SHE IS 101 YEARS OF AGE, BUT HAS NEVER WORN WOOLEN UNDIES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—Sage advice against sheer silks and low-cut shirtwaists generally is expected from the lips of the aged. But Mrs. Mary Martin Davis, on whose birthday cake the 101st candle burned today, reversed the order of things. "I never wore a woolen undergarment in my life," Mrs. Davis proudly declared. And she added that for the last 12 years no steam has blown thru the radiator in her apartment.

Girl Saves Father From Death in Lake

TACOMA, July 26.—Lillian Batsch, 18, saved her father, John Batsch, of Tacoma, from drowning in Lake Spanaway Sunday. She was swimming beside him when he became helpless in the water.

News from National Convention

A letter received this morning from Cleveland, Ohio, gives some interesting news of the Washington delegation at the national convention of the Business and Professional Women's club. On Monday, July 18, Miss Lulu Fairbanks, state president, was invited to attend the dinner given at the Country club, of Cleveland, in honor of Mrs. Lena Lake Forrest, the national president, and the national executive board, and Miss Anna Marie Brueggerhoff was an especially invited guest at the Ohio state convention's banquet. Miss Brueggerhoff was the only club publicity chairman who was honored by an invitation to the Press club luncheon on Tuesday, July 19. At the state luncheon the Washington delegation selected Mrs. Dorothy Simon, delegate from the Women's Commercial club of Seattle, to represent Washington on the national nominating committee, which will select new officers for the coming year. One of the most interesting features of the reading aloud of the greetings received by national presidents was the deluge of live telegrams from the state of Washington.

Criticism—First Aid to Intolerance. Do We Not Sometimes Work It Overtime?

BY CYNTHIA GREY

Criticism may be good for the soul, but it is not for all of us to offer it. It's a dangerous tool to deliberately start out to criticize another person. Dangerous and likely to be unjust, for so few of us know the exact facts concerning any life or any action. We may misconstrue the most innocent intentions, the most unconsciously sharp speeches. It's so difficult, too, to rid ourselves of all personal bias and to be perfectly fair, even in our disagreements. We find it so hard to separate persons from issues and keep perfect friendliness to one, while fighting the other if need be.

"Why, if I spoke to her I should use my shirk without losing self-respect."

"Why, if I spoke to her I should use my shirk without losing self-respect."

"But why hypocritical? Why shun one who, tho thought to be wrong in decisions, was yet honestly convinced that her way was the only right one and was only showing sincerity of purpose and bravery of effort? Why 'detect' one for mere disagreement, if that disagreement be an honest one?"

Of the world's forces, intolerance has always been the one most productive of evil. Men used to put to torture those who differed with what they thought was right. Even in these days intolerance shows its ugly head in politics, in social and economic discussions, even in religion. It's true we can be so over-tolerant that we have no settled convictions of our own. Any overworked virtue turns to evil.

It's a good thing, when we are tempted to criticize, to forbear. Let others do it. There will always be enough to stand ready to take up the burden. Here's one place where MISS GREY will receive readers of this department at The Star office on Tuesdays from 9 to 4, and at other times by appointment. Please do not come on other days than Tuesday unless you have an appointment with Miss Grey, as unexpected visitors interfere with her writing.

Will an airtight sealed barrel, containing air at 70 pounds pressure, be more buoyant in water than the same barrel containing air at normal pressure? P. R. Air, like any other substance, has weight. The more air there is in the barrel the more the barrel will weigh and the less will be its buoyancy. Therefore a barrel containing no air (a vacuum) would be the most buoyant.

What is Jack Dempsey's present address? M. P. Had addressed to him in care of his trainer, Jack Kearns, Hotel Belmont, New York city, will reach him.

When was John McCormack born? SELMA. John McCormack was born in Athlone, Ireland, June 14, 1884.

When is the next eclipse of the moon? L. R. There will be a partial eclipse of the moon October 16, 1921. There will be two more partial eclipses in 1921. There will be no total eclipses in the next two years.

The first locomotive ever run in America made its trial trip in 1829.

Half a million persons were unable to see "The Wayfarer" in New York and almost as large a number could not gain admission in Columbus, Ohio, because of the enormous demand for tickets. So heavy has the demand become for tickets here that three more ticket offices have been opened for your convenience. Make sure to get yours early.

The supreme mission of "THE WAYFARER" is a spiritual one. If this Passion Pageant shall guide pilgrims of the night to Him who is the Light of the World, its mission will have been accomplished. The writer is humbly grateful to the Divine Author that "THE WAYFARER" has inspired tens of thousands of discouraged hearts.
