HELSINGFORS, March 10.—Repulsed after determined attempts to recapture the fortress of Kronstadt, bolshevik forces have withdrawn, leaving hundreds of bodies lying on the ice, according to advices received here today.

Conflicting reports were received regarding the situation in Petrograd. It was believed to be in the hands of the revolutionary except for the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul.

The revolt was spreading through Russia, marked especially by new uprisings in Moscow.

mind still wanders, but I have taken up New Thought and am conquering the fear that I was going insane. I'd rather be dead than be insane.

"There were many times when I thought I was going crazy. When they took me to the county jail, I wanted to take a bath. I got into the tub and I don't know how long it was that I sat there before I came to myself and realized the tub was running over and flooding the floor.

"That night one of the other girls loaned me a magazine. I tried to concentrate enough to read the first paragraph and remember it. But the only thing in my mind was the shooting and the thought that the man I loved so dearly, in spite of all his beatings, was gone, forever. I read that paragraph 100 times, but to this day I can't recall a line of it, or remember what it was about."

INDIAN FISHING RIGHTS UPHELD

Senate Passes Bill Over Governor's Veto

OLYMPIA, March 10.—Gov. Hart yesterday refused to keep the pledge that had been given to the Yakima Indians June 9, 1855, by Isaac I. Stevens, first governor of the state of Washington.

After both houses of the legislature had passed a bill protecting the rights of the Yakima Indians to fish at Prosser falls, Hart vetoed it with only a flimsy explanation for his action.

But the solemn covenant of the white man will not be made a "scrap of paper." The senate yesterday passed the bill over the governor's veto by a vote of 34 to 8, and the house is expected to follow suit today.

OLYMPIA, March 10.—Some of the grease has been rubbed off the divorce skids.

Hereafter it will be necessary to specify the various grounds upon which divorce is claimed.

Paper in Home Town Requests Debs' Freedom

Mrs. Eugene V. Debs

TERRA HAUTE, Ind., March 10.—Petitions asking amnesty for Eugene V. Debs and all political prisoners now confined in the United States are to be presented to President Harding.

Signature to these petitions are being collected by the Terra Haute Post. The Post says:

"You may not agree with Debs politically. Certainly the Terra Haute Post does not. But if you are fair-minded you cannot say that further imprisonment of these men and women is not woefully unjust."

Terra Haute is the home of the Debs family, and has been for many years.

Mrs. Debs awaits here the return of the socialist leader from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, where he was sent on a charge of violating the espionage act in a speech he made in Ohio during the war.

Recently she was denied the privilege of writing to her husband, or of receiving mail from him.

"But we think of each other constantly," she says. "We never can be actually separated."

FILES CHARGES AGAINST COPS

Father Says Boys Arrested Without Investigation

Charges that two motorcycle patrolmen, J. J. Kush and H. A. Holmes, used undue haste and poor discretion in arresting three youths in the Mount Baker Park district Monday night were not sustained today by Police Chief Searing.

Warren H. Greeley, father of two of the boys, laid his charges before Searing late Wednesday afternoon. He said that the boys were thrown into jail without an attempt being made to identify them and that they were not allowed to communicate with their distracted parents, who feared they had met with foul play.

The trio was arrested at 9:30 p. m. Monday on the Lake Washington blvd., after motorists had complained that suspicious characters were attempting to stop them.

Those arrested were: Joseph Paup, 18; Howard Greeley, 18, and Holden Greeley, 15.

According to the elder Greeley, the boys had been working on the family automobile, were clad in overalls and therefore did look "tough." They had gone down to the garage on the boulevard to get a can of paint and also to meet their father at the end of the Mount Baker car line and to walk home with him.

Greeley, who had the three boys with him to substantiate his story, declared that the officers drove up, seized the boys, snapped handcuffs on them and called the wagon, ignoring the plea of Paup that they be taken to their home, only one block away, so that they might establish their identity.

"That's the story all you birds pull," one of the officers is reported to have said, sneeringly.

At headquarters Paup pleaded with the booking officer to be allowed to telephone home, but his request was curtly turned down, according to Greeley.

There was wild anxiety in the two households when the boys failed to return home at a late hour. Mrs. Greeley said Wednesday that she was awake all night, frantic with anxiety.

Late Tuesday forenoon the three boys were released. It was not until then that their parents heard from them.

Police Chief Searing said Thursday that Greeley's story had not convinced him that the officers had acted unwisely. He said the boys were stopping automobiles, the probably as a prank and with no intention to commit robbery.

Searing said he had no intention of calling the officers "on the carpet."

Greeley is department manager for the Western Dry Goods Co. He has lived in Seattle for 20 years.

"We are peaceful, law-abiding citizens," he said to The Star Thursday, "and aside from the injustice to the boys and the worry it caused us, it has caused me considerable embarrassment among my business associates."

Greeley said Chief Searing admitted to him that a mistake had been made, that he intended to investigate and that he would question the officers.

Economy Friday

When "Economy Friday" was first started one definite rule was laid down for its conduct. And that rule was that whatever was offered for sale on "Economy Friday" must be marked at a lower price.

The merchandise might be broken lots, selected from regular stock and reduced in price, or it might be a special purchase offered at a notably low figure. But the price HAD TO BE LOWER—and that explains why "Economy Friday" values are always extraordinary.
