REDS BUILDING GIANT AIRSHIP
Say It Will Carry 1,000 Passengers

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—An airship that can carry 1,000 passengers is being built by the Russian engineer Makhonin, inventor of the electric train.

It will make its trial flight at Moscow May 1.

The soviet government is backing the airship financially.

"My new plane," says Makhonin, "will carry 1,000 passengers or 60,000 pounds of freight—about 967 tons. Its top speed will be 65 miles an hour. The motors will be 24,000 horse-power. It will have several berth decks, connecting by elevator. An automobile, an airplane and a motorboat will be carried for emergency."

Russia built the world's first giant flying machine—the Sikorski bi-plane.

The biggest German airships built during the war had a lift of 45 tons and a speed of 75 miles an hour.

England's latest airship, the R-39, can lift only 39 tons. It travels 65 miles an hour.

WORRIES ENDED

"And my hair was getting gray and I had wrinkles. Really, I was a wreck from worry. I just didn't seem to be able to keep my little family looking as they should—the clothes question was beyond me.

"And then my attention was directed to a Cherry ad. It told all about buying plenty of clothes without cash, and paying for them on credit. It seemed too good to be true, but I figured it was worth looking into. I read it over again and sure enough it was true, and their store is on Second ave., between Madison and Spring, 207 Rialto building, over the Pig's Whistle.

"I went, I saw, and I bought. Not only pretty things for myself, but classy gowns and overcoats for the boys and their dad, at real reductions. Think of it—1/4 to 1/2 off original prices, and still that glorious word, 'Credit.' My family is dressed up now, and my worries are over. For I see prospects of keeping them dressed up."—Advertisement.

Exciting Time Is Enjoyed by Peer in Jail!

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 15.—Victor over four Irishmen whom he licked during a two-hour sojourn in a cell at the city jail here, Miles P. Cotton, British peer, is en route to his home at Toronto today.

Cotton, a Canadian contractor and the fighting son of the commander of the Canadian armies at the beginning of the world war, had spent a few days in Portland on business and was being driven to the Union station by his host when the latter's automobile collided with another machine.

The owner went to the police station to report the accident and remained inside so long Lord Cotton thought his friend had been arrested. He started to go to his "assistant," but mistook the police garage for the jail.

Cotton met two policemen in the garage and was arrested and booked on a charge of drunkenness and was lodged in a cell.

Four Irishmen were later given him as cell companions. His lordship objected to their chatter and a fight started. The results were four knockouts for the British peer and a few missing teeth and flattened noses for his victims. Lord Cotton was "rescued" by his friend after he had been in jail two hours and he boarded a later train for Toronto.
