MISS GLASS WEDS MR. BURDICK

BY BEULAH MITCHELL COURTS

THE MARRIAGE OF MISS CORNELIA GLASS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Henry Glass and Mr. Harold Burdick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Burdick of Tacoma, was read by the Rev. W. H. Bliss Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of relatives and close friends. The bride wore a simple gown of white georgette, modestly short and trimmed with fillet lace and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, white sweet peas, freesias and fern. Her only attendant was Miss Marguerite Grant, gowned in a pale pink georgette, heavily beaded in crystal, carrying a shower of Russell roses, pink sweet peas and freesias. A color scheme of pink developed in hydrangeas in a back round of palms and greens was used in the rooms, and softly shaded rose tinted lights adding a mellow glow. Just before the ceremony Miss Mary Louise Rochester sang "For You Alone" and afterward played the wedding march. Mr. Bruce McDonald of Spokane, a fraternity brother, supported the groom. Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Burdick left for the East, where they will remain for four or five months, expecting then to return to Seattle to make their home. Mrs. Burdick traveled in a smart brown day-dress suit, with a chic brown hat to match. Both Mr. and Mrs. Burdick are former students of the University of Washington, where Mrs. Burdick was a member of Phi Beta Phi sorority and the Tolo club. Mr. Burdick was affiliated with Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Eton Jacket Is Latest Turn of Tailored Suit

BY CORA MOORE
New York's Fashion Authority

Just about the last turn of the tailored suit expected this spring was the Eton jacket and plaid skirt, but here they are, and here illustrated is one of the latest models imported by Hollander. The suit, a three-piece one, is of blue serge. The skirt is plain and narrow, with two self-lined, three-inch bands hung loosely from each side to be caught under the hem. The waist of blue satin is a surprise affair that ends in long, wide sash-ends, finished with red and green silk fringe.

Gallo Company Sings "Mikado" Again Tonight

Melodious in score and coherent in story, "The Gondoliers," like all of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, is a charming mixture of gentle satire, unrestrained fun and hitting music. Wednesday evening's presentation of the piece at the Metropolitan by the Gallo English Opera company was marked by vivacity and color and a whole-hearted gusto that was enthusiastically appreciated by the large audience.

Jefferson De Angelis, that veteran comedian, appeared as the Grand Inquisitor of Venice. He extracted the last drop of humor from the part and was the "soul of the party" throughout last night's performance. Dorothy Elton, in the role of Casilda, uncovered a voice of unmistakable quality. Charming, good to look upon, with a voice of no mean proportions, she made a most delightful Casilda.

The ensemble numbers were well received. Like the previous productions of this excellent company, the staging effects and the capable orchestra left nothing to regret.

The Gallo singers present "Mikado" Thursday night, "Pinafore" Friday evening and Saturday afternoon and "Mikado" Saturday night.

MAJOR-ELECT CALDWELL will preside at a banquet of the Kiwanis club on the evening of March 17 at the New Washington hotel.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

A Cincinnati Barber Tells How to Make a Remedy for Gray Hair

Mr. Frank Harbaugh of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been a barber for more than 40 years, recently made the following statement:

"Any one can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

Ask her where she buys that, hop, and if she charges it to the food, recreation, or mental development column. This all sounds very lovely and easy on paper, but at $125 per well, we'll have to see her itemized budget.

I can account for every cent of the $150 a month this family has lived on in the past four years, and we have gone without celery, evening dresses and $2 music lessons for quite a spell, now.

SOME LETTERS TO CYNTHIA GREY

Dear Miss Grey: While reading over your column last evening, I into the "MIND" of a business girl, who signed herself "Bachelor Girl." It just fairly made my blood boil. She rang the Spiker-Knowles case in for an alibi. But her one and only thought was, to run down the man of today. I am not a business man, or either am I a working man, but I have been among business men and women enough to know that a real business man or woman has no time, or even a desire, to let their mind run to the opposite sex, at least to the extent that she did. She states that she has analyzed each and every one, and, in most cases, she finds it hardly worth the while. She says nothing of the women, tho only she tries to make it sound like she has never done anything out of the way, and that all the rest of the women are as good as she is. "I say, where there is wild men there also is wild women."

I, myself, don't pretend to be anything other than "wild," or what she would call, "not worth while," but I know lots more good than I do women; the only thing that I ever pretended to be successful in was to travel with my lady friends, which were many, until I got married; then I quit until my wife and I dissolved partnership. Now, Miss Grey, the bachelor girl is talking from the business world, where the true moral of a person is in most cases completely hidden. Where my life has been among men and women as they really are, I can safely say that my knowledge of the morals they possess is far superior of that possessed by those who have spent their life in business. Now here is the only thing that is the matter with the Bachelor Girl. She has either been turned down "cold" by some nice young man, or she knows it is impossible for her to ever be anything other than a star-bachelor girl. Naturally she has it in for all the unfair sex.

HARDLY WORTH WHILE.

Dear Miss Grey: Ha! That's the best yet—the letter from the visionary idealist who named herself "One With Experience," and dresses her husband in cutaway and dress suits, her son in $30 suits, pays $45 rent, keeps a $200 checking account, puts money in the building and loan, has her washing and heavy cleaning done, goes to grand opera, and still has enough left for bacon and eggs every morning on $125 a month.

Ask her where she buys that, hop, and if she charges it to the food, recreation, or mental development column. This all sounds very lovely and easy on paper, but at $125 per well, we'll have to see her itemized budget.

I can account for every cent of the $150 a month this family has lived on in the past four years, and we have gone without celery, evening dresses and $2 music lessons for quite a spell, now.

WHAT do YOU think? Write Cynthia Grey, care of The Seattle Star.

pleasure that I print your letter, "Missourian." I have wondered just how many days would elapse before someone would take exception to the letter from the woman who could have all of the things she described on an allowance of $125 per month.

My Dear Miss Grey: Will you kindly give space for a few words concerning the recently broached subject of prayer in public schools? Reading a letter in your column brought before my mental vision a public school in a small Eastern city. Particularly the eighth grade, of which a plump, merry faced young woman was the teacher. Her olive skin, red cheeks, bright black eyes and Mary Pickford curls are not easily forgotten; we adored her.

Upon the ringing of the order bell each child folded its hands on its desk and with closed eyes repeated aloud the Lord's Prayer—"Our Father," etc. A few verses from the Bible were read, followed by the singing of a short hymn or song. (Each room in grade and high school has the same routine.)

A small book called "Morals and Manners" was used once or twice a week. The following is a sample of the work:

Q. What is politeness?
A. True politeness is always to do and say the kindest things in the kindest way.

Think you that the pupils were made less studious or obedient by the few moments these exercises took from the regular lessons?

A week or two ago I passed the playgrounds of one of our high schools. Two attractive looking girls about fifteen years of age, were playing ball. I was smiling to myself at their health and freedom when something went wrong with the play.

One of the girls shrieked forth, "My God; now what do you know about that, kid?"

By the time the second girl had made reply with some similar remark the smile had frozen on my lips.

Question—Is it better to teach our children reverence for the Deity in school, or allow them to grow up probably never hearing the name except in a profane way?

Am I old-fashioned, out of date? Will some of the younger generation (with Miss Grey's permission) give an opinion?

It may be better for the young man to be given the icy mitt than to marry the girl and be kept in hot water the rest of his days.

ON WITH THE DANCE TO THE RIVER'S END

A new Form of Soap for the Family Washing

Rinso

Not a cake soap
Not a washing powder
But a wonderful new Soap Product in fine granules

NO solid soap, to rub into the cloth, and injure the fibre.
No harsh cleansing agents, to "eat" your clothes and destroy the colors.
But a wonderful new soap product—in a new form.

The pure Rinso granules are made of finer quality ingredients than were ever used in a family laundry soap before! They are so mild, your tubful of clothes soaks as safely with them as in pure water alone.

They are so rich in cleansing value, they loosen all the dirt. You simply soak the clothes overnight, or for three hours in the morning, in the rich Rinso suds.

Only a few badly soiled spots, cuff edges, etc., need a light rubbing between your hands. Then you rinse the clothes well. And your week's washing is ready to hang on the line, clean and white.

You don't have to stand over the washtub, and rub and rub.

You don't have to stand over the hot range, and turn the hot, heavy clothes with a stick. You need never boil, unless you want to do so occasionally, to sterilize.

Try the Rinso way of soaking your clothes clean this very next week, following the easy directions on the package. See how different Rinso is from anything ever produced before. How it saves hours of heavy work. How it saves your clothes.

Get Rinso from your grocer. One package will do a week's washing. Lever Bros Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux.)

Rinso is not a "Washing Powder"
The fine granules of Rinso look much like a "washing powder," but make this test: Use a heaping teaspoonful to a glass of boiling water.

"Washing Powder"
—high in harsh chemicals
—low in soap

RINSO
—absolutely harmless
—so rich in soap "jells!"

Rinso
As wonderful for the family washing as Lux is for fine fabrics
