HEALTH CHIEFS CLOSE SESSION
Talk Water Purification and See Pictures

Health officers from 30 counties of Washington were present at the final meeting of the county health officers' annual convention at the Hotel Washington Wednesday. More than 100 physicians of Seattle and the state were registered at the convention.

During the Wednesday afternoon session water purification and civil engineering in connection with good health were discussed by J. De Ruyter Blackwell, consulting engineer of Seattle, and Kenneth Shibley, civil engineer of San Francisco. Shibley and Blackwell recommended that all communities install filtration plants rather than expend large sums for miles of pipe line which in the end do not carry purified water. Motion pictures and a address entitled "How Life Begins," by Dr. Charles V. Herdlika, of the United States public health service, closed the session.

MRS. MAX WEST'S ADVICE ON THE CARE OF CHILDREN

Mrs. Max West, United States children's bureau expert and mother of five children, will answer questions of Northwest mothers on child welfare. Includes a stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply. The most interesting questions will be answered thru this column twice a week. Address: MRS. MAX WEST, THE STAR, SEATTLE.

Will you please give a formula to use on baby's thumb to stop thumb-sucking? I think, however, I cannot do this. Babies will suck anything however bitter, apparently, after they have once got the habit established.

A friend of mine used red pepper tea with some success. I think, however, the best remedy is to make a thumbless mitt of some harsh material like drill, or denim, long enough to pass the elbow and be fastened to the sleeve with safety pins. The baby will not like the taste and feel of the stiff cloth and will soon grow discouraged. The mitt should be put on at bedtime and naptime, but should be taken off every now and then, so that he will not forget to use both hands for all his little enterprises, and of course, when he is fed.

I have so many questions about the feeding at the end of the first year that I am repeating the diet list here, although it was but recently published.

6 a. m.—Plain milk, warmed, in a cup or from a bottle.

9 a. m.—One to two ounces of strained fruit juice, diluted with water.

10 a. m.—One to three tablespoons of well-cooked cereal, with milk. Piece crisp toast and small cup of milk to drink.

2 p. m.—Small cup strained vegetable soup, or tablespoon of strained green vegetable, seasoned with a little salt. Beef juice, one tablespoon, with one tablespoon of rice or barley. Cup of milk.

6 p. m.—Same as 10 a. m.

The hours for the meals may be somewhat varied, according to the convenience of the mother, but the only meal at which the baby has other things than milk and cereals should be in the middle of the day, and the intervals should be observed. At this age the baby may sleep between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m., then

Beg Pardon!

The Star never intentionally prints an untrue statement or makes an unjust charge. But our reporters are human, and they don't see everything they write about. Whenever an error creeps into The Star, we will be very glad to correct it, and we will thank the friends who call it to our attention.

Tuesday The Star published an item regarding the arrest of a real estate man who had been charged with fraud. The word "Reactor" appeared in the caption. The Seattle Real Estate association, member of a nation-wide organization, now furnishes the advice that "Reactor" is a copyrighted word of their organization and cannot be used unless the person referred to is a member of their association. The man arrested is not a member.

THEATRES

WILKES DRAMA IS POPULAR
"The Big Game," a drama of suspense, thrills and comedy, is proving excellent entertainment for patrons of The Wilkes this week. The play has an unusual theme that holds interest and it is well acted. The staging of the piece is most artistic.

Alice Elliott, in the role of a French-Canadian girl, is giving a delightful performance, quite the best thing she has done since joining the Wilkes company. Fred Dunham, Forrest Taylor, Arthur Belasco, Harry Leland, John Nickerson, Thomas Ethier, Anne Berryman and Vivian Moore are others who share in the acting honors. The play will continue for the week with the usual matinees.
