STRAND
BRYANT WASHBURN is the popular star who comes to the Strand today in "Burglar Proof," his latest comedy drama.
This is a story of a prosperous young man who is so tight in money matters that they call him "Burglar Proof," meaning that only a charge of nitro-glycerine is able to shake his dollars from him. But Cupid finds the combination and effects a complete change. How this is accomplished makes a highly entertaining story.
Lois Wilson is his leading woman.

CLEMMER
In Chicago last summer, the Elks were in convention, and they wanted the prettiest girl in the Middle West to be their queen. From some twenty thousand photographs submitted they selected Gertrude Olmstead, a La Salle high school girl. Miss Olmstead is now playing in pictures. She is at the Clemmer this week in "The Big Adventure."

Pictures of a number of the entries in The Star-Universal $1,000 motion picture actress contest are also being shown.

BLUE MOUSE

How a fascinating enchantress of the tropics wins the love of John Culbertson, scientist-explorer, even tho she had attempted to delay him on an important mission for his government, is told in "The Leopard Woman," the pictureization of Stewart Edward White's thrilling novel which is being shown at the Blue Mouse this week.

House Peters is the featured player.

COLISEUM

"The Kentuckians," a screen adaptation of the popular old novel by John Fox, Jr., is the attraction which opened today at the Coliseum. It is a story of a sturdy, ambitious mountaineer, of a distinguished son of the Blue Grass state and of a governor's beautiful daughter.
The leading roles are played by Monte Blue, Wilfred Lytell and Diana Allen.

LIBERTY

Owing to popular demand, George Beban, clever character actor, is to appear before audiences at the Liberty four times each day, instead of twice as he originally planned. Beban's latest film play, "One Man

Queer Combination Provides Fun in Washburn Picture, "Burglar Proof"

Bryant Washburn is featured at the Strand in "Burglar Proof," the story of a tightwad who reforms.

"in a Million," is being shown, and preceding the picture Beban comes out onto the stage and gives a splendid talk. He has a wonderful personality and the Liberty audiences give him a big hand after each appearance.

COLONIAL

Laughter, drama and thrills are admirably combined in "Colorado," the film play now at the Colonial, with Frank Mayo as the star. This photodrama is based on the famous stage success by Augustus Thomas, and shows the popular star in one of the most likable characters in which he has appeared for some time. It gives him opportunity for fine acting and also for the display of his physical strength.

REX

Gertrude Atherton wrote "Don't Neglect Your Wife," the screen story which is being shown at the Rex this week. The noted author has woven the plot around true characters taken from the San Francisco social world.

Mabel Julienne Scott, Lewis S. Stone, Charles Clary, Kate Lester, Richard Tucker and Darrell Foss compose the all-star cast in the picture.

Forty First National releases have been sold to a Buenos Aires exhibitor. Thus South Americans will see latest Parisian gowns displayed by Norma and Constance Talmadge.

Walter S. Wessling, distribution manager, says that even small towns are starting the custom of running pictures for extended periods.

"TONY" MORENO
Antonio Moreno will play another athletic part in his next production. For the past three weeks he has been in strict training at the Los Angeles Athletic club.

Florence Lawrence, who retired five years ago, has returned to the screen. Her first picture is called "Unfoldment."
Forrest Stanley plays opposite May Allison in "Big Game."

BETTY COMPSON

IN "THE ORDEAL"
Betty Compsom, who recently signed a contract to appear exclusively in Paramount pictures, will have for her next starring vehicle an original by Somerset Maugham, noted English author, entitled "The Ordeal," according to the announcement by Jesse L. Lasky, Paramount's vice president. The picture will mark Miss Compsom's second appearance as a Paramount star. Her first production "At the End of the World," is now in work under the direction of Penrhyn Stanlaws, who will direct "The Ordeal."

WRITING BOOK ON PICTURE INDUSTRY

An authoritative book on the growth of the motion picture industry is in course of preparation by Joseph de Grasse and Ida May Park, who in private life is Mrs. de Grasse. Both have literally grown up with the film industry and the book, when published, will reveal a number of hitherto untold angles of the "game." It is said, Mr. de Grasse directed Charles Ray in "The Old Swimming Hole," and Ida May Park produced Bessie Love's "The Midlanders."

Colleen Moore, John Bowers and David Butler have the leading roles in King Vidor's production of "The Sky Pilot."
