GOLDEN CROPS IN YAKIMA'S VALLEY

Greatest Harvest in Its History Is Under Way

In line with its steadfast policy to promote the interests of the entire state, rather than of Seattle solely, The Star has sent Ralph J. Benjamin on a tour of the East Side. He is going to tell Star readers about the bumper grain and fruit crops that are now being marketed, and about conditions generally in Eastern Washington. His articles will be timely, readable and informative. Here is the second—Editor.

By Ralph J. Benjamin
YAKIMA, Sept. 20.—Another record breaker! Harvesting of the greatest crop in the history of the Yakima valley is under way.

Five thousand carloads more of fruit, vegetables, grain, hay, live stock, live stock products and dairy products, will leave this valley this year than in 1920. Best estimates obtainable here now indicate that the valley will ship 46,000 cars this year. Last year the total was 35,487 cars. In 1915, the banner year for prices, the valley shipped 33,524 cars.

The value of this year's crop is expected to be about $40,000,000. In 1919 the valley farmers got $45,000,000, but the production has greatly increased since then, the prices have dropped.

13,500 CARS OF APPLES THIS YEAR!

Fruit leads the field in this valley, and apples hold the top rank of all. It is estimated that the Yakima valley will ship 13,500 carloads of apples alone this year. The peach crop, which has just begun to recover well from a disastrous freeze of a few years ago, is estimated at 1,200 cars. The pear crop is set at 1,250 cars, melons, 350 cars; plums and prunes, 140 cars, and mixed crops, 250. There were 125 cars of cherries.

More than 2,000,000 pounds of wool already has been marketed at a price of 10 1/2 cents a pound. Six hundred cars of mutton and spring lamb have been shipped out—and they brought the valley $50,000.

These figures mean prosperity—lots of it—for the Yakima valley. More than 4,000 hop and fruit pickers are here now working in the fields and orchards. Their wages run from $3 to $9 a day. And, the newspapers here are advertising for fruit pickers every day.

The potato crop means still more prosperity. It will amount to 4,000 cars valued at $2,160,000. Cattle and hogs are scarce this year, but they will bring in more millions.

Are the city dwellers being stung on the price of produce from this valley? Do the city retailers and middlemen gouge the town folk? Maybe, but have a look at these few figures before drawing conclusions. The farmers here got 65 cents to $1 a crate for peaches, and from $1.75 to $2.00 a box for pears. Add the freight and cost of handling to these prices, and the city prices don't look so high.

The valley is hard at work. Everybody's busy. There is no unemployment problems here now. There is considerable building, and much planning for new construction. Prosperity. That's what it is. The entire Yakima valley has got it.

BIG CITIES BID KEENLY FOR TRADE

Not only is this one of the greatest farming centers in the state, but it is the center of keenest competition between Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane and Portland. Salesmen for wholesale houses in all four cities meet here. Portland is making a strong bid for the business of this district. It has already captured much of the trade just to the south. Spokane is very much alive in the field. Seattle and Tacoma are fighting a hard battle for business here.

Businessmen here have been quick to realize the keenness of the competition. And, Yakima has profited thereby.

Winona Wilcox Says:

As a Spender Fatty Was Tragic Failure. Had Never Trained for Spending. Like Most of Us in That Respect. Stepped on the Gas; Ended in Wreck.

By Winona Wilcox
Author of "Confessions of a War Bride," "Confessions of a Bride" and "Letters to Lovers."

MONKEY stands out as the means of Fatty Arbuckle's undoing.

It got him into a fatal coil, maybe it got him out—that is still to be determined.

But no amount of money can wipe out the stigma that attaches to his name.

It is platitudeous to say that had Arbuckle continued to live on his former wage of $10 a week, he never would have been able to supply the essentials to a booze party with a murder finale.

As a money-maker, Arbuckle was a success.

As a spender, the event proves him a failure!

Like many another man, his capacity for amassing riches exceeded his ability to get rid of them. There he had no originality. His methods were as old as Babylon and Tyre.

TRAINING FOR SPENDING

Arbuckle was in a way trained for the movie; he was an actor before he became a film star.

Most persons go into training for earning, but whoever heard of anybody going into training for spending?

"When I get rich I will have this or that." Thus we all build castles in Spain and furnish them. "I will have! I will have! I will possess!"

Everybody plans in the same way, and then before they know it, as soon as the wealth is acquired, it possesses them. It determines what they do.

DEADLY FALLACY.

Now who would trust a man to run a high-powered auto until he had been taught how to do so?

Who would face the perils of the open sea, alone in a yacht, without knowing how to steer? Would any sane person undertake to control an airplane without instruction?

Of course not! But everybody feels perfectly competent to take possession of a huge fortune and to manage it at a moment's notice.

Wealth is the highest-powered invention of man.

A few of the abnormally prudent escape trouble when they handle a high-powered fortune. Many are like Arbuckle. They step on the gas at the first opportunity, hit it up, and wreck themselves and run down others.

PRODIGAL SPENDING

We are accustomed to refer to the miser as "money mad." That is a mistake. Money madness consists not so much in the getting and keeping as in prodigal spending.

"What will he do with it?" we ask breathlessly when we hear that a friend has come into a nice inheritance or has achieved a startling business success. We should reverse our question and make it read:

"What will his money do with him?"

Only when a tragedy of riotous spending shocks the country do those who envy the rich realize that sudden possession of wealth is to most men like a plunge into the current of Niagara.

Union Bargaining O. K., Says Board

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Collective bargaining by railway unions with railroads had been approved by the United States railroad labor board today.

In a decision handed down by the board on a petition filed by the Pennsylvania system it was declared that the railroad must deal with labor unions as organizations.

The Pennsylvania, in its petition, "insisted" that it be granted the right to deal directly with its employees instead of with outside labor representatives.

The road was handed a sharp rebuke by the board, which charged that a "campaign of misstatements had been waged" against the judicial body.

DR. DURAND IS INSANE, CHARGE

Citizens File Affidavits; He Threw Rocks at Home

EVERETT, Sept. 20.—An affidavit signed by a dozen citizens of Everett, charging Dr. W. S. Durand, Everett physician, recently acquitted on an insanity charge, with being mentally unsound was filed Monday.

This comes as a result of Dr. Durand's actions since the day of his acquittal. For two days he remained at the hospital, then began astounding the citizens with peculiar actions. He was placed in jail Sunday night, after throwing rocks thru the windows of his former home, where his wife, who is making plans to sue for separate maintenance, is now living. Those signing the affidavit are:

Stricken in Soft Drink House; Dies
