

THOUSANDS OF MINERS DESTITUTE

Relief Organizations Planning Aid to Starving in Alabama Coal Fields

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 21.—Relief organizations throughout the South were rushing plans today to aid the thousands of men, women and children who are destitute in the Alabama coal fields, following an unsuccessful strike. Estimates of the destitute range as high as 40,000.

Governor Kilby, to whom the Salvation Army and other charitable institutions appealed, was expected to announce plans for systematic relief work.

Brigadier Simonsen, commander of the "Dixie division" of the Salvation Army, estimated that 18,000 persons are facing starvation and that several thousand of these are already "absolutely destitute."

According to the operators, lack of demand for coal makes it impossible for them to provide work for the miners, who struck several months ago but called off their strike February 22 thru an arbitration agreement, with settlement of the issues in the hands of the governor. The latter decided against the miners on every point.

Defeated in the strike, their union food and clothing rations discontinued and re-employment denied them, most of the miners and their families are living in tent colonies, having been turned out of company-owned houses. Until April 9 they were furnished regular benefits by the United Mine Workers of America. Then the union ceased this on the ground that the strike had been officially ended several weeks previously.

"I am informed that thousands of miners and their families have become absolutely destitute since their benefits were cut off," Simonsen said. "We are already supporting some families, altho no relief work on a large scale has yet been done. We have asked the governor to suggest how we can best assist and are ready to cooperate in any way he desires to the full extent of our ability."

We Are Here to Serve the People of This Community

With power developed far in advance of demand Seattle should call the attention of industry everywhere to the wealth of raw materials and the possibilities of a transpacific market for manufactured products.

The Manufacturer must have dependable power and we have brought that industrial essential to Seattle's doors, and to the doors of 145 other towns, cities and hamlets in the Puget Sound region.

There are only four important factors in the establishment of industry—RAW MATERIALS, LABOR AND LABOR CONDITIONS, MARKETS AND DEPENDABLE POWER.

Of these the least important, from a cost standpoint, is power; from the standpoint of dependability it is one of the most important.

An analysis of manufacturing costs was made by the United States Census Bureau in 1914. That analysis covered more than 275,000 separate industries. They were examined in detail, in groups and by averages. In the average it was found that the cost of raw materials was 56.4 per cent of the total cost of the manufactured article, and that energy—fuel and power—was only 2.8 per cent of the total cost.

So, while this figure seems to be small and unimportant, and is, the dependability of power is another matter.

We have power capacity in excess of all demands, and IT IS DEPENDABLE POWER, ALWAYS ON TAP.

If you are our customer all you have to do is to press a button or turn a switch, and your machinery moves or light floods your place of business. We have invested Millions on our faith in Seattle and the Puget Sound country so that we might be able to serve you satisfactorily.

TRAIN YOUR HAIR AS AN ACTRESS DOES

No class of people devote as much time to beauty as do actresses, and no class must be more careful to retain and develop their charms. Inquiry develops the information that in hair care they find it dangerous to shampoo with any makeshift hair cleanser. The majority say that to have the best hair wash and scalp stimulator at a cost of about three cents, one need only get a package of centhair from your druggist; dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply to it all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After its use the hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are quickly dissolved and entirely disappear when you rinse the hair. After this your hair will be so fluffy it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.
