. San San is put to death, but her daughter lives to find happiness under the American flag.

Newsboys Planning to Build Fine Home

A newsboys' home, with restaurant, swimming pool, reading and recreation room, and gymnasium, will be built in Seattle if plans now under way are carried out. Paul M. Gibson, business agent of the Newsboys' union, says many of the paper sellers are living in cheap lodgings and come in contact with demoralizing influences. Several leading business men have already promised support to the proposed home, says Gibson, and a tag day will probably be held.

FISH RESTRICTIONS IN ALASKA ARE PREDICTED

With testimony in favor of stringent restrictions on Southeastern Alaska fisheries, Ward T. Bower, chief of the Alaska division of the federal bureau of fisheries, leaves for Washington Wednesday morning, to present his report, the result of three conferences in Seattle, to the government. It is believed presentation of the report will result in measures against depleting Alaskan waters.

GLADYS EASTERBROOK IS ON WAY TO FRANCE

Miss Gladys Easterbrook, daughter of Maj. E. P. Easterbrook, now in France, left Seattle Monday night for New York city, en route to France, as an aide in physiotherapy. She is a graduate of the University of Washington, and is the fourth of the Easterbrook family to enlist in active service.

HIGH TEACHER WILL LEAVE FOR SIBERIA

Miss Sybil J. Moore, for several years a teacher of history at the Broadway high school, will soon leave with a Red Cross detachment for Siberia. En route she will stop at Honolulu, the winter home of her parents. She expects to make a study of the Russian language.

TO FRANCE, AT LAST

Service overseas has become a reality in the Seattle motor corps. Mrs. Mrs. Emogene B. Cummings, Mrs. Beulah Phillips, Mrs. Jane Lockhart, Miss Gladys Walden and Miss Mabel McNeil have again been ordered to France. On two other occasions, their plans to start their journey were interrupted by an order from Washington.

LITTLE THEATRE OPENS

The stage of "The Little Theatre," in the Cornish school of music, was opened Monday evening to a production of "The Newly Married Couple," a two-act play timed before the Civil war, and a scene from "Peer Gynt." The cast was composed of semi-professionals, drama and art students.

When You Buy a Bush & Lane Piano You Buy Satisfaction, Not Promises

At no other time of the year does the home feel the absence of music as much as Thanksgiving, when every church, every real home, every thought is influenced by the sweet melodies that bring us closer to the real meaning of Thanksgiving.

The home that has no piano is empty; the real living is absent, therefore Thanksgiving, as well as the balance of the year, holds none of the powerful influences that make better men and women; that make it possible for us to think the real and the worth-while thoughts.

You often feel, if you could but play the old-time melodies your mother used to play, the carols you listened to in rapture—if you could but play them with the same expression—and you can—the old favorites, the old songs you love so well, will all be born again.

The Bush & Lane Cecilian and Bush & Lane Welte-Mignon make all this possible. The expression control makes every thought, every word, every emotion possible. Unconsciously, you play as you have heard others play, and you need not know a single note of music.

Our instruments have never been approached in value for the price asked. Every Piano is made in our own factory and sold with an unequalled guarantee of satisfaction. A call will convince you that the Bush & Lane Cecilian and Welte-Mignon Player Pianos are superior to all.

THIS MAN'S CLOTHES COST LOT OF MONEY

When Mr. and Mrs. John Lind have an argument about domestic finances, John urges, "But, you know, my dear, I really must have a new gown. I simply must keep up my wardrobe. I need new coats and all sorts of things." The reason John replies like this is because the male member of the Lind family wears all the classy gowns. John Lind has traveled the world as a woman impersonator. He will display his wardrobe at the Palace Hip for the last time Wednesday.

LASH'S BITTERS

THE MAN or woman compelled to lead the usual artificial, sedentary life of our modern civilization rarely gets enough air or exercise to ward off digestive disorders, biliousness, constipation and their train of headaches, depression and fatigue.

UNDER SUCH conditions nature needs, and must have gentle, effective assistance. Without it she inflicts a certain and unpleasant penalty. LASH'S BITTERS is not a substitute for nature or her methods, but a safe, effective aid to her. It tones and stimulates the entire digestive tract—invigorates and leaves the organs in condition to resume their normal functions.

LASH'S IS a laxative which causes no discomfort and has no weakening after-effects. It has been a standard remedy in thousands of households for thirty-five years.

PLACE IT in the family medicine chest, where all can use it, and watch the family health improve.

Ask your druggist for LASH'S BITTERS—in the large, square bottle.

Those who take an occasional half-glass of Lash's are rarely habitual users of laxatives.
