

BOLO CLUB TO SUPPORT FITZGERALD

Bolton and Carroll Are Also Favored by Veterans; Cotterill Attacked

Former Mayor C. B. Fitzgerald's candidacy for the city council was unanimously approved, while former Mayor George F. Cotterill's candidacy for the same office was disapproved by the Bolo club at its meeting Thursday night.

With Fitzgerald, T. H. Bolton and John E. Carroll, candidates for reelection, received the unanimous endorsement of the club.

The first vote for Bolton showed a substantial margin in his favor. It was later made unanimous at the request of Councilman Philip Tindall, County Treasurer William A. Gaines and Charles H. Winters.

Disapproval of Cotterill's candidacy was voiced in a resolution which charged him with too much sympathy for radicalism.

The matter was presented by Philip Tworoger, who declared that a club composed of veterans of the civil war, the Spanish-American war and the world war should comment on Cotterill's record.

Tworoger, Stephen F. Chadwick and H. S. Hodgson were then named by Thomas J. L. Kennedy, president of the club, to draft the resolutions which were later adopted.

In them Cotterill is accused of having permitted, as mayor of the city, the carrying of a red flag in a "red socialist parade" in this city, May 1, 1912, and also with having permitted the production of a play by Hulet M. Wells and Sam Sadler, in which "loyalty to the flag was ridiculed."

JOHN GOES AWAY TO REMAIN SOME

Won't Have a Cent When He Gets to Leavenworth

Disdainfully, last night, John DeBodenski shook the dust of the city from his No. 11 heels.

He is not coming back. Fate has played him crool.

It was no fault of his that Judge Everett Smith, as penalty for carrying concealed weapons, said to John: "Borrow $10 and get out of town."

"All right," replied he. "Give me my gun."

"No," said the judge, emphatically. "Thus inconvenienced John nevertheless went out and, the borrowing was not his habit, he managed to raise the $10, returned with the money and, to his dismay, was given into the custody of Otto Seiffie.

Seiffie is a deputy sheriff. He took him to the depot and addressing the ticket agent, asked:

"When's the next train leave for over the mountains?"

"Seven-ten."

"How far can a man ride for $10?"

"To Leavenworth," the agent said.

"Here, John," ordered Seiffie. "Stand up here and buy a ticket to Leavenworth. You leave on the $10."

John protested:

"But the judge meant I was to have $10 cash to get along on. I won't have a dime when I get to Leavenworth."

His protestations did no good. John bought the ticket. The 7:10 pulled in. He climbed aboard.

"It's a swell how-de-do," he confided. "Here I go and spend a whole month studying law in the jail, and I get to be a pretty good attorney. And this is what happens when I was figuring on getting about a year in the can."

trust between those who appeared for the bill, and those who opposed it.

"I'm no financier," he said, "I'm no minister. I haven't any affairs in Japan to protect. I'm just one of those average fellows who has everything in the United States. It is this class that is being squeezed by Japanese competition, and I'm against those who are helping this foreign element to squeeze us."

WEDS SWEETHEART'S 'DOUBLE'

Here is the wedding of Lawrence Kelly and Dolly Green, 17-year-old Akron girl, (also shown above) at Denver, Colo., city jail. Kelly thought he was marrying Dolly's "double," Mildred Gardner, of Texas. City Chaplain Goodheart is shown performing the ceremony. After the wedding Dolly confessed that she and Mildred traded lives—names, sweetheart, friends and jobs—when they met in Texas last November and discovered their striking resemblance. Kelly is now in jail, in Colorado, on a forgery charge. When told of Dolly's confession, which annuls the ceremony, Kelly said he loved her and would wed her again when he is released. Dolly agrees.

FRENCH AFRAID OF U. S. 'GRAB'

PARIS, Feb. 25.—Fear that the United States will seize the French Antilles was roused here today by Senator Berenger.

Berenger, who represents the Antilles in the French senate, declared the islands are essential to America if the Monroe doctrine is to be upheld.

The Petit Bleu declared there was an American danger, asserting:

"Our American friends love us. They love us to the point of absorbing us."

Berenger issued his warning in an interview with the Petit Bleu in which he said:

"I am exceedingly happy that I have been re-elected from Guadeloupe. I am especially happy because it represents the attachment of the Antilles to France. I am opposed to the principle of separation which the United States would like to see implanted."

"Already they are in Haiti and Cuba. In order to apply fully their famous Monroe doctrine, it is necessary that they have us. However, the Antilles desire to remain French. They have no desire to surrender to the big trusts."

and Mexican ports.

"Official records show that 700 tons of morphine and cocaine were landed at one port in Japan last year via Vancouver. This sold for $50 an ounce f. o. b. Montreal. The part of it that was smuggled back to Vancouver totaled to addicts in that city at the rate of $250 an ounce.

"Dope is much cheaper in Vancouver than in Seattle. An amount that can be obtained for 25 cents in Vancouver, costs $1 in Seattle."

"Vancouver officials recently seized a great number of letters and telegrams from Vancouver addicts to their friends in Seattle, informing the latter of the difference in price and advising the Seattle addicts to move to Vancouver. As a consequence the British Columbia city is overrun with addicts from that city."

COWBOYS FIGHT COLLEGE MEN

FOOT COLLINS, Colo., Feb. 25.—Following a threatened invasion of Colorado and Wyoming cowboys to avenge a comrade's mistreatment at the hands of Colorado Agricultural college students here, this city was quiet today after a night of hostilities.

The trouble started over "Mustang Jack" Vermilya, veteran Montana cowpuncher, with a six-inch flowing mustache. "Mustang Jack" is wintering in Fort Collins.

College students captured him one night last week and cut off the tenuous pride of Montana. Last night "Mustang Jack," without his mustache, but with a large following of cowboys, gave battle to a score of students.

A broken jaw, fractured collar bone and internal injuries were among the casualties. Police reserves and the fire department responded.

"Mustang Jack" declares he has reinforcements coming from Wyoming ranches and preparations are being made for another skirmish.

REVEAL OLD MURDER HERE

Oklahoma, convicted slayer, gambler and gunman, was murdered with a hammer in a Japton noodle house when he attempted to extort money from the proprietor at the point of a gun, Detective C. C. Fortner and E. W. Yorris said Friday.

Kaneda's body, which was found in the woods, six miles south of Des Moines, January 29, was positively identified Thursday afternoon by Seattle and Portland Japs.

The detective's version of the murder is as follows:

Kaneda was killed May 23, 1920. The night previous to that he got $50 from the proprietor of the noodle house, after threatening him with a gun.

When he returned to repeat the extortion the next night, another Jap hit him over the head with a hammer.

Kaneda was greatly feared in Jap colonies along the Coast before his death as a shooting gunman.

BLOW AIMED AT CITY OWNERSHIP

House Passes Opposition Measure

OLYMPIA, Feb. 25.—Declared to be a blow aimed directly at municipal ownership, house bill No. 174, known as the certificate of necessity measure, was passed yesterday by a vote of 73 to 12.

The bill would make it necessary to obtain a certificate from the public service commission before a municipality could extend a municipal owned public service into a district served by a private corporation.

Those voting against the measure were Anderson, Gleason, Knapp, Lewis, McKinney, Morris, Hermann, J. H. Ryan, Bangor, Slapton, Spencer and Traas. It is thought that a more determined opposition to the bill will develop in the senate.

Representatives of cities throughout the state appeared here yesterday to fight the measure, which they declare would greatly restrict the activities of municipal light, power, traction and other publicly owned utilities.

MINERS' TRIAL MOVING SLOWLY

Brother of Two Victims Takes the Stand

BY J. F. BEAMAN
WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Feb. 25.—Thomas E. Felts, brother of two of the ten victims of the battle of Matewan, last May, today faced the 19 men being tried for the murders of Albert C. Felts.

Felts, as head of the detective agency whose evictions of striking coal miners prompted the fatal fight, was called to the stand by the state.

"Do you charge any of these defendants with taking a ring, or anything else, from your brother, Albert?" J. Coniff asked the witness.

"No, I don't say that they stole, positively, but I have information Sid Hatfield had a ring when he was locked in jail in Huntington, and he pawned the ring there," Felts said.

"Is that your brother, Albert?" Coniff demanded.

"It is very strong suspicion, but it is."

An attempt to insert the industrial issue was made by Coniff.

"The sole purpose of these evictions was to oust the people from their homes and make it so inconvenient for the men that they would have to return to work and the strike would be ended?" Coniff asked.

Strenuous objections were raised by state attorneys, and they were sustained by the court.

Albert Hoskins, one of the state's material witnesses, followed Felts on the stand.
